FEARS OF SOVIET OCCUPATION continued in Czechoslovakia today as showdown meeting with Soviet leaders drew near. Rumors were fanned by Russian army manoeuvres near Czech frontiers. HOSPITAL CONTROVERSY

'Don't Change Agnew Report'

Sharp Warning From Loffmark

By JIM HUME

Health Minister Ralph Loffmark this morning told the Regional Hospital District Board to forget plans to build a 650-bed hospital near Elk Lake.

In a carefully-worded statement the minister avoids direct reference to the Elk Lake proposal and to the priorities committee of the district board.

But his language leaves no doubt as to the intent of his message.

"The Agnew-Peckham consultants studied the hospital needs of the capital region in depth for a year," he said.

"Undoubtedly a satisfactory answer to the location of the facilities may not meet with universal acceptance; nevertheless, it should be kept in mind that the report recommends an arrangement which seems to provide adequate solution."

The Agnew report recommended that extended care beds be the number one priority in the area. It also recommended the building of a new acute care hospital on the grounds of St. Ann's academy to be administered by the staff of St. Joseph's Hospital plus a 200-bed acute care hospital in the Elk Lake area.

The priorities committee startled regional officials three weeks ago by announcing the virtual abandonment of the Agnew-Peckham plan in favor of one major hospital near Elk Lake.

ENDORSATION

Mr. Loffmark was specific in his endorsation of the overall program recommended by the Toronto-based consultant firm.

"The province feels that the recommendations of the Agnew report provides logical answers to the major questions of priorities and location of hospital facilities in the capital region

"The government agrees in particular with the report's recommednation of a high priority for construction of extended hospital care units. I am pleased that the Regional Hospital District Board also concurs in this regard and is currently developing proposals along these lines.

"Adequate provision for extended care units should relieve pressure on acute beds.

"In view of the fact that considerably more time is required for the preparation of plans for acute hospital facilities than for extended hospital care facilities, it has been recommended that bylaws be presented in two stages — the first to finance the cost of extended hospital care units and the second for the acute hospital construction and renovaton programs.

"While there has been general agreement in respect to the priority for extended care constructin, I am concerned about the proposals in recent news statments that the major recommendations of the Agnew, Peckham report regarding acute care facilities be so greatly altered. This appears to be causing considerable public unrest in various parts of the Capital Region.

LONG-TERM GUIDE

"It should be remembered that the Agnew survey was required by the municipalities of the area on the grounds that an impartial, long-term guide could be produced for hospital planning in the entire area, and thereby ensuring public support, which is essential for an early commencement of construction.

"The Agnew, Peckham consultants studied the hospital needs of the Capital Region in depth for a year. Undoubtedly, a satisfactory answer to the location of facilities may not meet with universal acceptance; nevertheless, it should be kept in mind that the report recomends an arrangement which seems to provide an adequate solution.

"In the report were major recommendations with regard to acute hospital care. The three acute care hospitals concerned have long standing approvals-in-principle from the provincial government to proceed with construction projects and renovations.

"It should be made clear to the residents of the Capital Region the concern of the province that the development of acute care beds could be further delayed by current proposals to depart from the major recommendations of the report."

TED KENNEDY NOT RUNNING

BOSTON (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said today that for personal reasons it would be "impossible" for him to run for vice-president this fall.

"Under normal circumstances such a possibility would be a high honor and a challenge to further public service. But for me, this year, it is impossible," Kennedy said. (See earlier story Page 12.)

KENNEDY
. . . surviving son

"My reasons are purely personal. They arise from the change in my personal situation and responsibilities as a result of the events of last month," he said in obvious reference to the slaying of his brother, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York.

"I know that the members of the Democratic party will understand these reasons without further elaboration," he said in a statement released by his Boston office.

The only surviving son of the Kennedy family said he had informed the Democratic presidential candidates and the Democratic convention chairman of his decision which, he said, was "final, firm, and not subject to further consideration."

The 36-year-old senator added, "I believe, however, that there are certain vital foreign and domestic policies our party must pursue if it is to be successful in the coming election and is to solve our nation's problems. I will be speaking out on these issues in my capacity as United States senator in the future."

Kennedy's brother, Robert, was slain last month in Los Angeles following his victory in California's presidential primary.

New Attack Launched By Nigeria on Biafra

LAGOS (AP) — Fighting has broken out between Nigerian federal forces and those of the secessionist Biafra regime on the road between Onitsha and Enugu, Radio Biafra claimed today.

The radio report said federal troops launched an attack from Onitsha, a major port city on the Niger River about 300 miles east of Lagos, the federal capital. The broadcast indicated the federals were trying to clear a supply route to Enugu about 65 miles to the east. Enugu is the former secessionist capital captured by the federals.

Biafrans claimed the federals were repelled near Abagana, 12 miles east of Onitsha, where last March the Biafrans cut the route to Enugu that the federals had held since October.

LAGOS (Reuters) — Federal Nigeria and Biafra agree on a "relief corridor" into the breakaway state, but still disagree on its supervision, Radio Biafra said in a broadcast monitored here today.

BEGUILING pleas failed to convince 14-month-old Dee Steffensen that the water wasn't wet at Vancouver's Third Beach. Gingerly lifting her toes from sea wet sand, Dee makes tracks for mother while Elaine Koochin and June Osland coax in vain to get Dee in for another salt water romp. (CP Wirephoto.)

DETAILS SECRET

Mail Talks Stalled On Job Conditions

OTTAWA (CP)—A secrecy lid was clamped on the postal strike mediation talks early today by apparent agreement among the three main participants. But it was obvious to observers that complete agreement was not yet in sight.

Judge Rene Lippe, the federal mediator, spent more than 12 hours Thursday in closed-door talks with the chief negotiators for both sides. Informants said the sole topic was non-monetary items revolving around working conditions.

Douglas Love, negotiator for the government's treasury board, skipped out of the talks at 12:15 a.m. EDT today, avoiding waiting reporters.

Romeo Mathieu, Quebec organizer for the United Packinghouse Workers Union who has been called in to argue the postal unions' case, declined to answer specific questions.

"We had a free exchange," he said. "There was nothing negative exchanged."

REACH CRUCIAL POINT

Judge Lippe said the talks "are now at a crucial point on non-pay items."

"We had a good day," he added, but refused to elaborate. Mr. Love and Mr. Mathieu were scheduled to go into separate sessions today with their respective negotiating teams. Another mediation meeting with the judge was tentatively set for 8 o'clock tonight but could start earlier if both sides agree.

Earlier, officials of the Council of Postal Unions said they expected "good news" from Thursday's talks. But this optimism apparently fell foul of a long government reply to the unions' proposals on working conditions, laid down Tuesday.

Both government and union sources said the issue of working conditions is very complex. So far the mediation talks had dealt with generalities and not one specific item had been settled.

On Tuesday the union council presented a massive set of proposals based on a conciliation board report into post office work rules.

Bomb Wrecks Saigon Press

SAIGON (UPI) — A commando team of three men and two young women destroyed the offices of a Saigon newspaper today with a powerful bomb placed under presses used to print psychological warfare leaflets for the U.S. government.

The bomb had a one-minute triggering mechanism, giving the commandos and the 20 people in the Asia Daily News building just enough time to escape before the blast leveled the three-storey building in the Chinese district of Cholon.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Agreement was reached today to end a seven-week telephone workers' strike across Newfoundland at midnight Sunday.

Chicago Bombing

CHICAGO (UPI) — The second bomb in two weeks blasted open the door of the Mexican government's downtown tourist office early today—the 12th anniversary of Fidel Castro's attack on Moncada military barracks that launched the Cuban revolution.

U.S. Must Apologize

MOSCOW (UPI) — North Korea's military attache in Moscow called a news conference today and announced his government would never release the crew of the U.S.S. Pueblo until the U.S. apologizes "for their crimes."

Government 'Falls Apart' In Bolivia

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — The government of President Rene Barrientos fell apart Thursday night after the revelation that his interior minister was an ally of Fidel Castro and had smuggled a copy of Ernesto (Che) Guevara's captured diary to Cuba.

The Social Democratic party quit the four-party government coalition earlier in the day, withdrawing its four members of the cabinet. The other 12 cabinet members submitted their resignations.

Military leaders met in an atmosphere of crisis as unrest mounted around Barrientos, the former commander of the air force. A senator was arrested.

The president told reporters rumors of a coup were "unfounded."

The president's troubles started when the Castro government published the diary which Guevara kept during his abortive guerrilla campaign in Bolivia last year.

The Bolivian government seized the diary after its troops killed the Cuban guerrilla leader and planned to sell it to foreign publishers, but Castro gave it to selected foreign publishers free, killing the sale for the Bolivians.

An army investigation revealed that Interior Minister Antonio Arguedas had slipped the diary out to Castro, and Arguedas and his brother fled to Chile. Granted asylum there Wednesday night, the former minister told a news conference he was a Marxist humanist and an admirer of Castro.

ON CZECH FRONTIER

Soviets Boost Army Pressure

(Times News Services)

MOSCOW—The Soviets charged today that Western-encouraged Czech forces are on the verge of a "call for a coup d'etat" to overthrow 20 years of Communism and stepped up the giant Russian military manoeuvres on Czechoslovakia's frontier.

Both sides seemed to be entrenching themselves deeper and closing escape exits as they moved toward a showdown.

In Prague, Czech communist party leader Alexander Dubcek pledged he will win more freedom of action for Czechoslovakia from Kremlin leaders in their impending confrontation.

As he spoke the official Czech army magazine Obrana Lidu said demands by the Soviet Union, Poland, East Germany, Hungary and Bulgaria that Czechoslovakia reverse its liberalization course "amount to a call for moral suicide" and "Czechoslovakia is not going to commit suicide."

MORE IMPUDENT

The official Kremlin communist organ Pravda charged that the new Czech reformers, "encouraged from the west, are getting more impudent step by step . . . first criticism of the socialist structure, next the call for democratic socialism and finally a factual call for a coup d'etat, the purpose of which is revenge for the revolution of 1948 and restoration of the bourgeois structure."

The hardening of positions came against an ominous backdrop of an increase in Soviet "special manoeuvers" along Russia's 1,000-mile western frontier that includes Czechoslovakia.

The Red Army newspaper Red Star announced the huge forces in the exercise were escalating their activity and had been joined by anti-aircraft units equipped with anti-missile missiles and air force units.

Diplomatic sources, concerned over the march of events and with no sign of the announced Soviet-Czech summit meeting, said, "It can't go on like this much longer."

At least three members of the 11-man Soviet politburo were known to be still in Moscow five days after both sides announced the politburo would meet the Czechoslovak party presidium in Czechoslovakia.

But the biggest Soviet party guns — General Secretary Leonid Brezhnev, chief ideologist Mikhail Suslov and Andrei Kirilenko, in charge of Russian federation party organizations — disappeared from public view along with five other politburo members.

They could well be en route to the secret conference site, most porbably the Slovak city of Kosice, or already there.

Dubcek said he did not intend to push his differences with Russia to an open break, but added, "We know what we want."

As he spoke the official Czech army newspaper in a fiery editorial accused Russia of trying to make Czechoslovakia end its reform program and stated "The Czech people are not going to commit suicide."

'UNANIMOUS'

He said the 11-member presidium is unanimous in its attitude towards the talks with the Russians.

The Czech press also launched a full-scale campaign to rally support of the people for the reform leadership as it prepared for a showdown meeting with the Kremlin's leaders. Thousands of citizens signed a petition urging Dubcek to stand firm.

The petition, published in a special extra edition of the newspaper Literarni Listy, was addressed to the 11-man Czech presidium "on the eve of your meeting with the politburo of the Soviet party."

STANFIELD

Tories Eye Special Session

By JOYCE FAIRBAIRN
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield said today Parliament would have to be called if progress is not made soon in negotiations to settle the postal strike.

The Tory leader said he was reluctant to make any comments which might prejudice the discussions.

But he accused the government of taking a "pretty casual attitude" for some time in the collective bargaining process with the council of postal unions.

He noted that no wage offer had been made by the government until the strike was inevitable.

"This raises the question of whether the government has been bargaining in good faith and effectively," Mr. Stanfield said.

"If progress is not made quickly there doesn't seem to be any alternative but for the government to take its responsibility and call parliament," he said.

He would not indicate what he felt to be a crucial time limit to the nine-day strike which, he pointed out, has a legal stoppage.

But he noted that the hardships involved in a nation-wide strike would increase substantially, particularly for Canadians who could least afford them.

VIET PEACE LEADER GETS 5-YEAR TERM

From Reuters—AP

SAIGON (CP) — South Vietnamese peace campaigner Truong Dinh Dzu was sentenced today to five years hard labor without appeal in a 90-minute military court hearing for advocating peace talks with the Viet Cong.

Dzu, runner up in the presidential elections last year, was arrested in May while in hospital. He was found guilty under a 1965 law making it an offence to commit actions or utter words tending to undermine the anti-Communist spirit of the South Vietnamese people or armed forces.

The charge against Dzu was that he advocated talks with the national Liberation Front, political wing of the Viet Cong, in interviews with an American news agency and a British newspaper.

Communism and neutralism are outlawed by South Vietnam's constitution, and the government refused to consider talks with the Viet Cong.

The verdict and the sentence were not unexpected since the same court Thursday gave a five-year sentence to the 23-year-old publisher of South Vietnam's leading student newspaper for publishing articles the government said were pro-Communist.

Last week the same court gave death sentences in absentia to 10 leaders of the new Alliance of National, Democratic and Peace Forces, which Hanoi is boosting to attract non-Communist support in South Vietnam.

. . . CZECH SPLIT DENIED

It pleaded with the presidium to tell the Russians "we need freedom, peace and time to become better and more reliable allies than before ... act, explain, but unanimously defend the path we have entered and which we do not intend to leave alive."

There was some concern at reports Dubcek had been outvoted 6 to 5 in the presidium on some key issues, but both the CTK news agency and Dr. Josef Tichy, the official party spokesman, denied the reports an as "absolute fabrication."

The rumors were fed by the decision Thursday of the policy-making party presidium to remove Lt.-Gen. Vaclav Prchlik a chief target of Soviet attacks, from a key position in the party central committee.

The presidium ordered Prchlik back to army service and abolished the political department of the party which he headed.

APPEASE KREMLIN

This was an apparent move to conciliate the Kremlin.

Reliable sources said they understood the decision in Prchlik's case had not the unanimous backing of the 11-member presidium.

Russia maintained its verbal assaults against reformist Czechoslovakia with a charge that prominent figures there, including Communist party members, were propagating the hatred concept of "democratic socialism."

A 1,500-word article in the main Communist party newspaper Pravda by top commentator Yuri Zhukov also called Czechoslovakia's revered first-president, Tomas Masaryk, "the founder and chief ideologist of Bourgeois Czechoslovakia."

Moscow observers saw charges by Pravda that some members of the Prague leadership supported the views of anti-socialist elements as bringing the Kremlin's fire close to Czech party chief Alexander Dubcek.

Since Russia announced Monday that it would send its 11-man politburo to Czechoslovakia for a meeting with the Prague presidium several leading Prague officials have been sharply criticized in Moscow for wanting to put foreign policy on a pro-Western path.

The attacks, coupled with troop exercises in an area of the Ukraine bordering on Czechoslovakia, were regarded in Moscow as an indication that the government would not compromise in its opposition to Prague liberalization.

PRESS HARD

Observers said the signs were that Russian leaders would press hard for implementation by Prague of demands made by Russia, Poland, East Germany, Hungary and Bulgaria in a letter to the Czechoslovakian party's central committee last week.

Main object of the letter was to see a re-imposition of press censorship in Czechoslovakia and a halt to Prague's moves toward a detente with non-Communist countries including West Germany.

THOMSEN

Niagara Mexican Rubicon

HAMILTON (CP) — Niels C. Thomsen, the 19-year-old Mexican who claims he swam across the Niagara River Wednesday into Canada, has been ordered deported, an immigration official said today.

The deportation order was passed Thursday after an immigration inquiry, said Henry Farron, district enforcement supervisor for the immigration department.

Thomsen, now in jail, said he crossed the treacherous currents at night below Niagara Falls. He has waived his right to appeal the order, said Mr. Farron.

It is not certain, though, when he will be sent back, since he has no passport or other identification.

BATTLED CURRENTS

Thomsen is from Lagos de Moreno.

Thomsen said in an interview Thursday he studied the river curements Tuesday, and plunged into the water during the night, wearing trousers, a shirt and gym shoes.

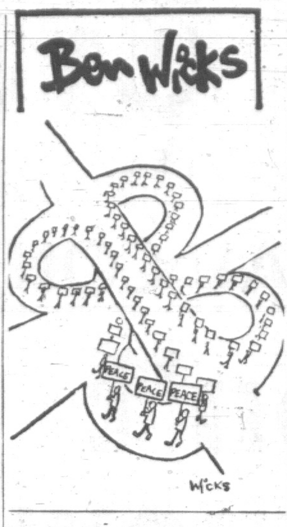
The river is about 1,000 feet wide at that point, with currents up to 18 miles an hour.

He said he entered the U.S. the same way last October, crossing the Rio Grande from Mexico to Texas.

He was arrested while hitchhiking on the Queen Elizabeth Way near Oakville Wednesday night.

Militants Arrested

LONDON (UPI)—A London magistrate today ordered three British black power leaders held without bail for eight days pending trial on charges they threatened to kill police officers in Hyde Park.



Post Office Pay Cheques Being Held

A post office spokesman in Victoria said today no final arrangements have been made for distribution of striking employees' pay cheques next week.

The cheques are for the three days from July 15, when regular cheques were distributed, to July 18, when the postal strike started.

A spokesman for the Victoria Council of Postal Unions said he has been informed that the cheques must be picked up at the post office.

However, Ken Stofer, post office public relations officer here, said, "that is not the information I have." He said arrangements are not finalized.

STRIKEBREAKERS

In a statement this morning, the Victoria Council of Postal Unions said its steering committee recommends members not go into the post office to collect pay cheques "and in so doing act as strikebreakers in their own strike."

The committee also took exception to the government's assumption that employees will still be on strike July 31.

Similar comments were made by strike leaders in Ottawa, Toronto and Vancouver.

"We will not cross picket lines to pick up three days of lousy pay," said Fern Lachance in Ottawa.

"They're not worth crossing the lines for after the end-of-the-month deductions come out," said Robert McGarry in Toronto.

In Vancouver, the Council of Postal Unions instructed its members not to cross picket lines to get pay cheques. The post office earlier directed Vancouver area officials to make the cheques available at each postal station.

"They can lock the cheques up in the vault for the duration," said Jim McCall of the striking unions.

Postal Union Grievances Detailed by Commissioner

By PAUL DUNN

OTTAWA (CP) — The seeds of discontent that grew into the current postal strike were sown long ago and identified less than two years ago in a royal commission report.

Mr. Justice Andre Montpetit of the Quebec Superior Court was commissioned in September, 1965, to investigate working conditions in the post office department.

His appointment followed a three-province strike of postal workers the same year, involving about 12,000 employees and lasting a week at most points.

On Sept. 14, 1966, he submitted his report which contained 282 recommendations. Titled "Royal Commission on Working Conditions in the Post Office Department," the document has become a key in the demands of the striking 24,000-member Council of Postal Unions.

The council and department do not agree on the disposition of Mr. Justice Montpetit's recommendations. Working conditions remain a vital area in the mediation in progress to end the eight-day-old strike.

COMMENT ON REPORT

Union leaders won't disclose specific working-condition improvements they are seeking in current mediation talks but they spoke freely in interviews on the Montpetit report generally.

The royal commissioner also spoke freely in the document:

"Except in one or two districts, the attitudes of some supervisors and postmasters towards their employees leaves much to be desired. . . .

"We heard too often of postmasters or supervisors who consider themselves almost infallible or who, under the pretext of maintaining at any cost their conception of order and discipline, obstinately refuse to change any decisions taken at a lower level."

A post office department spokesman gave this account of the disposition of the Montpetit report's 282 recommendations:

Implemented 149; partially implemented 53; rejected by the department, the unions or both 8; under consideration 37 of which 21 were placed in negotiations by the unions; for union action only 13; bargainable under new legislation 22.

EXPRESSES SURPRISE

The spokesman said he was surprised to hear that the council does not agree with this assessment.

"Progress reports covering all 282 recommendations were issued jointly by the unions and the department. We're surprised that the council now would query the recommendations that were implemented according to these reports."

The department position was that:

"As a result of joint discussions between the unions and the department, agreement or an acceptable understanding has been reached on all 282 recommendations."

Union leaders say this is not so—not nearly so.

Here's the council's assessment of the status of the 282 recommendations:

Implemented 117; partially implemented 38; not implemented 79; applicable to other departments and status uncertain 18; management contends must be handled through collective bargaining 27; implementation inhibited by legislation 3.

OFFERS A GUIDE

A guide to the different interpretations of the degree of implementation came from Council Co-chairman Roger Decarie:

"The council only considers recommendations implemented when they have been fully carried out by every post office."

He said the department was inclined to consider Montpetit recommendations implemented once headquarters agreed to them.

The council also points to an agreement it signed along with the government on Nov. 15, 1966, after mediation narrowly averted a strike.

MONTPETIT
. . . 282 proposals

This agreement states that a joint union-department committee be formed to study Montpetit recommendations and that it "endeavor to find the ways and means to implement as soon as possible all recommendations in the report which they jointly fee are acceptable and liable of implementation."

Council leaders say this has not been done. Many recommendations were implemented unilaterally and not in a manner agreeable to the unions. The council went along with partial implementation in some cases because "half a loaf . . ."

GIVE SPECIFIC CASES

Here are some of the specific recommendations union leaders say have not been put into effect.

—The department was to provide relay boxes for letter carriers needing them. Mr. Decarie, president of the Letter Carriers Union of Canada, says "as long as one of these still is required, we don't feel the recommendation has been fully implemented."

—Mail satchels lugged by carriers were not to exceed 35 pounds loaded. "The department implemented this one at once, although the letter carriers union has sought a maximum weight of 20 pounds for years."

—The preferred position of wicket clerk was to be filled by experienced postal clerks who passed an exam. William Houle, council co-chairman and president of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers, says the department continues to use casual employees who don't write exams "to save money."

—Part-time postal clerks were to receive the basic wage paid full-timers. "This has not been done," says Mr. Houle, "instead they reclassified them at a lower wage rate than most of them had been getting."

Council members have a host of other grievances they say should have been rectified by implementation of Montpetit recommendations.

COMPLAIN ABOUT DIRT

For instance mail bags are still not being properly cleaned and stain workers' clothes and create foul odors. General "unsanitary conditions" exist in many post offices—in the Vancouver post office ventilation-system filters have to be changed five times a day.

"Ventilation is a farce," says Mr. Houle.

Another complaint is hazardous working conditions. Union leaders say there are ancient elevators, rotten flooring and improperly-maintained vehicles in far too many offices.

There was to have been adequate opportunity for union representatives to discuss a new code of discipline for the department. They say this hasn't been done and discipline remains "punitive rather than correctional" as suggested by Mr. Justice Montpetit.

They also object to being obliged to divulge information on householders to anyone other than their own supervisors.

Council leaders say their members must supply information upon demand to the revenue and immigration departments and also give out addresses and change of addresses to private firms.

On the latter point, Mr. Justice Montpetit recommended:

"That the department no longer request letter carriers to make enquiries of the patrons, when such enquiries are not related to the postal service proper."

William Head Escapers Sought

Southern Vancouver Island police were on the lookout today for three escapers from the William Head Minimum Seecurity Prison.

The men, described as unarmed and not dangerous, apparently walked out of the prison shortly before midnight.

Authorities say all three were serving sentences for theft and two of the men were sentenced as habitual criminals.

Police describe the men as follows: Kasmar Vincent Swontek of Edmonton, 38, five foot eight inches, 150 pounds, medium build, brown hair and eyes; Bernard Francis Delaney of St. John's, 36, five foot eight inches, 160 pounds, brown hair and hazel eyes; Clifford Henry Verpy of Saskatchewan, 33, 150 pounds, five foot nine inches, blue eyes and brown hair.

All the men are heavily tatooed.

Prisoners at William Head are not under heavy guard and can escape by jumping over the fence or walking out in the water at the rear and around the fence, officials say.

Just Society to Get Revitalized Senate

By ALEXANDER FARRELL

OTTAWA (CP) — There will be a place for the Senate in the Just Society.

It will be a more exalted place, says Prime Minister Trudeau, than it has hitherto occupied in the country's affairs. He believes the Senate can become a more effective instrument of Canadian federalism.

In contrast to the House of Commons, based on representation by population, the Senate is an expression of the fact that Canada is a federal union.

Theoretically, the upper chamber represents the provinces, but its political foundation is the federal prime minister, who appoints all senators.

TRUDEAU'S DESIRE

Mr. Trudeau's desire, as he has written and stated on more than one occasion, is to make the Senate "represent the provinces more directly."

How this is to be done remains an unsettled question. "Various possibilities are open," says Marc Lalonde, a constitutional adviser to Mr. Trudeau. "We want to bring forward proposals that will be acceptable to all the provinces."

While Mr. Trudeau has expressed anxiety to improve the machinery of government, quick action to reform the Senate is unlikely. Because of the prime minister's desire to proceed in full collaboration with the provinces, "it would be unrealistic" to expect legislation on Senate reform this fall when Parliament meets, Mr. Lalonde said.

A reapportionment or expansion of Senate seats may also be proposed, to strengthen Western representation.

To preserve some sort of equality among the different regions of the country, the British North America Act of 1867 assigned 24 Senate seats to each of three areas: The Maritime provinces, Quebec and Ontario.

A 1915 amendment made the West a fourth senatorial area, in which 24 seats were distributed equally among the four provinces.

APPORTIONMENT

Six seats were added for Newfoundland when it joined Canada in 1949, raising the Senate to its present 102-seat total. The Maritimes seats are apportioned as follows: Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, 10 each, and Prince Edward Island, four.

Every senator must be a resident and property-owner in the province for which he is chosen. The property qualification is still $4,000, the figure set in 1867.

Robert MacGregor Dawson, a political scientist, lists in his book, The Government of Canada, the protection of provincial interests as the first of the Senate's particular duties.

But it was also intended, he writes, "to act as a revising and restraining body to deal with possible errors or impulses of the Commons."

Sir John A. Macdonald, Canada's first prime minister, said that in the upper house, "we have the sober second thought in legislation."

But the Senate's critics contend that the role envisaged by the Fathers of Confederation has proved to be more theoretical than real. Many dismiss the upper house as useless and irrelevant.

Set a High Standard

THE PROBLEM OF DISPOSAL of sewage in this community embraces many aspects and it is understandable that the voices raised on behalf of various theories and methods should in many cases be at cross purposes. One positive gain on which all can agree is that the controversy has aroused public opinion and a very healthy state of community-wide concern has resulted. From this, and from the public demand for more facts from experts—including more investigations if these are required—a satisfactory answer may be forthcoming.

But government officials at all levels should encourage public debate, particularly when the experts themselves disagree on numerous points. One complication is that an adequate answer involves medical, engineering, financial and political considerations. Somewhere among these findings lies a solution to our local problem — but it is certainly not clear to the public yet and there are many unanswered questions.

The argument for any remedy—that it works somewhere else — is only a starting point, for differing conditions here can wipe out advantages that were experienced in other communities. Land disposal systems requiring hundreds of acres of tanks and pools for sewage treatment do not appear feasible here, and there would still remain the problem of getting rid of more than six million gallons of residue water each day. Our soil is said to be not conducive to such a method of disposal.

Most discussion has involved disposal at sea. There have been various proposals to run the raw sewage into the ocean at least a quarter of a mile off-shore, to treat it before dumping it, to ultilize as fertilizer the solids so removed—a monumental problem itself—to derive income from sale of the latter, and so on. Various degrees of treatment have been suggested. Helpful discussion has usually bogged down for lack of adequate facts and figures relative to our own particular local situation. If such facts are known, they certainly have not been properly explained to the people.

Some experts say that the ocean itself performs all the functions of a treatment plant, given time. This would be excellent; but would this situation last far into the future as the flow of effluent increases? Is the proposed length of outfall pipe a minimum provision for only minimum safety? Is there any guarantee that the liquid effluent, treated or not, will not flow inshore and spoil—even if it does not poison—our bathing beaches?

Health Minister Loffmark has introduced treatment costs which are far below the huge sums which earlier had been suggested by regional spokesmen. Mayor Stephen has rightly been concerned about the costs that will fall, not on "government", but on the taxpayers. But this may well be a case in which the people are willing to pay for measures which will guarantee the perpetuation of one of the main reasons why many of them live here. A good deal more is involved here than the engineering problem of getting rid of a certain daily gallonage without attributable disease resulting.

The forthcoming meeting — and others if necessary—should provide all the answers necessary for a correct decision on this program which is so vital in principle as well as in practice. Let's decide now that we will be satisfied only with the best.

Deep Questioning

THE OPENING REMARKS OF the Archbishop of Canterbury at the Lambeth Conference indicate the depth of the self-examination in which the Anglican faith is engaged today. As one facet of the vast questioning which now pervades all Christendom and seeks an answer which will restore religious belief to the people of the world, the Anglican Church is looking at every aspect of its faith and its relationship to other denominations.

The answers to come out of the decennial conference may well shake many of the beliefs and positions that have lasted down through the centuries. The concept of a twentieth-century church, fundamentally dedicated as in the past, but presenting a much different appearance, may emerge.

"Christendom," said Dr. Michael Ramsey, "has begun to learn that unity comes not by combining this church with that church much as they are now, but by the radical altering of the church in reformation and renewal."

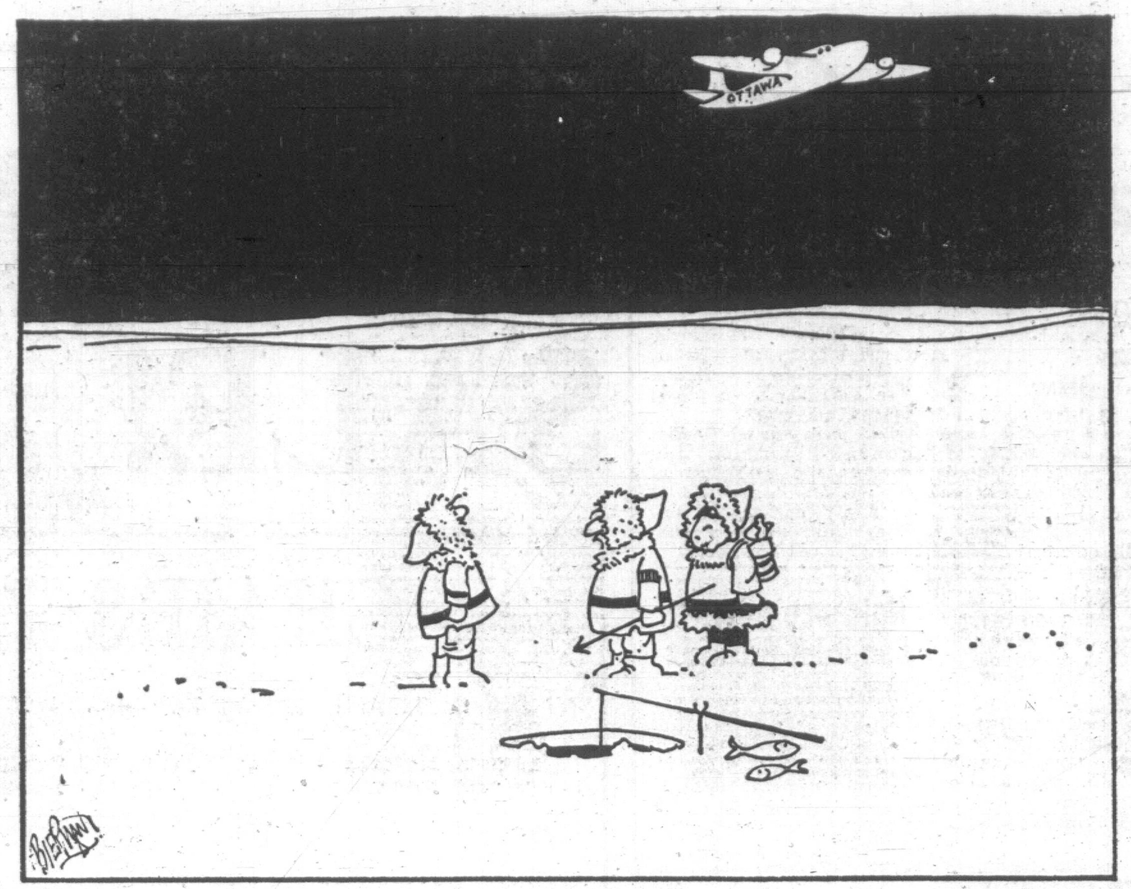
The Primate foresees that "there will come into existence united churches not describably Anglican but in communion with us and sharing with us what we hold to be the unshaken essence of Catholicity". And he suggested that "the Anglican role in Christendom may come to be less like a separate encampment and more like a color in the spectrum of a rainbow . . ."

Such concepts could rank with those of Martin Luther four centuries ago in their sugggestion of a basic change in outlook, for the Archbishop clearly is touching on proposals which eventually could have far-reaching effects on the internal and external structure of the Christian church. But equally clearly the church today is facing new situations undreamed of a generation ago, in which science, technology, and the whole moral character of man are undergoing unprecedented developments.

These developments demand a new approach by the church if the latter is to survive to play a part of any significance in the world of tomorrow. The Lambeth Conference, with Rome's recent precedent-making Vatican II in mind, promises to be another step, not only in the evolution of Christian thought, but in the rehabilitation of its tangible structure.

To Be Cleared Up

A PROTEST BY THE FISHERmen and Allied Workers Union that their secretary, Mr. Homer Stevens, now serving time in a prison camp for contempt of court, had been unjustly punished by the camp officials, is being investigated by the Attorney-General's department. The protest charges that Mr. Stevens was deprived of 15 days remission of his sentence for trying to help a fellow prisoner place a telephone call to his injured wife. On the basis of the charge, an unusually heavy penalty would seem to have been imposed. But the public so far has heard only one side of the story. The facts to be gleaned from the Attorney-General's investigation should be made public as soon as possible, for as the situation now stands a prisoner has been rather harshly treated or the prison administration has been unjustly criticized. In either case, the public should have the full truth.



"... then he complained about union workers—whatever they are—going on a strike—whatever that is—"

A Plea for More Federal Parks

Western

THE ONTARIO Government, which was only recently lauded by conservationist groups for setting aside a vast northern area as a new wilderness park, is being fiercely criticized for its administration of Algonquin Park, until this year the largest and best known tract in the provincial system. There is little doubt that praise and blame are both merited. The situation points up the absurdity of the present division of responsibility for parks in this country.

Until the '60s, no one felt any sense of urgency about the northern wilderness. Various schemes existed but they could safely be put off until an indefinite tomorrow because development was so slow. Suddenly the whole tempo has changed; the north is alive with activity and no one knows what rocky hillside will next year become a place name as familiar as Ross River or Clinton Creek.

This is a great gain but as the nation moves north we will need parks as well as mines. (What was Bonanza Creek compared to Banff or Jasper, even on a strict dollars and cents accounting?) There is room for both but once an area is taken over by the bulldozers, one cannot go back. The sensible course is to move ahead of development, retaining for the public — for all time — whatever we hope to preserve.

To Ontario's Credit

It is very much to Ontario's credit that the province has become the first to take such action north of the height of land. The area dedicated — almost three times the size of Banff — is a huge rectangle running south and west from Cape Henrietta Maria, with the shorelines of Hudson and James Bay forming two of its sides.

This region, to be known as Polar Bear Provincial Park, is the haunt of various Arctic mammals and supports many species of flora and fauna not found elsewhere in Ontario. It is also a well known nesting ground for snow, blue and Canada geese. As elsewhere along the west side of Hudson Bay, the land is rising with the result that beach strands, sometimes of interest for the study of man's past, are found well inland from the coast.

The intention is to preserve this tract, which is presently uninhibited, in its primitive state. There will be a designated landing point for aircraft but otherwise the park will not be developed.

Although this great addition to the protected area is most welcome, it seems regrettable that the Ontario government, having gone so far, failed to take one further step. As the region is not to be exploited, there is surely everything to be said for dedicating it to the whole country as part of the system of national parks in Canada.

What Logic in Division?

Where is the logic of the present division of responsibilities? If there was reluctance in Ottawa to manage wilderness, there would be some point in provinces making good the deficiency. But since there is no such reluctance why should two levels of government compete in the wilderness business?

The trouble in Algonquin Park is instructive in this context. Algonquin is not primitive, being crossed by an east-west road and largely used by campers enjoying its excellent picnic grounds, its lakes and canoe streams. But it is essentially a wilderness area, being closed — generally speaking — to private interests.

Unhappily the door has been opened to logging companies, subject to rather vague restrictions, and at the moment 18 are operating within park borders. The irony is that, while they are not supposed to build roads to lake shores, a number of lakes are in fact approachable by courtesy of the companies.

This is not to say that Ontario has done a poor job in connection with its parks; it has probably done much better than most provinces. The point is that the lower the level of government, the more vulnerable it is to pressure groups. This is apparent in our cities including the national capital where bylaws regularly become casualties when they interfere with the plans of developers.

On the other hand the national government is advantageously placed to resist the encroachments of special interests because it can draw support from a wider public opinion.

Although the national parks are the pride of all Canadians, it cannot be said that the provinces have co-operated on any basis of equality in furthering their development. In the whole vast extent of Ontario there are only three such parks and not one of them equals in size the contribution of tiny Prince Edward Island. There is not a single national park in Quebec province although there are two "national historic parks," with a total area of less than one-half a square mile.

Since the provinces which have deeded lands to the national system have profited hugely in consequence, it can scarcely be said that any has made a particular sacrifice. (Nonetheless it would be surprising in the circumstances if comparisons were not made). The attitude of the central provinces can be explained only in terms of local pride. There is nothing rational about it. Nothing could be more contrary to the "One Canada" spirit so evident today. One would think that a strong case existed for a policy review at a time when governments are seriously considering a more sensible division of responsibilites.

We have too few national parks. At the moment Ontario (which has shown by its latest action its concern for wilderness preservation) and the federal government (which has an opportunity to move before it is too late in the southwestern Yukon) are perhaps in the best positions to act effectively. Either, by setting an example, might help to revive the enthusiasm of two years ago when it appeared for a time that a valuable expansion of the park system was an early prospect.

Rogers On The Strap

As a result of a recent article on the School Board meeting where the banning of corporal punishment was discussed, the Education 305 (Childhood Psychology) class at Uvic invited Dr. Rogers to attend a lecture meeting to clarify his comment on his feelings about this subject.

Dr. Rogers pointed out his opinion and feelings on the subject:

"I didn't want to see the strap or corporal punishment now abandoned. Teachers are responsible people, with the exceptions as in any organization and can use the strap with common sense, intelligence and understanding of children. If there are teachers with cruel streaks or who don't like children, these should be removed from the profession. Being a Quaker, I'm against any form of punishment or chastisement, but in school, using common sense, strict forms of punishment are quite different from punishment in general. If a child does something wrong, he expects to be punished. If he is not, there is a psychological trauma. Being punished tends to satisfy the child who is not getting at home attention, affection or discipline. Since he is not considered important at home, he projects his feeling to the school by breaking rules, for which he expects to be punished."

Dr. Rogers continued in that he felt strapping was a help to some pupils to keep rules. It helps the middle group to learn to obey and keep rules and learn discipline. The rules, however, must be explained thoroughly. He did, however, point out that corporal punishment can be harmful if meted out to the wrong child at the wrong time or if meted out with resentment.

When asked what should be done with continual misbehaviors he said that we must seek discipline with a direct and definite positive effect. There is obviously some psychological problem and therefore parents, counsellors and the principal must be brought in to the scene to help the child. Dr. Rogers did feel that the most important counsellor was the teacher who knows the child well. A trained counsellor may have difficulty getting under the "surface."

He said that he felt that school boards can't legislate for teachers (i.e.: You can't use the strap). If they do, teachers are being treated like children.

The class was split as to whether corporal punishment should be administered. However, we appreciated the opportunity to exchange ideas with Dr. Rogers and the candor with which he responded. It is our impression that similar opportunites to exchange views in the future with other members of the community would be helpful in establishing an on-going dialogue.—Education 305 class, University of Victoria.

Misplaced Tears for Hubert Humphrey

Bartlett

ANGUISHING OVER Hubert Humphrey has become a sort of midsummer preoccupation among Democrats but it is not at all clear that he deserves it. The year's events have been hair-raising enough to plunge loyal Democrats into an apprehensive state of mind which somehow shades the fact that Humphrey, despite all the handwringing, has emerged as the man with the best chance to become the next president.

The anguishers are failing to distinguish between the wraiths and the realities. Nelson Rockefeller would, for instance, pose a menacing reality for Humphrey if it were not for the determination of the Republican regulars to make of him a wraith.

A notion that the national mood is veering in a direction which will make the going easy for Richard Nixon is widely held among thoughtful Democrats. Yet it is difficult to substantiate this notion through any objective scrutiny of the polls or of the way in which events are shaping for the next four months.

Nixon is strong among the Republicans but Dr. Gallup reveals that they represent barely more than one-quarter of the electorate. In contrast the Democrats claim almost half the voters and the schisms which divided them last spring are being softened by time and tragedy.

The dissenters who were led by Robert Kennedy will have nowhere to go, in the wake of Nixon's nomination, except to Humphrey. They are not likely to be diverted by Sen. Edward Kennedy, who has the conciliatory instincts of his brother John and can be counted on to exert a unifying pressure.

Eugene McCarthy is going down the Estes Kefauver trail, a glory road which ends in the cold count of the convention. Some of his followers will not be lured back to the Democratic mainstream, even by progress towards peace in Paris, and they will form an ultraliberal defection. Their opposition will actually be useful to Humphrey in giving his liberal program a middle-road cast.

Overblown Fear

The fear that Humphrey is too stale and old hat to rekindle young enthusiasms seems overblown. The acclaim for him on the campuses was probably the liveliest feature of the 1964 campaign. He was, after all, the first politician to have his cufflinks torn off and four years can hardly have robbed him of his empathy.

He is already bubbling with ideas to substantiate his call for "a new liberal struggle." Fully licensed by the President to take a tack of his own, Humphrey has accumulated a team of experts who should enable him to come up before Labor Day with a program bearing his personal stamp.

Much of the anguish centres on fears that Humphrey, after 15 years of dogged responsiveness to Lyndon Johnson, may not manage to escape the President's shadow. Some even maintain that Humphrey is doomed unless he can dramatize his independence.

Rising Hopes

Events may in fact make a virtue of the Vice-President's loyalty. The high level of employment, the revived prospects of a stable economy, and the fresh hopes for progress in dealings with Moscow and Hanoi can do much to repair the administration's popularity as the election nears. The swift dispersal of Resurrection City was a sign of the President's determination to react swiftly to the threat of riots this summer.

The President offers no serious obstacle to Humphrey's freedom of action. He is not sponsoring his candidacy — he has not even promised to vote for him. He has told Humphrey to say what he believes so long as he makes it plain that he is not speaking for the adminstration.

These relations may be complicated by differences over the platform. Humphrey's deftness will be tested by his habit of deference but if he has the capacity to lead, he will have every chance to emerge with the look of a leader.

DENNIS THE MENACE

"LISTEN, KID, WILL YA QUIT LICKIN' AN' START PAYIN' ?!"

Looking Back

From the Times, July 26, 1908

A determined crusade is about to be waged against the wild crab trees in the province. Thomas Cunningham, department of horticulture, is now in the city and to a Times reporter explained the reason for the move which is about to be made.

He says it is necessary to wage a war on these trees because they carry pests and diseases which infest cultivated orchards. There are quite a number of wild crab swamps in Saanich and on the mainland there are some quite large areas, he said.

NDP Choice

Calgary Albertan

The New Democratic Party must decide what its purpose should be, what role it wants to play on the Canadian political stage. Under Mr. Douglas, it nourished ambitions of real power — that is, of becoming the official opposition and even of winning office. These ambitions would appear to have been thwarted by the Liberal resurgence. So the choice confronting the NDP is either to go on being a slightly leftish Liberal party or to revert to the sponsorship of almost-hopeless causes.

Neither carries the promise of widespread popular support. But the second ought to be more rewarding for the political soul. Canada has no need whatever of two Liberal parties, but there is always a place, in any country, for a bold political conscience that is prepared to be heeded rarely and belatedly.

'To Believe Again in Man'

By ARCHIBALD MacLEISH

That Americans have changed their nature since Andrew Jackson's day or Theodore Roosevelt's or even Harry Truman's is now taken as self-evident—at least among the Americans.

No visiting European from Crevecoeur to Somerset Maugham would have reported us to the world in the terms in which we now report ourselves, nor would Charles Dickens, who liked us least and used almost every other derogatory term to describe us, have used the word we repeat most frequently today.

"The American Way of Life" in all its materialism helped create the "Great American Frustration" which goes much deeper than simply reaction to the Vietnam war or racial inequality, says United States poet and critic Archibald MacLeish. Men must re-assert mastery over themselves and the direction of their technology to strike at the roots of such frustration, Mr. MacLeish said recently when he delivered the first Milton Eisenhower lecture at Johns Hopkins University. This article consists of excerpts from the lecture.

Arrogant, perhaps. Self-confident and bumptious, certainly. But frustrated?

If there was one people on earth incapable of frustration it was the people who inhabited the United States ... a hundred years ago.

But not now. Not to us. Not in the newspapers or the television programs or the lecture circuits or anywhere else our national mania for prodding and poking at our national psyche indulges itself.

For a time last winter the word frustration was almost as frequently seen and heard in those quarters as the word American itself, and when Robert Kennedy was shot in Los Angeles, though the talk was all of the "sickness of American society," it was still the American sense of frustration and helplessness which spoke.

We have not only accepted our frustration, we have embraced it. To the young it seems somehow to explain what is otherwise inexplicable in the numb uneasiness with which they approach their lives.

To the old it provides an alternative to the exhausting labor of struggling to comprehend an increasingly incomprehensible epoch.

But what the great frustration actually means is not so obvious.

It is a sense we have had in one form or another for a long time now, but not as an explicit, a formulated fear until we found ourselves deep in the present century with its faceless slaughters, its mindless violence, its fabulous triumphs over space and time and matter ending in terrors space and time and matter never held.

Before that there were only hints and intimations, but they were felt, they were recorded where all the hints and intimations are recorded — in poems, fictions, works of art.

Human Role in Civilization

From the beginning of what we used to call the industrial revolution — what we see today more clearly as a sort of technological coup d'etat — men and women, particularly men and women of imaginative sensibility, have seen that something was happening to the human role in the shaping of civilization.

A curious automatism, human in origin but not human in action, seemed to be taking over. Cities were being built and rebuilt not with human purposes in mind but with technological means at hand.

It was no longer the neighborhood which fixed the shape and limits of the town but the communications system, the power grid.

Technology, our grandfathers said, "advanced" and it was literally true: it was technology which was beating the tambours, leading the march.

Buildings crowded into the air not because their occupants had any particular desire to lift them there, but because the invention of electric elevators and new methods of steel and glass construction made these ziggurats possible and the possibility presented itself as economic compulsion.

Wildness and silence disappeared from the countryside, sweetness fell from the air, not because anyone wished them to vanish or fall but because throughways had to floor the meadows with cement to carry the automobiles which advancing technology produced first by the thousands and then by the thousand thousands.

Tropical beaches turned into high-priced slums where thousand-room hotels elbowed each other for glimpses of once-famous surf not because those who loved the beaches wanted them there but because enormous jets could bring a million tourists every year — and therefore did.

The result, seen in a glimpse here, a perception there, was a gradual change in our attitude toward ourselves as men, toward the part we play as men in the direction of our lives.

'Science's Loyalty to Truth'

Prior to Hiroshima it had still been possible — increasingly difficult but still possible — to believe that science was by nature a human tool obedient to human wishes and that the world science and its technology could create would therefore be a human world reflecting our human needs, our human purposes.

After Hiroshima it was obvious that the loyalty of science was not to humanity but to truth — its own truth — and that the law of science was not the law of the good — what humanity thinks of as good, meaning moral, decent, humane — but the law of the possible.

What it is possible for science to know science must know. What it is possible for technology to do technology will have done. If it is possible to split the atom, then the atom must be split. Regardless. Regardless of ... anything.

We began to see science as a kind of absolute beyond our reach, beyond our understanding even, known, if it was known at all, through proxies who, like priests in other centuries, could not tell us what they knew.

No one talked any longer of a Baruch Plan, or even remembered that there had been one.

The freedom of science to follow the laws of absolute possibility to whatever conclusions they might lead had been established, or so we thought, as the unchallengeable fixed assumption of our age, and the freedom of technology to invent whatever world it happened to invent was taken as the underlying law of modern life.

What was happening in those years, as the bitterly satirical fictions of the period never tired of pointing out, was that we were ceasing to think of ourselves as men, as self-governing men, as proudly self-governing makers of a new nation, and were becoming instead a society of consumers: recipients — grateful recipients — of the blessings of a technological civilization.

We no longer talked in the old way of The American Proposition, either at home or abroad — particularly abroad. We talked instead of The American Way of Life.

It never crossed our minds apparently — or if it did we turned our minds away — that a population of consumers, though it may constitute an affluent society, can never compose a nation in the great, the human sense.

It is here, rather than in the floundering failures and futile disappointments of Vietnam, that this famous frustration of ours is rooted.

Vietnam alone, disastrous as that whole experience has been, could never have produced, in a confident and self-reliant people such as the Americans once were, a mood like the American mood of these past months.

Not even the riots of last summer and this spring could have afflicted us as we are now afflicted if we had still believed that our principal business was the making of a nation, the government of ourselves.

Indeed the riots are, if anything, the consequence, not the cause, of our self-doubt — or, more precisely, the consequence of the actual causes of that doubt.

Commercial Symbols as Targets

It is not without significance that the targets of the mobs in the burning streets are supermarkets and television outlets rather than the courthouses and city halls which would have drawn the mobs of earlier times. Courthouses and city halls stand — or stood once — for The American Proposition. Supermarkets and television outlets are the symbols of The American Way of Life.

How did we come to this defeated helplessness? How were we persuaded of our impotence as men? What convinced us that the fundamental law of scientific age must be the scientific law of possibility and that our human part must be a passive part, a subservient part, the part of the recipient, the beneficiary . . . the victim?

Education, particularly higher education, has altered its relation to the idea of man in fundamental ways since Adams' day and Jefferson's.

From the time when Harvard president Charles Eliot introduced the elective system there — from the time, that is to say, of the renunciation by the university of an intention to produce a certain kind of man, a man shapd by certain models, certain texts — the university's concern with "man" as such has grown less and less and its concern with what it calls "subjects" has become greater and greater.

The ultimate consequence, only too evident in the time we live in, has been the vocationalization of the higher schools.

The college no longer exists to produce men qua men, men prepared for life in a society of men, but men as specialized experts, men prepared for employment in an industry or a profession.

What Society Thinks It Wants

"Getting ahead in the world," says Professor Allen Tate of the University of Minnesota, "is now the purpose of education and the University must therefore provide education for our time, not for all time: it must discover and then give to society what society thinks it wants . . ."

As specialized, professional training, higher education in the United States today is often magnificent.

Young doctors are better and better as their specialties become more specialized: so much better that it is now a recommendation in almost any field to say of a young doctor that he is young.

Student physicists in the great graduate schools are so notoriously productive at twenty-two that a professional physicist of thirty regards himself, or is regarded by his juniors, as middle-aged.

But the educated man, the man capable not of providing specialized answers, but of asking the great and liberating questions by which humanity makes it way through time, is not more frequently encountered than he was two hundred years ago. On the contrary, he is rarely discovered in public life at all.

There is no quarrel between the humanities and the sciences. There is only a need, common to them both, to put the idea of man back where it once stood, at the focus of our lives; to make the end of education the preparation of men to be men, and so to restore to mankind — and above all to this nation of mankind — a conception of humanity with which humanity can live.

The frustration — and it is a real and debasing frustration — in which we are mîred today will not leave us until we believe in ourselves again, assume again the mastery of our lives, the management of our means.

Mao's Men 'Solve' Won Ton Mystery

By STANLEY KARNOW

HONG KONG — While United States medical researchers claim to have discovered the cause of the "Chinese restaurant syndrome" crippling American won ton lovers, the real origin of the epidemic now appears to be clear to China-watchers here.

It seems to be part of a vicious gastronomic plot contrived by the class enemies of Chinese Communist leader Mao Tse-tung to subvert the masses both in China and throughout the world.

This was implied in an official radio broadcast from coastal Kiangsu province, monitored here, which revealed that "counter-revolutionaries" have been poisoning the monosodium glutamate (MSG) manufactured in the local city of Suchow.

Experts suspect that these "bad elements," as the broadcast called them, may be at the centre of an international network smuggling tainted MSG into Communist and free world chop suey establishments.

Heartburn Cause

A research team at Albert Einstein College of Medicine, in New York, recently isolated MSG, a chemical flavoring aid, as the cause of heartburn, chest pains and other discomforts that afflict many Chinese cuisine fans in America.

But the team leader, Dr. Herbert H. Schaumburg, was uncertain after his study whether MSG itself or some contaminant in it was to blame. The Chinese Communist radio disclosure suggests that the latter may well be the case.

As the Kiangsu broadcast told the story, workers at the Suchow MSG plant were troubled some time ago to find that their product had lost its flavor and, indeed, had become downright distasteful to restauranteurs and gourmets alike.

An initial examination, the radio report said, led to the conclusion that the "culture strain of a micro-organism" used in making MSG had spoiled. And this, it was decided, was a matter of "improper technical control" that could be remedied by "corrective measures."

The factory's governing "revolutionary committee," however, rejected that analysis. Inspired by Mao's great teachings, the committee mobilized the factory staff, holding meetings to heighten class consciousness.

'Hidden Enemy'

Thus armed, the revolutionaries traced back the spoiled MSG to a "hidden enemy," who turned out to be none other than the factory's chief technican. By some coincidence, he happened to be a former landlord.

It is not clear from the broadcast how this culprit sabotaged the MSG chemically. The radio account alleged, however, that he had seriously poisoned workers' minds by advocating expertise rather than ideology.

The chief technician and his evil comrades underwent "struggle meetings" in which they were criticized and repudiated. And eventually, the broadcast said, an "excellent revolutionary situation emerged": The factory began producing two batches of MSG every three days instead of one batch in two days.

Implicit in the radio report, though, was the warning that other enemies are still lurking among the test-tubes, masterminding a traffic in tainted MSG that threatens the alimentary canal of every won ton fancier the world over.

Political Interest Up Among Young People

By The Canadian Institute of Public Opinion

It may well be that credit should go to Prime Minister Trudeau for the fact that a big majority of youthful voters (in the 21 to 29 age group) say their interest in politics has increased over the past five years. Nearly seven in ten young people (69%) express increased interest in Canadian politics, while only 44% of older voters (over 50 years) feel this way.

Nationally, a four-to-one ratio say their interest has increased (55%) against those who feel it has lessened (14%). Last year this ratio was two to one—53% increased interest, 25% decreased.

More Liberals (62%) than Conservatives (58%) or NDP party adherents (48%) feel increased interest in politics.

The question: "On the whole, would you say your interest in Canadian politics has increased over the past five years or has it lessened?"

	Nationally	Conservative	Liberal	NDP

SOMEONE WILL BE 'HAG' OF THE SWAMP

CAMPBELL RIVER — All systems are go for Campbell River's first big water festival at McIvor Lake, Aug. 4.

The water festival committee announced this week all Vancouver Island mayors have been invited to take part in the bathtub race and that Minister of Municipal Affairs Dan Campbell will be on hand for the comic diving event and the hag-of-the-swamp competition.

Protest Forced Membership

PORT ALBERNI — Office workers in the city hall here do not want union membership.

They continued this week a continuing fight to remain out of the Canadian Union of Public Employees (CUPE), certified bargaining agent for all employees of the city.

A meeting of employees — the first since the February decision of the labor Relations Board to certify the union as bargaining agent for the inside workers — erupted in disorder.

Members of the inside staff were adamant in their opposition to joining the union.

"We haven't even been given an opportunity to vote on the question," said David Russell, chairman of the protesting employees.

"We have no quarrel with the idea of the union promoting an increase in their membership provided . . . a proper and democratic vote is taken among the new people the union wishes to include in their membership," he said.

The LRB decision in favor of the CUPE came after Alberni and Port Alberni became one last year.

Before the merger, outside workers in both cities held membership in the union while inside workers had resisted membership. When the cities joined the union had to reapply for certification to the LRB.

"The board felt there should be no distinction between the inside and outside workers," A. G. Markides, regional officer for the CUPE, said.

OFFICIALS URGE MEMBERS ACCEPT PACT

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two pulp and paper unions Thursday said they recommend members accept a pact with the Pulp and Paper Industrial Relations Bureau that gives 36-cent hourly pay increases over two years.

The settlement, which also covers a wide range of fringe benefits, is being referred to about 6,000 workers for a joint vote, expected to be held next week.

It covers members of the United Papermakers and Paperworkers and the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers. Both bargained jointly with the bureau, which spoke for employers.

The workers would receive an 18-cent increase in each year of the contract on a base rate of $2.85.

No Blame Attached In Death of City Boy

CHEMAINUS — Seconds before he was struck down and fatally injured by the E and N Railroad dayliner, Robin Boese, 13, was walking along the track counting ties.

This was part of the evidence at an inquest Thursday at which a jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

The jury said it attached no direct blame to anyone but stated "Robin was standing too close to the track and more caution could have been taken by the child care worker (Gerald Brunet) by not allowing his wards to trespass along the railroad track.

"We feel that in view of the fact these children (three in the party) were emotionally disturbed a need for more practical experience is indicated for supervisors.

"We also feel more caution should be taken by the E. and N with regard to the speed the dayliner travels as there have been numerous accidents in the past few years."

The jury deliberated for an hour and 10 minutes.

Dr. Gordon Heydon testified the boy died in Chemainus hospital from severe internal injuries.

'TREMENDOUS' BLOW

He dismissed a story he was told that the boy was simply sucked in by the slipstream of the passing train and said a bruise down the pelvis was consistent with a blow of "tremendous magnitude."

Gerald Wayne Brunet, 22, of 1303 Yates, Victoria, said he is a child care worker.

On July 18 he was at the Westholme camp operated by the Vancouver Island Centre for child growth and development. He said there were about 30 children in camp and he had been a leader from July 4.

He said about the accident: "We heard the whistle of the train and got off the track, but we never saw the train.

"Then we heard two more whistles and Robin looked in that direction and said there was nothing coming but I told the boys to get off the track anyway.

"I didn't see the train until it passed."

Mr. Brunet said the other two boys were walking ahead of him and Robin was behind and just off the track.

CLOSE TO TRACK

He said Robin was close to the track but on the gravel.

Mr. Brunet said "We were knocked over back into the bush. I don't know what happened but think it was the air pressure. I didn't feel anything solid hit me."

Trainmen called for the amubulance and police.

Mr. Brunet said Robin was extremely affectionate and talkative and responded spontaneously to orders.

He had never seen the boy resent authority.

Robin's father, Harry Boese, sales department manager, 1438 Walnut, said he visited the site the day of the accident.

He said there was no doubt in his mind the boys could have seen the train coming toward them.

Engineer Alfred Thomesett, 1161 Burdette, Victoria, said the train was four minutes late the day of the accident.

'CLOSE CALLS'

He said he had just blown for a private crossing "because he had had a couple of close calls there" when he saw the four people walking on the outside of the tracks.

Mr. Thomesett said that when the boys did not look back he gave a series of whistles and checked his speed.

Three of the boys stepped off the track but the boy at the end did not step as clear of the tracks as the others.

Mr. Thomesett said, "He just stood there hunched and I knew I couldn't clear him."

He estimated his speed when he struck the boy as 35 miles an hour and said earlier he was doing about 45 mph.

He said he was first able to see the boys when they were 300 feet away.

Mr. Thomesett said, "None of the boys looked back, not even when I gave them the warning signal."

Psychiatrist and camp director Dr. Charles Gregory, said Robin was "quite sick" when put in the care of the Island Health Research Centre 20 months ago.

GO ON OUTINGS

However, he had reached the point some time ago when he was able to go on outings with other children.

Dr. Gregory said that Robin would undoubtedly have understood the implications of an approaching train and was usually pretty compliant.

He said none of his camp leaders have any formal qualifications but most are university students.

He said Mr. Brunet was a counsellor and he was satisfied with him as a responsible person.

In regard to the accident, Mr. Boese said, "What it boils down to is this. My wife and I have no ill will toward Dr. Gregory or Mr. Brunet. It was an accident.

"But I can say with all honesty we feel that there was just not enough responsibility exercised in removing the boys from a situation when the train was blowing its horn.

"The boys should have been moved firmly or even by force in circumstances where they are emotionally disturbed."

Wave Washed Dinghy Overboard

NANAIMO CP) — An over-turned dinghy found floating Wednesday in the Strait of Georgia, was washed overboard from a private U.S. motor cruiser, it was disclosed Thursday.

Discovery of the outboard-powered dinghy resulted in a three-hour air-sea search.

Search and rescue officials said Thursday the dinghy was from the 33-foot cruiser Mary Lou, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Earl Garman of Tacoma. They were headed home after a cruise of B.C. waters when a heavy roll caused a turnbuckle to snap, releasing the dinghy.

Mr. Garman told police here that he had tried unsuccessfully to notify the Comox air-sea rescue base by marine radio.

Aldermen Question Cost Of Land for Car Park

CAMPBELL RIVER — District council has agreed to study a $70,000 downtown municipal parking project which in the future could become a four or five-storey ramp.

Cost of land west of the post office, is $45,000 and council was told it will cost about $30,000 to develop the site to accommodate 120 vehicles in its first stages.

Aldermen agreed the project could be tied into their plan for off-street parking requirements. Some time ago, council discussed the possibility of acquiring several downtown sites for parking and making space available to businessmen and merchants on a rental basis.

In this way they said, property owners would not have to provide their own off-street parking in the downtown area.

"But how do we pay for this property? asked finance chairman Mrs. Isabel Sandberg.

"Either we cough up $45,000 out of general revenue and get our money back through long term investment or have the help of the businessman," said Mayor Skip McDonald.

A suggestion that the business tax be tied into the plan was considered unfair by aldermen.

"We tax all the businesses in the municipality so it would be unfair to create parking in any one area and not another," said Mayor McDonald.

Boat Sinks, Crew Rescued

TOFINO — A 36-foot seiner sunk one mile from here Wednesday when it struck a deadhead log which slashed a five-foot hole in the boat's underside.

Captain Archie Frank of the stricken White Star and his crew of four took a short, cool dip after the vessel sunk in Tofino Inlet but were picked up within five minutes by another seiner.

Captain Frank and his crew of four escaped injusy but last about 5,000 pounds of salmon aboard.

The rescue vessel, owned by Barney Williams Sr., had been contacted through the White Star's radio.

The White Star was towed into Tofino Wednesday night where it will be repaired.

Captain Suspended

The captain of a ship that sank off Vancouver Island Jan. 3 has had his master's certificate suspended for two months.

A nautical tribuanl in Amsterdam ruled Thursday the captain, A. Van Dijk, had acted too late to avoid running the 7,594-ton Schiedyk on to a rock. He had a pilot on board.

The Holland America line ship was on her way from Gold River to Portland when she struck the rock.

The crew of 40 had to be rescued by tug and operations to remove oil from the ship were begun. Island Tug and Barge removed all but 50 to 100 tons of oil before deciding it was too risky to send a diver after the rest.

On April 24 the Schiedyk slipped from the ledge on which she was resting and plunged into 600 feet of water, releasing the remaining oil. A five-mile slick was formed, causing an undetermined amount of damage to logging operations and wildlife.

Ruling on the accident, the tribunal said there were mitigating circumstances. It said Gold River had only been in use as a harbor for a year.

No action has been taken against the pilot, John W. Bruce, who has been with the B.C. pilotage since April 11, 1956.

Herring Ban 'Improves' Fishing

CAMPBELL RIVER — A strong opening of the Coho and Spring salmon season is attributed by sources here to last September's ban on commercial herring fishing.

The ban — halting all fishing of herring for bait and reduction purposes—is improving the size and quality of salmon caught in this area, they say.

Painter's Lodge manager Corky Corbett said June was a fabulous month. "The coho run was normal but even the old-timers around here say the run of spring salmon was the greatest in 30 years.

Even in early June we were boating 35 to 38-pound fish and this is really unusual.

"It's many moons since we have seen so much herring around.

"Some of the guides have said they have seen herring runs so thick you could almost walk across their backs."

Standard Boat Rental owner Dave Lossette said he didn't want to stick his neck out and say the herring ban has directly affected this year's run.

"Naturally you're going to have bigger and better fish with more feed around but you're going to have to take into consideration how old these fish coming through are.

"If they are mature already then the quantity couldn't be affected by the increased herring," he added.

Fisheries officer George Graham said there have been definite signs of large bodies of immature herring throughout this area but he said the mature herring are still very scarce.

"It's a little early to show how effective this herring ban is going to be," said Graham.

He said his department takes regular soundings on herring schools around Deep Water Bay and Minstrel Island.

"The sounding we took this spring were the poorest showing since our records began but a year from now we expect to get a clearer picture," said Graham.

Dolphins resort owner John Fitzgerald says his fishing guides are coming in with reports of spotting tremendous schools of herring in Seymour Narrows and Discovery Passage. He feels there is no question that the herring ban has improved the quality of the fish.

But a fisheries department official in Victoria said it is too early in the season to be sure the salmon run is going to be good.

"We'll be able to tell in about a month," he said. "But some of the early catches indicate a good Coho season coming up."

Chinese Contact Unlikely

There is very little hope that Communist China will welcome overtures from Canada or any other western country, Esquimalt-Saanich MP David Anderson said Thursday.

Mr. Anderson, a former external affairs China specialist, said, "The number of people we can 'talk turkey' with is seriously decreased. Even areas of non-political contact — sports or cultural exchanges — are now sharply reduced."

"Despite Prime Minister Trudeau's stated desire to recognize mainland China and exchange consulates," he said, "that is probably more difficult now than ever.

"There is little we can offer them. And the only reason they'd want to open a mission here in Canada would be unacceptable to us."

Speaking at a Rotarian luncheon in the Georgian lounge of the Empress Hotel on the subject "China Today," Mr. Anderson traced the source of the problem to the cultural revolution.

He described this movement as "an unprecedented upheaval in times of peace."

GOED TO PEOPLE

When the party became set in its ways and "ossified," Chairman Mao Tse-Tung tried to reform it from within. "That failed," Mr. Anderson said, "and, like Mr. Trudeau did this summer, Mao went to the people to get the changes."

Public officials were subjected to unusal criticism, so much, said Anderson, that even the rebels were afraid to replace them lest they be criticized too.

But the severest criticism was levelled at those who "leaned to the West." Because of this, he said, education and industry are "going downhill fast."

"Consequently they have far less money today with which to purchase Canadian goods."

Mr. Anderson spent four years in Asia, one as legal advisor to the Canadian members of the International Control Commission in Vietnam. And the other three in Hong Kong where, as assistant trade commissioner, he spent his time studying the language — he speaks and writes Mandarin fluently — and the problems of the area. During the campaign he said he hoped to have a place on any Canadian mission to Red China and to be useful to the government in handling the problems of the area.

OUTLINES VIEWS

He said he has now made his views known to his former employer, the department of external affairs, and the party caucus.

They are:

- Hong Kong must remain under the British. "Any local government would lead to a Communist takeover at once," he said.

"Even now Mao can have Hong Kong within 24 hours with one phone call."

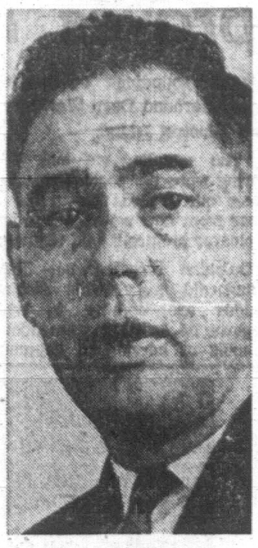
- The cultural revolution only "appears" to be on the wane, because there are now less western journalists to report it.
- Taiwan and mainland China will someday move closer together: "Once these two old men (Mao, 75, and Chiang Kai-shek, 80) die there will be a rapprochement."
- Red China is unwilling to make contacts and unable to trade significantly with the West.

But he did hold out one, perhaps dubious, hope for better relations with China:

"The more successful they are in their nuclear program, building bigger and better nuclear weapons, the more they will take themselves seriously, take this tremendous power seriously, and the more likely they are to reach an understanding with us so that this power will never be used.

"In the short run," he said, ""the risks are tremendous. In the long run perhaps it is a good thing."

For the present, though: "I warn you: Don't be too hopeful."



YOUNG

Rate Lower But Income Higher

City works employees are paid less per hour yet have a higher hourly wage than construction workers employed on private projects, city manager Dennis Young said Thursday

In fact, he said, they make 34 cents an hour more on an average.

Mr. Young's figures were offered to council in reply to a letter from the Vancouver Island Building and Construction Trades Council.

In its letter, the council pointed out that city employees were being used on the Rose-Blanshard Urban Renewal project and asked that they be paid as though they were private construction workers.

The letter, sighed by John Shibli, secretary of the Trades Council, asked the city's "assurance" that "no public construction projects are being undertaken by your council at less than the prevailing rate of pay."

UNION WAGES

Mr. Young told council that city outside workers' wages are set in negotiations with the Canadian Union of Public Employees (CUPE).

The Rose-Blanshard project, although larger than usual, "is in no way different from the work these men are doing through 12 months of the year," Mr. Young said.

City workers are employed throughout the year, whereas surveys show construction workers are employed an average of only nine months of the year, he said.

Considered on such a basis, their wage over a year is 34 cents an hour higher, he said.

In addition, they receive fringe benefits that are not paid by other employers in the region, Mr. Young added. Employees on workmen's compensation receive 100 per cent of their salary while construction workers usually receive only about 70 per cent of their wage.

The letter from the Trades Council was filed with Ald. Robert Baird's suggestion that the unions handle the matter with the CUPE.

ALMOST SOLID IRON

When discovered in 1947, the Cerro Bolivar mountain in Brazil was estimated to contain about 500,000,000 tons of high grade iron ore.

TEST CASE PROPOSED

Junk Piles Outlawed; Bylaw Validity Shaky

City council Thursday passed a rubbish bylaw introduced in committee a week ago outlawing junkpiles on city properties.

Empowered under the Municipal Act to pass such a bylaw, the city wanted a rule to force property-owners to keep their land clean.

The bylaw states:

No person shall within the city cause or permit water, rubbish or noxious, offensive, or unwholesome matter or substance to collect or accumulate around his premises.

OPEN PLACE

No person shall within the city deposit, or throw bottles, broken glass or other rubbish in any open place.

Every occupier or real property in the city or, where there is no occupier then the owner thereof, shall be and is required to remove therefrom any and all accumulations of filth, discarded materials, or rubbish of any kind.

No person, being the owner, or occupier of premises in the city shall cause, suffer or permit the premises of which he is the owner of occupier to be or to remain untidy and unsightly.

The bylaw empowers the city to move any rubbish from such property at the owner or occupier's expense.

In presenting the original draft to council's finance committee, city solicitor T. P. O'Grady suggested the bylaw might not stand up in court. The committee at that time considered prosecuting a test case.

'Working Alliance'

NEW YORK (AP)—The Student Non-Violent Co-ordinating Committee and the Black Panther party have formed a "working alliance," a leader in the two militant groups says, and they hope the alliance will be the genesis of a U.S. Negro political party.

AROUND OUR SHORES

Old, New Friends of Sailing

By SHIRLEY HEWETT

One of the joys in a busman's sailing holiday is the certain knowledge that sometimes, and everywhere, you'll meet up with an old friend, or make a new one. Then, the fun lies in swapping boat stories, which are as plentiful as Gulf Island oysters at low tide.

Hewett

We set off for a week's cruising in the good ship Picnic, a 32-foot sloop distinguished by not one, but two, stainless steel sinks. Which adds nothing to the sailing performance, but simplifies housekeeping afloat.

First stop, Cowichan Bay. And there at the Government Wharf was the familiar black Shark. Charlie Pash, past Turkey Head Fleet Captain, has moved with boat and baggage to the bay.

★ ★ ★

He's working at the venerable Cowichan Bay Inn, and told us that owner Doug Hepburns' plans for expansion include a new waterfront development. (They've already gone modern with a swimming pool).

Next, to Birdseye Cove in Maple Bay. Seattle's Serge Becker in Pink Lady, a 40-foot Newporter, was looking forward to joining in the Norpac Race up the West Coast to Barkley Sound.

Four years ago this month, Serge hosted a gathering at Philbrooks Boatyard to launch his new Pelagius (a Ray Richards design similar to the Maui Race yacht Tiffany).

Among the guests at that party was a young chap called Peter. He had just returned from a year with the Thailand government, updating fishboat designs. In Vancouver he was at that time the first half of Hatfield and Palmer, naval architects.

On to Telegraph Harbor. At anchor, sharing coffee with Ned and Joan Ashe from the May D II. They were on their way back from Desolation Sound, where some of the Thunderbird fleet visited on a two week cruise.

A puff of smoke, a bang, and a splatter of grape shot across our bow at Boat Harbor. Ken Kendall is probably the only harbor custodian in B.C. with a degree from McGill University. It's worth a trip in to his marina just to see the signs.

Cannons are his hobby. He has half a dozen spotted around his property — and he fires them upon occasion. One occasion worthy of his weapons was the Nanaimo bathrub race last weekend. He had been invited to five one of his little Berthas to start the race.

Homeward boud, our last port of call was Scott Point Marina, where a Vancouver Province gave us the first printed word we'd seen on the Maui Race finish.

★ ★ ★

SHORT TACKS: There's a veritable armada assembling for the 1970 Victoria-Maui Race. Ninety-eight per cent of the boats now exist only in the imagination of the skippers, where they are likely to remain. (All Hatfield designed, of course). Nevertheless, Race officials commented that the 1970 fleet could easily double over this year's fourteen entries. And the trend toward building or importing the plus-thirty-footers is accelerating in Vancouver. . . . Two boats from the instant fleet which started building here last fall are sailing in Esquimalt Harbor. The single-handed catamarans (from a John Mazotti design) now scooting around belong to Doug Beer and John Ganton. Nearly ready to launch are Harry Lovett, Vince Martorino, and Joan Thompson. Ten others are building. Informal cat racing last Sunday saw Ken Keith's Bearcat, Doug John, and a visiting Edmontonian (also with a Mazotti-design) jousting about the marks. Three year old Ian Beer had his first introduction to crewing. (His job was to scramble to the proper hull).

These Mazotti Unicorn cats are being built across Canada (particularly in the prairies). Part of their attraction is that they can be disassembled and easily car-topped.

CN Cheques Available At Office

Canadian National pensioners in Victoria who usually receive their cheques by mail may collect them at the CN ticket office it was announced today.

Special arrangements for distribution of pension cheques for retired employees in Nanaimo, Port Alberni, Courtenay, Comox, Duncan and other Vancouver Island points are being made by J. E. Warren, CN terminal manager in Victoria.

CN pension cheques customarily deposited in banks by the company will be credited to pensioners accounts as usual, a railway spokesman said.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP) —Oilseeds and rye developed strength on fairly healthy export buying through to the close of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today.

All flax futures moved easily to higher levels after liberal hedging sales at the opening were well absorbed and offers thinned. There was a similar pattern in rapeseed and rye.

Feed grains were on a fractionally easier price pattern.

The wheat board announced that all oats spreads were lowered half a cent on the cash gran market.

Gains and losses were about equal.

The Toronto market posted a wide range of losses in light trading. Out of the 16 industrial groups, only steels, beverages and construction stocks were steady.

AT NEW YORK Phillips Petroleum, up four, paced the list of activity. The stock responded to news that Phillips would begin drilling two wells this winter in the same area in Alaska where a rich find recently spurred the stock of Atlantic Richfield.

Standard Oil (New Jersey) was active and up two in response to its increased dividends. Mobil Oil gained three, Standard of Indiana more than a point, Texaco nearly a point.

Other blue chips were spurred by the investment interest in oils.

AT TORONTO, in industrials, CPR fell 1⅜ to 50, Fruehauf Trailer 1 to 15, International Utilities 1 to 50½, Levy Industries 1 to 28¾ and Revenue Properties ¾ to 35½.

Neon Products and Dylex Diversified were up 2 each to 40½ and 32½, Seaway Hotels 1⅜ to 18 and Ontario Store Fixture 1⅛ to 35⅝.

Scurry-Rainbow rose 2⅜ to 37, Canadian Gridoil ⅞ to 13 and French Pete 35 cents to $7.10.

Patino dropped 1⅜ to 28¾, Kerr Addision ⅝ to 17⅛ and Gunnar 30 cents to $3. New Quebec Raglan jumped 60 cents to $7.10 and Wright-Hargreaves 35 cents to $2.95.

AT MONTREAL papers and utilities led the downward trend in light trading today.

Uncertainty over mixed prices on the New York market led investors to remain cautious.

Great Lakes Paper slid 1 to 17¾, while CIP, MacMillan and Price each retreated ½.

International Utilities was off 2¼, CPR 1⅜, Bell Telephone ⅜ and Maritime Telephone ¼.

AT VANCOUVER — Prices were generally weaker in all sectors during quiet morning trading.

In the mining section Churchill Copper continued to trade actively, but dipped .05 to .95. Magnum, also an active trader, slipped .05 to $2.75.

Buchanan declined .07 to .23 and National Nickel was off .11 to $2.55.

Gainers included Atlas, up .10 to $3.20, Hearne Copper, up .15 to $3, and PCE Explorations, up .27 to $2.45.

In the industrial section, Inland Natural Gas dipped .75 to $9.75 and MacMillan Bloedel was off .62 to $22.

Oil trading was quiet with Sunlite up .4 to $6 and Trans Canada off .10 to $2.50.

Newmont Mining

Newmont Mining Corp. Wednesday raised its dividend 10 cents, from 55 to 65 cents per quarter.

The company reported its half-year net income as $2.45 per share against $2.12 last year, or $23.18 million vs. $20.18 million. This year's half includes a capital gain of $3.55 million and $5.65 million in dividends from Newmont's holdings in Palabora Mining Co. Ltd., South Africa.

Canada Crushed

HAMILTON (CP) — Canada Crushed and Cut Stone Ltd. Wednesday reported a 72 per cent increase in net earnings for the six months ended June 30.

Profits rose to $179,094 or 94 cents a share from the $104,384 or 55 cents reported for the like 1967 period.

Sales were up $293,088 to $3,060,057.

Standard Oil

Standard Oil of Indiana second quarter net profits amounted to $74.6 million or $1.05 per share.

In the same period a year ago the net was $67.6 million, or 96 cents a share.

Teck Corp.

Calgary-based Teck Corp. reports it holds a 25 per cent interest in 70,000 permit acres in the Mackenzie Delta region overlapping the Arctic coast just west of the Northwest Territories-Yukon boundary.

The diversified petroleum-mining exploration and producing company also has interest in NWT acreage which it planned to drill this season. Vice-president N. B. Keevil said a farm-out well was planned in the Version Lake and English Chief River area.

Westinghouse Up

A profitable first half is reported by Canadian Westinghouse Co. Ltd., with net of $1.06 million or 40 cents a share, compared with a net loss of $98,590 last year when a strike shut down operations for six weeks.

Recession Feared From U.S. Controls

By ERIC WENTWORTH

PARIS — American officials at an international economic policy meeting here foresaw this week the possibility of a mild recession in the United States early next year.

The recently-enacted tax surcharge coupled with deep federal budget cutbacks may take more steam out of the U.S. economy than backers of the tax measure had originally intended, they explained.

Other delegations at a periodic meeting of the 21-nation Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development's economy policy committee were said to show some concern at this forecast, which could among other things affect their exports to the United States.

Otherwise, they presumably were pleased at the American prediction the over-all U.S. balance of payments deficit for the current year should drop below $2 billion and possibly as low as $1.5 billion.

The U.S. deficit, which last year hit an alarming $3.6 billion was threatening both U.S. gold reserves and world monetary stability.

Other nations fretted for months while Congress delayed action on the long-pending tax surcharge bill, considered a major antidote to the U.S. payments deficit since it would combat inflationary pressures. Thus there was a certain irony in the new concern that tax measures combined with budget reductions might go too far.

$ EXCHANGE

VICTORIA—Purchase of U.S. funds in terms of the Canadian dollar was quoted today at $1.07 1/16 for cheques, $1.06⅞ for cash, $1.05⅞ for silver. Sales were $1.07¾ for cheques and $1.07⅞ for cash.

NEW YORK (CP)—The Canadian dollar was down 1/64 at 93 7/32 in terms of U.S. funds. Pound sterling was up ⅛ at $2.39 25/64.

MONTREAL (CP)—The U.S. dollar in terms of Canadian funds was unchanged at $1.07¼. Pound sterling was up ⅛ at $2.56¾.

FUNDS GO FOREIGN IN 1968

OTTAWA (CP) — Foreign investments of Canadian mutual funds increased by $253 million or 41 per cent between the first quarters of 1967 and 1968, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Thursday.

The funds' total assets increased only slightly more than this amount — by $268 million to $2.261 billion.

The totals as reported by DBS do not indicate what portion of mutual fund foreign holdings are represented by U.S. stocks.

A new federal-government request asks all financial institutions to hold the line in future on U.S. dollar investments overseas.

Mutual funds are known to have been major buyers of U.S. stocks for the last few years.

Mutual fund investments in common shares of Canadian companies actually declined by $44 million or almost 5 per cent during the year.

HAD TWO SOURCES

Of the over-all increase, shareholders provided $163 million and capital appreciation provided an additional $117 million.

Total assets of trust companies increased by 7.9 per cent over the year. Of the $326 million dollar growth, a total of $260 million was accounted for by increased holdings of mortgages.

Mortgage company assets were up 7.2 per cent or $188 million with mortgages accounting for $126 million.

Sales finance and consumer loan companies increased their accounts receivable by $170 million or 4.6 per cent and theri total assets by $100 million or 2.3 per cent.

Increases in term deposits financed most of the growth of the trust companies and mortgage loan companies. Chartered bank loans, short-term borrowings and issues of long-term debt provided funds for most of the expansion of sales finance and consumer loan companies.

British Exports Starting to Boom As Pound Firms

LONDON (AP) — Leaders of key British industries reported Wednesday the start of an export boom promising an early return to national solvency.

But a note of caution was sounded by The Times. It said in an editorial:

"This is only the start of the road, and industry is going to have to keep up this trend for many more months before it can be said that devaluation has paid off."

The pound sterling was devalued by nearly 15 per cent Nov. 18. Exporters said this gave them the chance to bring their prices in line with international levels and at the same time increase their profit margins enough to make exporting at least at attractive as selling on the home market.

The automobile, mechanical and electrical engineering, machine-tool, steel, shipbuilding and coal industries all reported big jumps in their exports during the first part of this year.

The return of confidence was reflected in the foreign exchange, stock and money markets. The pound sterling was strong in money markets. In London, it opened up 6¾ points on Tuesday's close at $2.39255 U.S.

SOUTHEASTERN B.C.

Phosphate Rock Core Under Probe

Reports of an encouraging drill core in a southeastern B.C. phospate rock prospect Thursday raised the possibility of a renewed industry in the province.

A theory is that primary phosphate rock deposits mined in Utah, Montana, Idaho and Wyoming may extend northward into B.C.

Prospecting in the Flathead River area south of Michel has been going on for about two years, and one of the programs is being done by a group of companies including Western Warner Oils Ltd., holding 110 claims, and Imperial Oil Ltd., which is diamond drilling.

NO COMMENT

Tight hole security was clamped on the drilling operation when it appeared that the core looked good, according to a report locally.

Imperial Oil employees have been instructed to divest themselves of any holdings in the smaller company, a routine order where inside trading could be done to advantage.

The hole was spudded about four weeks ago and is the second of a program which the company is expected to extend to 14.

According to the company yast year, assays of 22-33 per cent phosphoric oxide have been made on samples of the rock.

If the deposit is found to be commercial — useable by the fertilizer industry — it will be the first in B.C. in 35 years. Large quantities of the rock are imported to B.C., much of it from nearby American states, by Cominco for manufacture into fertilizer at Trail.

Western Warner, a closely held company dating from 1926, was selling over the counter six weeks ago in the 45-50-cent range. It was quoted Wednesday at 75-80 cents, Thursday was 88-90, and 87-89 today.

Most of the company's interest is in Alberta oil and gas properties.

Big Labrador Powerhouse Contract Let

MONTREAL (CP) — Churchill Constructors, a grouping of six construction firms, has been awarded a $46 million contract for the main civil facilities for the underground powerhouse complex at the Churchill Falls hydro-electric power development in Labrador.

The powerhouse complex, due to start in September, will consist of three large chambers and a maze of interconnecting shafts and tunnels, including one a mile long leading to the powerhouse.

The biggest excavation will be the powerhouse proper, 972 feet long and 164 feet high, the equivalent of a 16-storey building, 1,000 feet below surface and described as the largest underground powerhouse anywhere.

Canada Bonds Rise As Interest Eases

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian bond market was up one-quarter of a point in active trading Thursday.

Long-term Government of Canada bonds were up ¼ of a point with the 4½-per-cent Sept. 1, 1983, issue closing at 81 bid and 81¼ asked.

Short-term bonds were up about 10 cents with the 6¼-per-cent Dec. 15, 1969, issue closing at 100.40 bid and 100.50 asked.

Day-to-day money traded at 5¾ per cent, and treasury bills were unchanged.

Bank Rate Cut Imminent

OTTAWA (CP) — Short-term interest rates, as represented by federal government treasury board yields, dropped by more than an eighth of a percentage point this week.

The decline appeared to signal a reduction in the Bank of Canada's bank rate which may be announced this weekend.

Long-term rates also declined. The Bank of Canada's average of yields on seven long-term government bonds at market prices dropped this week to 6.54 per cent from 6.64, the figure which prevailed for the last two weeks.

Bids on $140 million worth of three-month treasury bills this week averaged 98.527 of face value, an equivalent yield of six per cent a year.

Last week, the bids resulted in average yields of 6.17 per cent.

The bank rate reached a high point of 7½ per cent on March 15, and was reduced July 2 to seven per ent. Two days later, the treasury bill yield dropped to 6½ per cent.

The bank rate normally is kept higher than short-term interest rates. If it were lower, it would be profitable for the chartered banks to draw advances from the central bank for short-term loans.

But it is unusual for the Bank of Canada to keep its bank rate substantially higher, unless it is intending to signal some tightening of the economy. The bank rate is important as a signal of the central bank's attitude to the economy.

Old Thompson-Dief Feud May Disrupt Tory Caucus

By TOM MITCHELL

OTTAWA (CP)—It isn't too easy to picture John Diefenbaker and Robert Thompson occupying the same set of benches in the Commons.

But it is going to happen when the new post-election session of the Commons starts, probably in September.

Politics, as the saying goes, makes strange bedfellows. The 1968 election was no exception.

Mr Diefenbaker, deposed as Conservative party leader at the 1967 convention, was re-elected to the Commons in his home constituency of Prince Albert.

Mr. Thompson, who quit as Social Credit party leader in 1967, ran as a Conservative in the June 25 election this time and was elected in his Red Deer riding.

Switching political horses is not unique in Canadian politics. But Mr. Thompson's new alignment has some more-than-usual spice, at least with Mr. Diefenbaker as a member of his new party.

BIG DIVISION

John Diefenbaker was prime minister in 1963, fighting what turned out to be a losing battle to hold a divided cabinet together and to avoid defeat in a Commons vote centred on a big divisive issue—whether Canada should accept nuclear warheads for her anti-bomber missiles.

The result of that vote hinged on Social Credit and Robert Thompson was the Socred leader.

As Mr. Diefenbaker told it later, and told it often, Social Credit was with the Conservative government at 6 p.m. that February night but turned against it at 8 p.m., after the usual Commons dinner break.

Mr. Diefenbaker insists to this day that it was a telephone call consultation between Mr. Thompson and Alberta's Social Credit premier, Ernest Manning, that turned the tide. After the sitting resumed, the government was defeated, Social Credit MPs voting with the Liberal opposition.

In recent years, each time Mr. Diefenbaker brought his version of this event up in the Commons there was a Thompson reply. It would come either at Mr. Thompson's turn in whatever debate was under way or in a special press release.

NOT MANIPULATED

The former Socred leader always denied that there was any manipulation of his federal party by the Alberta premier and said federal Social Credit had acted as it saw fit and in the best interests of the country.

This is where the saw-off stands to this day.

It would be fun to picture the two men attending the same caucus of party MPs, perhaps clashing over what party policy should be.

This won't happen.

As a former prime minister and former party leader, Mr. Diefenbaker does not attend caucus. He said recently caucus does a better job of ironing out its thinking when he is not there.

But he will be in the Commons. And he will not be silent about things for which he has a deep feeling.

As leader of the Social Credit party, Mr. Thompson used to harp on a need for what he called petty politicking to be set aside and for the government to get on with the business of running the country.

Mr. Diefenbaker has a feeling that what some people might call pretty politicking is the essence of parliamentary government.

He wants to ensure that the rights of any opposition are not trampled under by government and that nothing done in the name of political expediency comes back to haunt the Canadian people.

Even without the caucus confrontation, it could be pretty interesting watching the two strange bedfellows in the Conservative party.

DECLARING SUPPORT for Nelson Rockefeller in Republican presidential nomination contest is Sen. Charles Percy, of Illinois, who was himself considered possible major contender. (AP Wirephoto.)

NIXON HOLDING CONVINCING LEAD

By United Press International

Richard M. Nixon still has sufficient convention delegate strength—on paper—to capture the Republican presidential nomination on the first ballot, according to a United Press International survey today.

With the selection less than two weeks away, UPI tabulated 691 probable votes for Nixon on the first ballot. A total of 667 is needed to nominate.

Of Nixon's total, 183 votes are committed to his candidacy on at least the first ballot and 508 are leaning toward it.

His nearest rival, Nelson A. Rockefeller, had 285 votes in the UPI survey, 130 committed and 155 leaning. Ronald Reagan had 157 total, 86 committed and 71 leaning. Harold Stassen had 1 committed vote.

There were still 44 uncommitted votes and 155 tied up in favorite son candidacies.

Rockefeller partisans claim Nixon has been losing delegates' votes since the last of the state conventions in early July. The UPI tabulation shows a slight increase in Nixon strength during this period; there were scattered losses, but these were somewhat more than offset by the change of some previously uncommitted delegates to the leaning-toward-Nixon column.

U.K. Urged to Speed Measurement Change

LONDON (CP) — A government committee urged today that Britain speed up the change to metres, grams and litres from feet, pounds and quarts.

Acknowledging the complications involved, 16 industrialists, senior civil servants and trade-union officials of the standing committee on metrication nevertheless says the government should get cracking on the change to the metric system from imperial weights and measures.

The committee members unanimously "emphasize the urgency of a government announcement" making Dec. 31, 1975, the target date for completion of the switch for the whole of Britain under overall supervision of a government metrication board.

Hints of impatience at British failure to get the metrication ball really rolling emerges from the standing committee's report, which notes that the government announced support for the change in industry back in 1965.

The committee itself called for positive government action in its first report 14 months ago.

The committee was appointed in 1966 to advise an adoption of the metric system in British industry, but it suggests metrication of the country as a whole should keep pace, especially in the schools, business and retail trade. British industrialists aim to make the change in their field about 1970 or 1971.

Experts say Britain's switch to decimal currency in February, 1971, can only bring maximum efficiency to business if weights and measures also go metric.

The committee recommends establishment of a full-time government metrication board to "oversee, stimulate and co-ordinate" the activity of specialist committees that would direct adoption of the metric system in various sectors such as commerce, education, civil engineering and so on.

The committee renews a call for government enabling legislation that would specify the metric units to be used. It says British practice should be aligned with the Systeme Internationale, which lays down basic and derived units, because it is "likely to become the only system of units in the world in due course."

Rockefeller Advances Plan for World Order

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller says as president he would work toward international creation of "a new world order" based on East-West cooperation instead of conflict.

The Republican presidential contender said he would begin a dialogue with China, if elected, to "improve the possibilities of accommodations" with that country as well as the Soviet Union.

Rockefeller said in a speech he would work to end the arms race and said the U.S. and Russia must co-operate to prevent small wars in areas such as the Middle East from mushrooming into big ones.

Senator Eugene J. McCarthy, a Democratic presidential aspirant, indicated meanwhile he will drop hopes of meeting with North Vietnamese diplomats in Paris to learn first hand the prospects for settlement of the Vietnam war.

McCarthy said in view of the Honolulu communique issued Sunday by President Johnson and South Vietnam President Nguyen Van Thieu, "the chances of my doing any good are significantly reduced."

POSITIONS DIFFER

He said the communique indicating this country will not further reduce its military action in South Vietnam until North Vietnam makes some concessions laid out a position "quite different" from his own.

"Consequently," McCarthy said, "to come in and talk to the same people they're talking to would seem to be kind of an intrusion. The possibility of going might be interpreted as attempting to negotiate somehow over the heads of the administration. . . ."

McCarthy made the comments in Boston before addressing the largest crowd drawn by any candidate this year—35,875 according to the turnstile counters at Fenway Park, home of Boston Red Sox.

The question of picking vice-presidential candidates drew the spotlight in the election campaign.

Chicago Mayor Richard Daley said Senator Edward Kennedy is considering the possibility of making himself available. That accelerated a drive to put the brother of slain Senator Robert Kennedy in second place on the Democratic ticket.

An aide of Richard Nixon charged that the "lure of the vice-presideency" had caused Senator Charles Percy to endorse Rockefeller Thursday for the Republican presidential nomination.

Kennedy's call to Daley, to discuss the latter's proposal that the Chicago Democratic convention draft the Massachusetts senator for vice-president, represented the first break in Kennedy's silence about burgeoning proposals to put him on the ticket.

Daley told reporters he talked with Kennedy by telephone Wednesday night and urged the Massachusetts senator to accept a draft. The mayor quoted Kennedy as saying he was "considering" it.

However, the New York Times said in a story today that Kennedy has drafted a plain and unambiguous statement taking himself out of consideration for the vice-presidential nomination.

Humphrey, the Times said, is convinced that Kennedy will not be available and is considering McCarthy and Kennedy's brother-in-law, Sargent Shriver, as his running mate.

The Times story also said that several intimates of the Kennedy family worked on the withdrawal statemeent and apparently the only remaining decision is when to make it public.

'Domestic' Quarrel'

MANILA (UPI) — Basilio Alberto and his wife Eufemia had an argument, the Philippine News Service said today, and Eufemia went to town and returned with a marriage counselor. After the counselor left, Basilio tied Eufemia to the bedpost and then went to sleep. The news service said Eufemia untied herself, beheaded Basilio with a bolo knife and turned herself in to police on Mindanao Island.

PUBLIC FUNDS BUY GUNS

Critics Assail Mayor In Negro Riots

CLEVELAND (CP)—Mayor Carl Stokes, first Negro to take over the administration of a major United States city, faced mounting criticism today for his handling of racial disorders that left 10 dead and 23 wounded after three consecutive nights of looting and burning.

Stokes spent much of the night touring the predominantly-Negro area where militant black guerrillas battled police with automatic weapons, killing three white policemen Tuesday night.

Stokes appealed to the 75,000 Negroes in the turbulent Glenville area to restore order.

The 40-year-old mayor's struggle to regain control of the ghetto merged into a fight to restore his slipping political image.

Elected eight months ago as the man who could save and rebuild a city beset by racial unrest, Stokes' political power soared in April when Cleveland escaped riots that struck other American cities after Dr. Martin Luther King's assassination.

Political leaders—both Democratic and Republican—attacked him on two main fronts.

CAUSED MORE TROUBLE

They said that Strokes' decision Wednesday to withdraw the National Guard and white police from the troubled ghetto the night after the gun battle was a mistaken concession to black militants which produced further disorders, widespread looting and arson.

They also charged Stokes refused to face the fact that black militants are determined to create maximum disorder in cities this summer and they do not care if the mayor is a black man.

But the most damaging charge—described by city politicians as potentially a slow fuse that could destroy the mayor's political future—was the disclosure by city officials that $10,000 of federal funds earmarked for the city's major redevelopment program was given to Fred Ahmed Evans, alleged leader of the guerrilla gang, as part of a summer youth program.

Police said Evans admitted using the money to buy the guns and ammunition in Tuesday night's battle by the gang who called themselves "the astrologist nationalists."

Evans, 36, is well known among the city's Negro community as an amateur astrologist.

A city hall official said; "The disclosure that the gang got hold of some of those funds and used them for murder and rebellion will cause an explosion in congress and certainly won't help Cleveland's attempt to rebuild itself."

HIS GAMBLE FAILED

Another official declared Stokes' decision to withdraw guardsmen and white police was a gamble that failed.

"He's mayor of the city to keep the peace," the official said. "The looting went on because there was no law and order there."

The decision didn't sit too well with a number of white policemen.

As they sat in their cars outside the ghetto they heard police radio reports of crowds gathering, and of looting. And they knew that only certain police cars were permitted to respond.

Patrolman Richard Galaska sent a letter of resignation to the department Thursday.

"After a few of my brother officers were killed," Galaska, 30, said, "and others were wounded we were pulled out of the area, and told not to use force."

"I am so angry," he said, "and confused I don't feel I can any longer perform an effective job."

Chicago Outburst Injures 12

CHICAGO (AP) — More than a dozen persons were injured Thursday night when Negro youths looted a food store on Chicago's North Side.

In suburban Maywood another crowd smashed store windows after police used tear gas to disperse demonstrators at the village hall.

Twenty-five persons were arrested in Maywood. Three were held on disorderly conduct charges after the Chicago disturbance.

In Maywood, trouble started after a meeting of a local branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. Discussions at the meeting centred on the lack of a swimming pool.

First Step To Revolt

NEW YORK (Reuters) — The chairman of the Student Non-Violent Co-ordinating Committee said Thursday the racial disturbances in Cleveland were the "first stage of the revolutionary armed struggle."

Phil Hutchins, 26, the organization's new leader, said the black community had no choice but to arm itself against the police.

He said police in Cleveland have a record of antagonism toward blacks.

Psychosomatic Care Could End Rioting

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Psychosomatic therapy may be the solution to racial rioting in the United States.

Psychosomatic — mind-body — diseases are those caused or aggravated by emotional stress.

Physicians and psychiatrists working in clinics set up in Los Angeles' Watts district after bloody rioting in 1965 say physical disease and emotional stress appear to be much higher there than in other parts of the city.

Chief among the stresses motivating rioters, the researchers found, were hopelessness and self-hatred.

The cure, they say, is to give the underprivileged Negro reason for hope and to teach them not to hate themselves. This would relieve tension and reduce the physical diseases that cause more stress.

Dr. Daniels D. Hansen, assistant professor in medicine and psychiatry, says "the higher incidence of disease in Watts is unquestionably due to the greater stresses under which the Watts Negroes live, depths of hopelessness and self-hatred which the average white man can't imagine."

To illustrate the power of hopelessness, he told of an experiment with rats placed in a tank of water from which they could not escape.

"Within 10 minutes," he said, "all the rats gave up and were about to drown. One was lifted out and allowed to catch his breath, then placed back in the water. He swam for 18 more hours, buoyed by hope, long after the others had died.

"Hopelessness played a strong role in the Watts rioting. If everybody who took part in the rioting could have been given a two week vacation at Lake Arrowhead in July—and if they had some hope of looking forward to the same thing next year, there would have been no rioting in August of 1965."

Pakos Beats 'Em No Matter How . . .

NORTH VANCOUVER — Coquitlam, which defeated Victoria in the first round of the double-knockout B.C. Babe Ruth Baseball championships for 15-year-olds, knew that George Pakos of the All-Stars had homered in each of his three previous games—so they walked him.

He still managed to score the winning run as Victoria staged its second straight sixth-inning rally for a 3-2 victory.

Pakos, who tossed a seven-hitter to pick up the win, was walked to load the bases after Walter Burrows and Bob Duncan had singled. Wayne O'Malley dropped a bunt and two runs came in when the Coquitlam first baseman threw the ball away.

Pakos went to third on the play and scored on a passed ball.

Fraserview became the only undefeated team by downing Trail, 5-2.

MANN LEADS . . . . . . AT TORONTO

Warnings Upset Sandra

TORONTO (CP) — "I've just never played like that before," said Sandra Post, tears in her eyes.

Miss Post, Canada's first U.S. women's pro golf titlist, needs a tremendous recovery in the last two rounds of the $20,000 women's open golf championship here even to get into the money.

She shot a disappointing 79 Thursday over the par-73, 6,448-yard Bayview Club course. She took an eight on one par-3 hole.

Upset over slow play warnings issued to her and partners, Miss Post blamed her poor showing on the rush of the play. "We were almost running out there," she said.

The 20-year-old Oakville, Ont., shotmaker, who won the LPGA title five weeks ago, was making her pro debut before a gallery of some 300 Toronto and hometown fans, a good crowd for women's golf.

"I've just never played like that before," she added. "I didn't take a practice swing. I didn't even get a chance to read putts. I just stepped up and hit them."

Tournament supervisor Len Wirtz said several groups were warned during the day.

Miss Post was 10 strokes behind the leader, Carol Mann.

Miss Mann also received a slow-play warning but praised the officiating and the course. She carded a four-under 69.

Marlene Stewart Streit of Toronto, one of the 18 Canadian amateurs playing in the 54-hole medal-play tournament, tied for second place with Pam Barnett and Sandra Spuzich, both of the U.S. at two-under 71.

Only two other golfers — Americans Patty Berg and Clifford Ann Creed — managed to break par. Each had a 72.

Amateur Jocelyne Bourassa of Shawinigan Falls, Que., Americans Jo Ann Prentice, Glorie Ehret, Sandra Palmer, Sharon Miller and Sybil Griffins and Gerda Shalen of West Germany all finished at par 73.

Action begins both days at 2:45 p.m. on grounds at East Saanich and Veyeness Roads.

McCORMICK ADVANCES IN ONTARIO TOURNEY

HAMILTON — Don McCormick of Victoria upset fourth-seeded Frank Tutvin of Toronto 7-5, 6-1 Thursday in the Ontario tennis championships.

In other men's singles play top-seeked Harry Fauquier of Toronto downed Vic Rollins of Vancouver 6-1, 7-5.

Among the distaff singles, Vickie Berner of Vancouver gained the semi-finals with three wins over Toronto players, downing Dorothy Hanna 6-1, 6-2; Willy Brown 6-3, 6-3 and Penny Sparling 7-5, 6-3. Number one seeded Faye Urban of Windsor also reached the semis with a 6-3, 6-0 win over Benita Senn of Toronto.

CANADIAN JUNIOR

Skillings Enjoying Success in Mixed

VANCOUVER—Roger Skillings, of Victoria, and Cecilia Rosanda, of Mexico City, reached the semi-finals of the under-18 mixed doubles competition in the Canadian junior tennis championships here on Thursday.

They advanced by handily defeating Gregg Lee, of Toronto, and Jill Boornazian, of Berkeley, Calif., 6-1, 6-0, in the second round, then won their quarter-final match over Todd Overgard, of Sunnyvale, and Jane Richardson, of Hollywood, Calif., 6-1, 6-3.

Steve Stefanki of Los Altos Hills, Calif., an unseeded player, offers a strong challenge in the boys under-18 semifinals today.

Stefanki, 17, started his rise towards the under-18 title Wednesday when he defeated Bill Washauer of San Francisco, the top-ranked American and the eighth-seeded under-18 player in northern California.

Stefanki followed up Thursday with a 2-6, 6-1, 7-5 win over Scott Dunlop of Ottawa, fourth-seeded Canadian.

Today he faces first-ranked Canadian Jim Boyce of Toronto in a semi-final match. Boyce, also 17, won the boys under-16 championship at last year's closed tournament in Ottawa and was the Ontario boys under-18 winner early this yaar.

Alberto Riba of Barcelona, Spain, fifth foreign seed, defeated Chip Fisher of Palo Alto, Calif., the third ranked American, in a quarter-final match Thursday and plays Bill MacDonnell of Toronto in the semi-finals. MacDonnell is the third-ranked Canadian.

Canadians shone in the girls under-18 quarterfinals Thursday. Top American Pat Bostrom of Seattle lost 6-1, 8-6 to Karen Will of Clarkson, Ont. Top Canadian Jan O'Hara of Toronto beat fourth foreign seed Lucy Kable of San Diego and second American seed Jane Richardson of Hollywood lost to Michele Carey of Vancouver 3-6, 9-7, 6-3.

Miss O'Hara plays third-seeded Carey in the semi-finals today with second Canadian seed Janice Tindle of Vancouver playing Miss Will.

Fisher is still alive in the boys under-16 competition in which he is the first-ranked American.

Miss Rosada, Skillings' partner, was undefeated in the girls under-16 event as she entered the semi-finals against unseeded Gloria Thomas of San Digo. Miss Rosada, the top foreign seed in the tournament, is the under-16 champion of Mexico.

Miss Will, also entered in the under-18 semi-finals, plays second-ranked American Donna Kellock of Richmond, Calif., in the girls under-16 semi-finals.

Mile Features Track Events

Vancouver Olympic Club will send two ace milers to the Victoria Highland Games track and field meet at Centennial Stadium Saturday.

Norm Trierice and Don Scott will vie with Victoria's John Vallant for top honors in a race that shapes up as the feature of the track program.

Trierice recently beat Dave Bailey, the Canadian record-holder now touring Europe, with a clocking of 4:05.0 in Vancouver. Scott's best time is 4:07.

Heats start at 10 a.m. with finals slated for 1 p.m.

Lakers Doused Again

COQUITLAM (CP)—A sparkling performance by goalkeeper Les Norman paced New Westminster Salmonbellies to an 11-9 victory over Peterborough Lakers in an interlocking National Lacrosse Association game before 1,897 fans Thursday night.

Norman stopped 42 of the 51 shots fired at him by Laker attackers while his teammates outscored Peterborough, 4-2, in the second period and matched them goal for goal in the other two.

The win moved New Westminster into a second-place tie with Portland in the loop's Western Division.

It was the third straight setback for Peterborough on its swing through the Western Division. Beaten by Victoria and Portland earlier this week, the Lakers wrap up their tour in Vancouver tonight.

Ace in Deck Still Trumps Waiting Bats

By The Associated Press

Patience finally paid off for Jim Northrup and Joe Torre, but againt Bob Gibson it appeared almost useless.

National League hitters have been waiting in vain since May 28 for Gibson, St. Louis Cardinals' hard-firing right hander, to lose.

The veteran hurler blanked Philadelphia Phillies 5-0 Thursday night on five hits for his 11th consecutive victory and eighth shutout of the season.

Now 14-5, Gibson has yielded more than three runs only once in those 19 decisions. In his last 92 innings he has allowed only two runs.

So the wait goes on against Gibson, but for Northrup and Torre, it has finaly ended.

Northrup waited since July 4 and Torre since June 20 to break a home run slump.

Northrup had two homers, driving in three runs, as Detroit Tigers posted a 4-1 rain-shortened victory over Washington Senators in the only American League contest.

Torre unloaded a three-run clout in Atlanta Braves' 4-2 triumph over New York Mets.

REDS BLANK PIRATES

In the only other game in the National League, Cincinnati Reds scored a 2-0 victory over Pittsburgh Pirates.

Gibson struck out six, walked one and allowed only one runner as far as second base in posting his 12th complete game in a row.

His victory string and his 33rd career shutout each tied Cardinals' team records.

The Cardinals touched Chris Short, 9-10, for two runs in the fourth inning on Johnny Edwards' single. Two more scored in the fifth on Orlando Cepeda's double and Mike Shannon's hit, and Gibson doubled in the final run in the eighth as the Cardinals swept the four-game series, extending Philadelphia's losing streak to seven games.

Detroit, wrapped in a 6-9 slump since the All-Star break, raised its American League lead to 5½ games over idle Baltimore entering a three-game weekend series against the Orioles.

Northrup brought the Tigers in with a two-run shot in the first inning and a leadoff belt in the third, giving him 15 for the season and 59 runs batted in.

MADE IT EASY

The homers made it easy for Joe Sparma, 8-9, who walked six men but allowed only a single by Paul Casanova before rain ended the contest after 6½ innings.

Atlanta had its troubles against the Mets' Dick Selma, who was coasting behind a one-hitter in a scoreless duel against Phil Niekro until his defence let him down.

With two out in the sixth inning, Felipe Alou tripled and third baseman Ed Charles booted a ground ball to break the tie. Hank Aaron's infield hit followed and then Torre unloaded his eighth homer.

FISHING REPORT

Cowichan Bay Remains Best

By STEWART LANG

Some of the furor over the spilling of diesel oil into Cowichan Bay has subsided, but salmon fishing prospects in the area remain as one of the best on Vancouver Island.

If you're looking for jack springs or coho, the best place seems to be right in the centre of the bay. The largest springs have been taken along the north side of the bay from Separation Point to the weed beds. Locations should be shifted in or out with the tide changes.

Coho and springs are still being taken in good numbers from Maple Bay to Sansum Narrows and reports indicate that Active Pass activity is on the upswing.

Fishing near Nanaimo has dropped off drastically from last week, although there are enough herring for some fishermen to be raking.

★ ★ ★

Near Bamfield, salmon have been taken in San Matao and Rainy Bays, where returns are increasing.

Near Courtenay, Charles Roullaud took the first tyee of the year from the Comox Bar — a 45½ pounder. Good returns are also reported from Pt. Holmes and Cape Lazo. Middle Notch Island might be considered a good bet.

Tyees should start to show soon in the Campbell River area in the inside waters. Places to try for springs might be the river mouth and along the kelp bed toward Willow Point, with coho chances best near Cape Mudge and Willow Point.

Closer to home, Saanich Inlet is still picking up and herring schools are beginning to move — a sign that might mean the salmon are close behind.

One of the largest was a 31:08 pounder caught by Maurice Bison off Willis Point. Productive spots in the centre of the Inlet are from Willis Point to The Boulder, and from Bamberton to McCurdy Point.

Anglers are warned to watch out for the small run of illegal-sized coho off the Mill Bay marker. There is an abundance of larger grilse in the north end of Pat Bay early in the morning.

In the lower end of the Inlet, springs and coho have been caught mostly within a circle from Goldstream Island to the Narrows. Misery Bay, where six-year-old Steven Patterson landed a 6:10 pound coho, might be worth a try.

★ ★ ★

Becher and Pedder Bays have dropped off with only a few springs to the 30-pound range showing. Coho have moved across the Strait, it seems and our American neighbors are enjoying good fishing.

Coho are scarce around Oak Bay and the spring fishing has dropped off. Emphasis seems to be shifting from Trial Island to The Gap for reasonable returns.

★ ★ ★

Local freshwater fishing has shifted to bass for enjoyment with the hot weather putting down the trout. Prospect and Beaver Lakes as well as St. Mary's Lake on Salt Spring Island are the hot-spots. Offshore angling is very productive on St. Mary's.

If you try for those big brown trout above Skutz Falls in the Cowichan River, be sure to watch out for the small coho fry which are biting at the same time. Trout returns are gradually diminishing from the river.

Sproat Lake has picked up in the Port Alberni area while Great Central has fallen off. Elsie Lake is a good spot to try for trout although it, too, is slowing down. There have been reports of a summer run of steelhead in the Coos Creek and Somass River.

Campbell River lakes remain good.

★ ★ ★

Nibbles: Saanich Inlet anglers are reminded that this is the last week in the VSIAA Qualifying Derby . . . fishoff is on August 18 . . . Mrs. J. A. Bell won $10 for the heaviest fish weighed in during the first week of the Cowichan Bay Salmon Club's ladder derby . . . It was a 24 pound spring . . . second was an 18:11 pounder landed by Fred Schiller of Duncan, who collected $5 . . . hidden-weight winners for the first week of the qualifying period ending Aug. 25 were Al Price of Victoria and Walter Bell of Mesachie Lake.

SIDELINED for at least three weeks with shoulder separation is Gaylord Powless of Detroit Olympics, second highest point-getter in National Lacrosse Association. Powless suffered injury in Sunday game at Montreal.

Producing Workers Extend League Lead

Transport Workers improved their hold on first place in the Senior Amateur Baseball League Thursday by posting an 11-1 victory over Greave's Movers at Topaz Park.

Bob Burrows highlighted a six-run, first-inning rally with a three-run double. Veteran Art Worth accounted for two more runs with a homer in the fourth and Russ Holms added another pair with a timely single in the sixth.

Don Bell ruined Gordy Strongman's hopes for a shutout when he singled to score Blair Kubicek in the sixth inning.

Douglas Sparkles In Debut

Reg Douglas made an impressive debut as he carried Carlings to their second win in 25 Senior Men's Softball League starts Thursday at Central Park.

A sailor and coach of the Lower Island Women's League team Cantins, Douglas made his debut in fine style and blanked Red Lion Inn for the first five innings for the 2-1 victory.

Roy St. Denis and Norm Curran scored the winner's runs in the fourth inning, banging out the only hits off loser Glen Langsett and completing their journeys with the aid of Red Lion errors.

Trapp Shares Third

Homenuik Leads In Alberta Open

EDMONTON (CP)—The tough Edmonton Country Club course yielded only four sub-par rounds Thursday in the first round of the Alberta Open golf championship.

Wilf Homenuik took a commanding lead in the tournament with a five-under-par 66, three strokes ahead of Herb Holzscheiter of Toronto.

Vaughn Trapp of Victoria and Robert Young of Toronto were tied for third at 70.

Homenuik, playing a precise game, missed only two greens and scored a three-under-par 33 on the front nine followed by a two-under-par 33 on the back nine.

Homenuik said the course was the best conditioned he had played on in Canada and "if you get a good shot you get credit for it."

Club professional Brian Copp, who Thursday shot a 76, said the course would receive additional toughening before today's round.

WILL MOVE TEES

The tees would be moved back and the pins given tougher placements from their relatively easy positions Thursday.

Three amateurs, including Alberta junior champion Roger Klatt of Edmonton, were among six golfers tied for fifth place at 71.

With Klatt, who won the junior championship last week in Edmonton, are Mike Mooney of Red Deer and Norm Gray of Calgary.

Professionals Len Harvey of Regina, Wayne Vollmer of Vancouver and Frank Fowler of Calgary were also at 71.

Nine golfers, including Moe Norman of Toronto, were bunched at 72 in a tie for 19th place. Victoria's Bill Wakeham was lodged in the group of 73 shooters.

Norman won the Saskatchewan Open Sunday and took the Alberta Open in 1966.

Defending champion Keith Alexander, an amateur from Calgary, had a 75.

Alberta amateurs in the competition are trying for three of the four spots on the province's Willingdon Cup team.

Bob Wylie of Calgary won the Alberta amateur and has the first berth.

Under-15 Round

A medal round for women with 15 and under handicaps will be played at the Royal Colwood course Monday. The draw:

9:30—Naysmith, Price, Harrell.
9:37—Mearns, Thirwell, Fall.
9:44—Locatelli, Thomson, Robbins.
9:51—Liddell, Todd, Thomson.
9:58—Hay, Hibberson, Green.
10:05—Silverberg, Worth, Higgins.
10:12—Dagg, Chapman.

BIGELOW, BRYNJOLFSON CALL BACK FOR ENCORE

VANCOUVER (CP) — The final in the British Columbia Seniors Golf championship today will have the same cast as last year: Dr. George Bigelow of Victoria against Steve Brynjolfson of Powell River.

Dr. Bigelow, the defending champion and last year's Canadian seniors titleholder, earned his final berth Thursday with a comfortable win over Jack Dawson of Vancouver Point Grey, with five holes to spare.

Brynjolfson, a 64-year-old competitor, defeated Ed Hill of Vancouver Quilchena 3 and 2 on the 6,300-yard Point Grey course. Dr. Bigelow is favored to repeat his victory in the final.

Palmer, Renwick In Final

KELOWNA (CP)—Two 18th-hole victories Thursday launched a pair of former champions into the finals of the British Columbia Women's Closed golf championship.

Marilyn Palmer, 21, of Kamloops and Barbara Renwick, 25, of Vancouver, who have divided three championships in the last four years, both scored one-up victories at the Kelowna Golf and Country Club.

Miss Renwick, who scored a major upset Wednesday by knocking off defending champion Susan McCleery of Vancouver, almost had the tables turned on her by 17-year-old Helen Marlatt of Chilliwack.

Miss Palmer, two down earlier in her match with Gail Harvey Moore of Vancouver, bounced back to score a minor upset over the former Ontario champion.

BOOTS, VEST DRESS

SEATTLE (AP)—Two former Washington State football players have been signed by Seattle Rangers of the Continental League. They are defensive end Jim Vest and linebacker Boots.

Prizes Still Coming

BISLEY, England (CP) — Canadian competitors racked up another big day at the Commonwealth shoot Thursday, winning a major team event and getting a second in another.

A 12-man team from the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association took the Overseas Challenge Cup, one of the four top team events for the 1,200 marksmen in the annual two weeks of shooting.

Dr. Mike Walker of Kingston, Ont., placed second among 840 contestants for the Duke of Gloucester Challenge Cup with 73.

A London policeman, John Young, won the cup with a score of 74. Gerry Ouellette, a Windsor, Ont., teacher, had 72.

In the overseas match open to all competing countries except Britain, the Canadians scored 1,172 out of a maximum 1,260 to nose out the strong Australian contingent by a single point.

Australian batsmen frequently played and missed against impressive England bowling.

England, which must win to keep alive its hopes of regaining the Ashes, could have achieved a major breakthrough but for several missed chances.

Syndicate Buys He's a Smoothie

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP) — He's a Smoothie, Canada's "horse-of-the-year" in 1967, has been sold to a California syndicate for breeding purposes.

Warren Beasley, trainer and son of owner Bill Beasley, declined to confirm reports that the price was $300,000 in United States funds, which would be a record price for a runner in Canada.

He's a Smoothie will continue to race until next March with the syndicate and Beasley sharing purses.

Public Piqued; Pleas For Pet Speed Return

WINNIPEG (CP) — Stacy Groulx's puppy, seized by bailiffs because of overdue rent, was returned home Thursday after an anonymous benefactor stepped into the dispute.

J. P. Devlin, manager of Associated Commercial Protectors Ltd., said in a statement that landlord Ronald Stenning agreed to accept $50 from the unknown donor and have the dog returned to the crippled two-year-old.

The puppy was seized Tuesday from the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Groulx, who were $220 in arrears on their $160-a-month rented home.

The story was carried in Winnipeg newspapers Wednesday and drew wide public reaction. Radio stations were besieged and Stenning, who said he hired the bailiffs but was unaware they took the dog, reported receiving accusing phone calls. Devlin said in his statement:

BENEFACTOR

"The benefactor stated he was not concerned with the problems of Mr. and Mrs. Groulx, but wants the little girl to have the dog."

While the dog was held, said Mr. Devlin, it was properly cared for at an animal hospital and given a distemper shot.

Devlin's statement said he had visited the Groulx home previously three times to speak to Groulx but was not permitted to enter the house.

An employee of the firm also was refused entry on a first attempt. He was admitted on his second visit "to look at the furniture, but when he tried to make a seizure, Mrs. Groulx started to scream and threatened to physically prevent the seizure from being made and to telephone the police.

"Rather than cause a disturbance, the employee started to leave. On the way out he noticed a dog and asked whose dog it was and was told by Mrs. Groulx that it was the family dog. The employee picked up the dog and left."

Resources Justifying Rail Link

OTTAWA (CP) — The transport department and Canadian National Railways will study the possibility of constructing a rail link between the Yukon Territory and the transcontinental system, it was announced Thursday.

The transport department said resource developments near Ross River and Clinton Creek in the territory, and an asbestos project at Cassiar, B.C., may make such a link economically possible. The rail link would likely run through British Columbia.

INVENTORY SET

Included as part of the study will be creation of an inventory of mineral and timber resources and an appraisal of the possibilities for local refining of minerals in the region.

The transport department and the CNR will share the cost. The northern development department will help supervise the study.

Algerians May Free Eight More Israelis

ALGIERS (AP) — Eight of the 22 Israelis held in Algiers since the hijacking of an Israeli airliner may be released Saturday, informed sources said today.

They said four women, two of them hostesses on the El Al jetliner, and four children would be put on a plane for Rome. Algerian government spokesmen refused to confirm or deny the report.

The government has informed the Italian embassy that all the captives are in good health, including the co-pilot who was hit on the head when three armed Arabs hijacked the Boeing 707 jet between Rome and Tel Aviv Tuesday and diverted it to Algiers.

Twenty-one non-Israeli passengers and two Israelis who concealed their nationality because they had duel citizenship, were released later Tuesday. Among them were a Canadian couple.

The captives include 10 crew members and 12 Israeli passengers.

The Algerian government's silence apparently is due to the fact that Foreign Minister Abdel Aziz Bouteflika is on a visit to Paris. He said his government would act "within the framework of international morality."

Members of the Palestine commando organization which hijacked the plane said they expected the Algerian government to reject their request that the Israelis be held hostage for Arab commandos held by Israel.

In Tel Aviv, Israeli officials said their government would not be satisfied by any "piecemeal" release.

Police Start Traffic Drive

Traffic violators ignoring signals and lights today will receive special attention from city police.

Ten additional policemen will be on duty between 5 p.m. and 6 p.m. on the lookout for offenders. Drivers and pedestrians will be ticketed for infractions, police warned.

Police also said they will be checking cars tonight at various points for mechanical failures and impaired drivers.

This safety check will mark the first time faulty vehicles can be referred to the new provincial government testing station on Mackenzie Avenue.

Red Cross Asks For Addresses

Blood donors who have moved recently are requested to inform the Red Cross Blood Transfusion Service of their new address.

The Red Cross needs the new addresses to keep track of donors and to mail out notices of coming blood donor clinics.

Almost a thousand donors have changed their address in the past couple of years.

Donors may contact the Red Cross at 382-2213 or 382-4318.

Townfolk Upset By Indian Issue

MACGREGOR, Man. (CP)—Yes, townspeople say, it is true they and their elected leaders blocked the sale of two houses because relief-roll Indian families would have been the new occupants. And, yes, they leaned on the owners with the considerable pressure of small town public opinion.

But they are upset by the glare of national publicity that has fallen on the rural municipality of North Norfolk and its towns of MacGregor, Austin and Sidney, and they are steadfast in their denials that anti-Indian bias inspired their actions.

Their case is that while they have no objections to the principle of Indians moving into white communities, a migration which has the endorsement of the Manitoba government, the provincial welfare department was planning to foist on them members of a clan of shiftless, house-wrecking troublemakers.

SHADY STREET

One of the houses the department's community development services branch had reached tentative agreement to purchase was in Austin, on a tree-shaded street of $12,000-plus homes, and the other was in neighboring Sidney in this district west of Portage la Prairie.

"This is a particular case," said Mayor Glenn Lye of MacGregor. "This isn't Indians versus whites. . ."

The same statement was made by Reeve Charles Hotel of North Norfolk, whose council took the initiative in asking the Austin village committee to dissuade Jacob S. Thiessen from selling a two-storey frame house he owns in the village.

Alfred Roulette, a 45-year-old Saulteaux Indian and the father of nine, said he had been set to move into a house in Austin when the welfare department informed him the deal was off. The same thing happened to his brother Walter, 42, in Sidney, he said.

"Reeve Hotel and council trying to stop us from moving into Austin is against the law, if a man has already agreed to sell," he said. "Jake Thiessen had said it was okay. But Mr. Hotel and council told him not to about a week ago."

He said he wanted to move into Austin from an all-Indian housing development on the northwest outskirts of MacGregor "so I could have gas and heat and keep myself like white people in town."

VISIT TO THE LAKEHEAD

Life at Thunder Bay

By ELIZABETH FORBES

FORT WILLIAM—The Lakehead! To me those words have always meant the head of navigation on mighty Lake Superior. Grain elevators. A jump-off point for a leisurely water route to Sault Ste. Marie. And, of course, the twin cities of Fort William on the flatlands at the mouth of the Kaministiqua River and Port Arthur, on the low hills above.

Forbes

This time I discovered the Lakehead is much more than these obvious facts.

It's still Superior's head of navigation but no more do passenger steamers ply the lake — only freighters. It's still the mightiest grain depot in the world. The elevators were jammed to capacity when I was there but very few bushels were on the move.

Fort William and Port Arthur are growing. But so are all comparable cities in Canada.

Far more interesting was the fact that I met the Hogarth family — three generations of them. They have lived in Fort William since the beginning of this century and they painted a word picture of the twin cities and surrounding country that was filled with history and legend.

* * *

They took me to the top of Mt. McKay, a height behind Fort William and showed me that the two cities are situated on Thunder Bay, a perfectly natural anchorage protected by the bulk of Thunder Cape on the far side of the water.

"See the Sleeping Giant on Thunder Cape," a senior Hogarth said. His finger traced the outline of a sleeping body along the crest of the cape, arms folded across the chest as in death.

According to legend a chief of a tribe of Objiway Indians incurred the wrath of the Spirit of the Deep Sea Water by revealing the location of his tribe's rich silver deposits to the white man. He was turned to stone.

Off the tip of Thunder Cape I was shown Pie Island, a bit of land with a wedge shaped depression that looked as if a piece had been cut out of it.

Three smaller islands in the bay are known today as Welcome Islands. The senior Hogarth told me that once they were called the Three Sisters.

Indian myth says these girls were turned to stone and placed out there for all to see because they were extremely cruel to a beautiful younger sister beloved by the North Star.

Our own Cinderella story, dressed in buckskin and beads.

From Mt. McKay we went to Kakabeka Falls, about twenty miles west of Fort William.

* * *

Not as high as Niagara but "just as powerful" according to the Hogarths, the water foamed and roared and sprayed its mist across a park and picnic and grounds. We donned raincoats and hats to get close enough for pictures.

Back again at a protected spot in the park, I heard the story of the Princess of the Mists.

Long ago a peace-loving Ojibway chieftain named White Bear had his encampment at the mouth of the Kaministiqua. Fierce Sioux warriors vowed to wipe this tribe out.

White Bear was old. He couldn't think of a way to stop the enemy. However, his daughter, Princess Green Mantle, dreamed up a plan.

She paddled up the river. Left her canoe at the foot of the falls. Ran along the top bank and walked into the Sioux camp as if lost.

Captured and threatened with death she won a reprieve by promising to lead them to her father's camp. To do it, she said, their canoes must all be tied together. The Sioux agreed.

Of course, they all plunged over the falls and into the great gorge below and were killed . . . including the young princess.

Today, at a certain point on the river bank below the falls, the figure of Green Mantle is visible, I was told, in the crystal studded mist. Placed there by the Great Manitou, as a reminder of her bravery.

I went to that spot. I looked into the mist, and believe it or not, I thought I saw her.

BANDA

Malawi Presses Decency Drive With Mini-Skirt Main Enemy

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — The mini-skirt still stirs passions in Africa.

The Malawi News, official organ of President Hastings K. Banda's Malawi Congress party, says: "All we want is the nakedness to stop at once. We will not tolerate anyone who comes here to corrupt our girls."

Mini-skirts were outlawed in Malawi four months ago.

Kenya's defence minister, Dr. Njoroge Mungai, says mod fashions are an "affront to the dignity and purpose of African society."

SEEN AS SYMBOLS

Conservative governments in Africa view the mini as a left-wing symbol of revolt. Left-leaning governments say it exemplifies right-wing decadence.

Mini-skirts were blamed for widespread rioting in Ethiopia last April in which 50 persons were injured, 100 vehicles destroyed and the schools closed for two weeks.

Demonstrations designed to prevent a fashion show by university faculty wives, mostly Americans, sparked the riots. Student dissatisfaction and vague political unrest is believed at the bottom of the mini-skirt riots.

Mini-skirts also have been condemned in the Congo Republic, Brazzaville, Uganda, Tanzania and elsewhere.

'Outlaws' Guilty

TITUSVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Four members of the Outlaws motorcycle club, charged with nailing a girl to a tree, brought their trial to a sudden halt Thursday with please of guilty.

Oil Company Fined $1,000

HIGH RIVER, Alta. (CP) — British American Oil Co. Ltd. has been fined $1,000 for polluting the Sheep River from the company's gas treatment plant near Turner Valley, 18 miles southwest of Calgary.

Magistrate W. V. Stilwell said the evidence presented left "a strong impression that the company dealt with the Sheep River as if it were its private property."

He said British American Oil showed "a cynical disregard for the rights of thousands of people" to whom the area represents a recreational facility.

Court was told wastes from the gas treatment plant were discharged into the river Dec. 19, 1967.

SPELLS DOOM

Turkey Farmers Fear 'Flood' Of U.S. Birds

B.C. turkey producers are jittery.

They fear the market may be flooded with U.S. birds this fall — a move which would virtually spell the doom of the province's $17,000,000 turkey industry, Jack Wessel, secretary of the B.C. federation of agriculture, said today.

Their fears are based on farm reports which indicate U.S. turkey producers have over-produced like they have never before.

The over-production amounts to more than the total number of birds — 9,000,000 turkeys — raised in Canada, he said.

Mr. Wessel said the danger of large scale dumping of poultry is causing so much concern that Federation manager Richard B. Stocks has left for Eastern Canada to consult the directors of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture on the matter.

The directors are presently meeting in Windsor, Ont.

Mr. Stocks will press the national organization to request the federal government to again institute price support on storable agricultural products to offset the danger of dumping, he said.

"At the present time there is no protection against imports of large market-clearing shipments of agricultural products into Canada at 'firesale prices' ", he stated.

He explained that U.S. producers can get around the anti-dumping code of Gatt which defines dumping as imports into a country at a lesser price than they are being sold in the country of origin.

"All they have to do is to hold one sale in the U.S. to establish that the sale of the product in Canada is the same as the country of origin," he pointed out.

Government Competing 'Unfairly'

Local governments are competing unfairly with private contractors, members of the Greater Victoria construction industry charged Wednesday.

A joint meeting of union and management attacked what it called "recent instances where local municipal and school boards have entered the construction business with their own forces."

"By the absence of detailed cost controls and by hiding capital costs—and by using maintenance personnel at lower than construction rates," a spokesman said, "they are competing unfairly with legitimate contractors."

Speaking for Victoria branch of the Amalgamated Construction Association and the executive of the Vancouver Island Building and Construction Trades Council of which he is secretary, John Schibli said:

"We seriously question the premise that lower bids submitted by local governments do in fact result in savings to taxpayers. They have to pay the ultimate cost if the tender is too low."

"Private bids represent total costs," he said.

Both sides intend to make representations to all three levels of government.

The meeting also decided to demand increased federal grants for the local winter works program.

Wednesday's meeting was one of a series of joint bi-monthly meetings of senior employers and employee organizations in the construction industry.

Perrault Seeks Meeting With Bennett

Liberal MP Ray Perrault Thursday said he had a "friendly" chat with Premier Bennett and expects they will have a formal business meeting before he leaves for Ottawa next month.

Mr. Perrault said he was unable to obtain a fixed date for an appointment from Mr. Bennett's secretary Wednesday because "he's going to be on the road so much in August."

But later, at the Government House garden party, the retiring Liberal Leader and Mr. Bennett met.

"We had a friendly chat and he said he was willing to meet me at a date to be arranged," Mr. Perrault said.

Mr. Perrault said he also had "friendly chats" with Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell and Trade and Industry Minister Waldo Skillings.

NO "AMBASSADOR"

He emphatically denied he was "aspiring to be an ambassador for Social Credit in Ottawa" but said there were a number of non-partisan issues in which he felt he could serve as a bridge of understanding between Victoria and Ottawa.

"I am determined that British Columbia problems should be understood by the federal caucus and to this end I am gathering all the information I can," he said.

SCIENTISTS TO WATCH CANADIAN SPACE PROBE

OTTAWA (CP)—Foreign scientists will participate for the first time in a Canadian space probe, July 31, at the National Research Council's Churchill, Man., research range, the NRC has announced.

The space vehicle will shed its nose cone, fire a volley of foot-long, cigar-shaped space probes and shoot off canisters of barium timed to explode at an altitude of 125 miles, to trace flows of charged particles in the atmosphere that cause geomagetic and auroral storms.

C. Saanich Considers Water Curb

Severe water restrictions may be imposed on the northern end of the Saanich peninsula if supplies continue to be lapped up at the present rate.

Mayor Gordon Lee of Central Saanich, said Thursday the municipality's waterworks system was working at full capacity and could not possibly augment its water supply to Sidney and North Saanich.

Sidney which depends partly on Central Saanich for water during the summer months has requested additional supplies.

"We had to stop irrigation of farm lands for a while last night in order to build up the pressure," said the mayor. "The question is how long can we continue supplying water at the present rate."

The supply from Elk Lake is not inexhaustible, he said.

The mayor said the problem was further aggravated by the Deep Cove waterworks which was over-drawing its "quota" of water.

Central Saanich agreed to supply Deep Cove with 130,000 gallons a day, but of late it has been drawing 170,000 gallons, the mayor said.

"This can't go on," he said. "We hust haven't got the water."

With regard to a request from Sidney for more water to keep pace with the town's growth, the mayor said there wasn't any and there "won't be any water to give" until the Greater Victoria water system is extended to the peninsula.

Tunnel by 1976?

LONDON (Reuters)—A tunnel under the English Channel could be completed by 1976 if present studies confirmed the case for the Anglo-French project, Transport Minister Richard Marsh said Wednesday. He told the House of Commons that he and French authorities are considering the proposals of three private financial groups for a tunnel between the two countries.

Arthur Mayse

A few weeks ago, I came on a rock beside our beach trail that interested me. It carried a set of red-painted initials and letters that identified it as a survey marker.

Saanich engineering department confirmed that it was a location-guide to a proposed new sewer trunkline. This, if put through, will hook into the Saanich outfall that dumps into Haro Strait not far from Queen Alexandra Solarium.

Soon after, one of the surveyors stopped by. He was a man with a job to do, and part of his job was to slash out a line which the trunk might follow at some unspecified date. This he explained carefully and courteously. Then he and his helper slashed out a five-foot-wide lane through our lower jungle of Pacific willow, young everygreen and ocean spray ... and now we are wondering what, if anything, will follow.

I am not in the least concerned over the loss of some of the wild vegetation with which we are plentifully supplied, nor am I against sewers as opposed to septic tanks. Far from it! This sector is long overdue for an up-to-date sewage collection and disposal system.

But the key words are 'up to date': and there's the rub. The dumping of raw sewage into the nearest body of water doesn't fall into that category. It is backward, it is primitive, and the fact that local government seems still stubbornly bent on that disposal method gives rise to grave doubts.

Just how thoroughly have its advocates studied alternate methods?

★

I have asked that question here before. Now, with Uvic biologist Dr. Marcus Bell coming on strong for dispoal of treated sewage by composting, the doubts grow more pressing.

Add to this an apparent sketchiness of oceanographic savvy by those who back the straits dumping plan, and it becomes plain that we should back off for a critical looksee. Otherwise, we might find ourselves committed to heavy investment based on a mistaken premise.

Whether the upcoming symposium to be attended by engineers, scientists and doctors will result in a second look, remains to be learned.

I suggest, however, that the invitation list should include a wider range of viewpoint. Surely, the International Salmon Commission and commercial and sport fishermen's organizations should be represented as well.

Also, I hope that at least one professional tide-and-current man will be present.

There are factors involved in sewage disposal that go beyond the over-simple philosophy of getting the sewage out of our parish. They too need close study.

★

While urging a review which will be more than a mere pacifier laid on to reassure a dubious public, I am also very well aware that Mayors Stephen of Victoria and Curtis of Saanich have inherited the toughest sort of problem. They are between the devil of land disposal costs and the deep blue sea that offers superficially easier disposal.

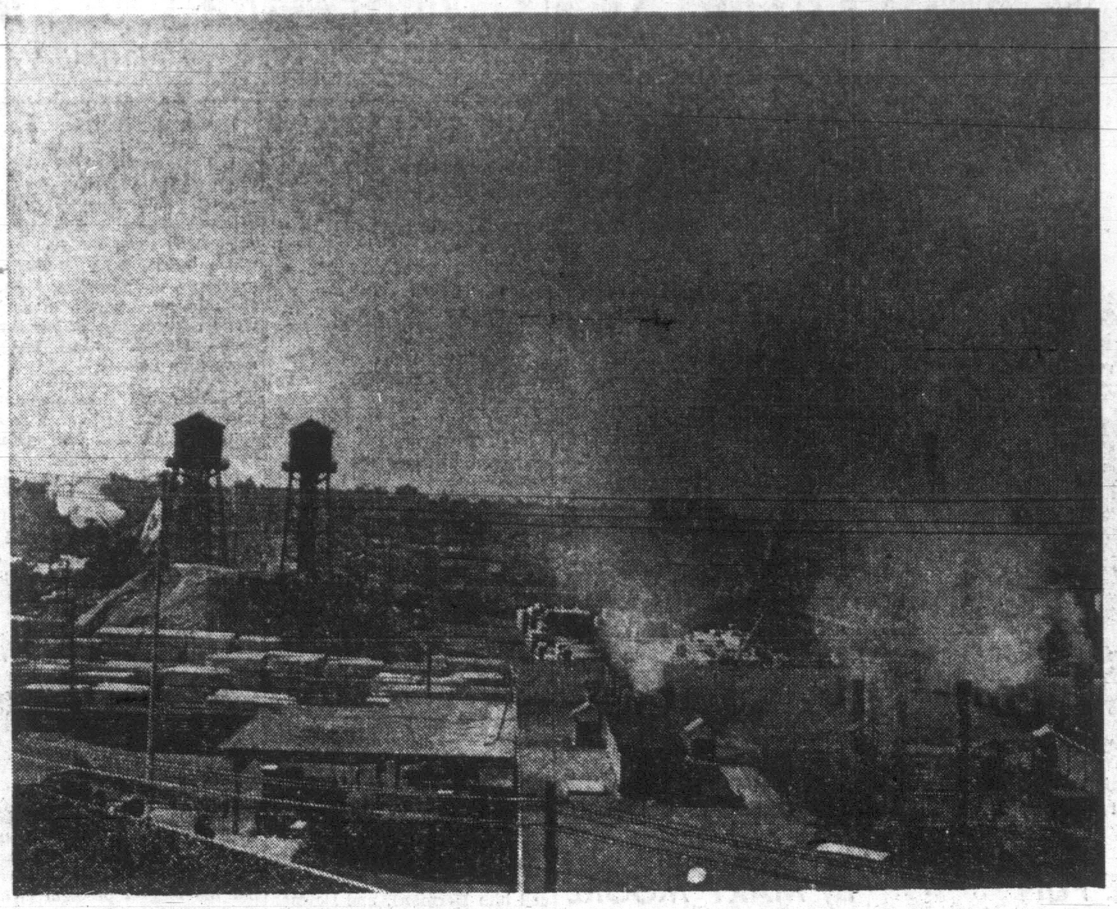
But — and I appeal here to your logic — is there any earthly reason why the municipalities should be required to carry this load alone?

Health Minister Ralph Loffmark has come out staunchly against casual dumping, but any promise of aid from a provindial government that claimed another handsome surplus this spring has been conspicuously lacking.

WE HAVE A RIGHT TO EXPECT HELP FROM THE SENIOR GOVERNMENTS, PROVINCIAL AND FEDERAL, IN PAYING THE COST OF AN ADEQUATE SEWER PROGRAM!!

Year after year, Social Credit MLAs have represented Victoria and Saanich in the B.C. Legislature.

I think it is time these gentlemen pressed hard for the help their constituencies need from the government they represent.



This is the way it looked today, but it's been worse say city officials.

Garnishee Order Placed For Wages

A garnishee order has been placed against Saanich municipality to recover $2,076 in back wages owed to seven men who were dismissed by its contract garbage collector, L. S. MacNutt.

It was served Thursday afternoon by lawyer John Goult on behalf of the seven men who were ordered reinstated in employment with back wages by the B.C. Labour Relations Board at the end of last month.

The board said that Mr. MacNutt had contravened the B.C. Labour Relations Act in dismissing the seven persons because they were, or proposed to become, members of a trade union.

The board also directed Mr. MacNutt to "cease using coercion or intimidation of any kind that could reasonably have the effect of compelling or inducing any person to refrain from becoming or to cease to be member of a trade union."

Individual back wages due to the employees for June ranged from $228 to $328.

Mr. Goult, who is acting for the seven men, said the garnishee directs Saanich to pay into court the $2,076 that is owed them. The garnishee is against Saanich because it pays Mr. MacNutt to pick up municipal garbage.

On the question of reinstatement, he said some of the men were re-employed, with possibly two exceptions, but they were laid off soon after that.

Youth Admits Guilt in Fatal Ganges Fire

A 15-year-old Ganges boy admitted delinquency and pleaded guilty in connection with charges of arson and criminal negligence causing death, in Ganges Family and Children's Court Thursday.

The youth was committed to Brannen Lake industrial school and to the care and custody of the superintendent of Child Welfare.

Charges arose from a Salt Spring Island fire April 17 in which Miss Sylvia Birch, a 51-year-old cripple who lived alone, died when her small frame home burned down.

An island resident for 15 years, Miss Birch lived on Rourke Road.

Charter Member of Centre, Francis H. Hamilton, Dies

A well-known member of the Victoria Silver Threads service died Wednesday.

Francis Henry Hamilton, 809 Burdette, passed away suddenly while visiting relatives in Whitby, Ontario.

He was 73.

Mr. Hamilton was born in Pontypool, Ontario, and moved to Victoria in 1926. Until he retired he was employed by the city of Victoria.

When his son, Dr Glen Hamilton—now of Vancouver—was assigned by a committee of the community welfare council to start the Victoria Silver Threads agency in 1957, Mr Hamilton became one of the founding members

A spokesman for the Silver Threads said today "he was a very active volunteer"

"It will be difficult to do without him"

In addition to his son, Mr. Hamilton is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Anita Lyon of Portland, Oregon, five grandchildren and numerous other relatives in Ontario.

Funeral services will be held in the McCall Brothers Floral Chapel, Saturday, 1:15 p.m Interment will take place at Royal Oak Burial Park

Smoke Nuisance? Not So They Say

Flyash fallout is at its peak for the year just now but it's nothing like the bad old days, City Hall and tourists seem agreed.

Freshman MP David Anderson of Esquimalt-Saanich today said he was appalled by the columns of smoke he has seen roll along the rooftops of the region and promised to try to help clear it up.

He said it was ridiculous to allow a tourist-conscious area to be shrouded in clouds of smoke from the Millstream and Hartland Road garbage dumps or the mills along the Gorge.

Mr. Anderson said he had made an appointment to see a B.C. Forest Products official Tuesday to find out what has been done to alleviate the problem in the industrial area and what more could be done.

Tax Write-Offs

He added there may be a good case for extending the 50 per cent tax write-off allowed on water pollution control equipment to include anti-air pollution devices.

However, Assistant City Engineer William Jorgenson said that graphs of air samples taken continuously since 1963 show a considerable decline in air pollution has taken place, particulary since the installation of new precipitators in BCFP's smokestacks and the conversion of two mills to electrical power supply.

Mr. Jorgenson said that "we are now in the peak period for the year as far as dust or flyash fallout is converned but it is considerably reduced from past years."

Thirty flyash sampling station scattered throughout the city have traced the decline in summer-month pollution.

High of 40 Tons

Mr. Jorgenson said the industrial zone of the city was recording "peaks" as high as 40 tons per square mile monthly and "valleys" down to 12 tons in winter months when the graph plotting began in 1963.

"In 1967 the industrial zone barely reached 20 tons at its highest and the low went down to seven tons last winter," he said.

"It has come up again because we are now at the summer peak and the graph shows we are at about 15 tons per square mile at the moment — so we've achieved a considerable improvement for the worst month."

He said fallout in residential districts has remained at a consistent average of five tons per square mile monthly ever since 1963 but an improvement is evident in the commercial districts where "peaks" of 17 tons and "valleys" of five tons dropped to a "'valley" last winter of four tons and the current "peak" of seven tons.

Mr. Jorgenson said two "soiling index" sample stations — one located at the worst area on Burnside and the other at the best area on Gonzales Hill to serve as a control comparison — also reveal improvements.

These samples measure the concentration of air contamination which causes soiling — as opposed to dust fallout — and it has been found that this condition reaches its worst peaks in the winter months when coal and oil-fired furnaces are in operation.

"The soiling index is measured in Coh units and our control station at Gonzales has pretty well remained at a consistent reading of about one-tenth of .1 Coh unit," said Mr. Jorgenson.

Levelled Out

"On the other hand the Burnside station began with valleys of .5 Coh units up to peaks of almost a full Coh unit in 1963 but have dropped down so that this past winter the peak was .3 and the latest reading show the valley has levelled out at .2 Coh units."

Mr. Jorgenson said the smoke inspector makes daily checks but has found sufficient co-operation from industrial operators that only about one warning has to be issued and no prosecutions have actually had to be launched under the smoke control bylaw.

"We have had quick response to every one of our warning's that situation was building up and as a result we have not had to prosecute," he said.

As a result of the improvement in the industrial zone, Mr. Jorgenson said the city now is about to begin "refining" its smoke control measures by a more intensive look at the secondary problems posed by commercial and private incinerators.

No Complaints

Victoria Visitors Bureau Commissioner Michael E. Heppel told the Times that he has received no complaints about air pollution, this year, in contrast to a few years ago when there was considerable criticism.

"As far as tourists are concerned we have had no complaints and I haven't noticed any complaints recently from motel operators or others in the tourist business," he said.

"At one time we used to receive many complaints but it has been my impression that the problem has been pretty well remedied."

More Activity At Shipyards Forecast

Increased activity on the local shipbuilding scene was forecast today by John Wallace, manager of Yarrows Ltd.

He said Yarrows is currently pursuing a "'greatly increased" range of activities to cover the entire North American market in an effort to get work.

In the field of oil discovery and exploration, Mr. Wallace said Yarrows will provide heavy lift equipment, and drill platforms — both floating and submersible. Equipment of this nature will cover markets in New York, New Orleans, Houston, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

He said efforts are being made to interest prospective customers in those areas in placing orders in Canada.

Currently under construction in the Burrard Drydock in Vancouver is a 350-foot crane derrick barge for Raymond International of New York. The barge — built to accommodate a 50-man crew — is a $5 million contract.

'EXTREMELY BLEAK'

On the federal government contract scene, Mr. Wallace said prospects are still "extremely bleak".

"It was announced prior to the last federal election that tenders for the replacement of the Estevan (a Department of Transport lighthouse tender) would be called shortly. As yet we have had no indication from the DoT when tenders will be called.

Again on the commercial aspects, Mr. Wallace said recent discoveries of oil in Alaska give "every indication" there will be increased freight into the Mackenzie basin via Edmonton.

Mr. Wallace feels there will be a need for additional tugs and barges in the area.

"With any luck, these will be prefabricated on the west coast, then shipped by rail for assembly north of Edmonton."

Rites Tuesday For Long-Time Area Resident

Sarah Patterson, widow of Alexander Patterson, first road foreman of Saanich, died at Clovelly private hospital Thursday evening. She was 85 years old.

A resident of Greater Victoria since 1900, her husband predeceased her 25 years ago. She was a member of Metropolitan United Church, and a member of the Purple Star Lodge, No. 104 LOBA.

She is survived by one sister in Vancouver and several nephews and nieces.

Funeral services will be held at McCall's Chapel at 3 p.m. Tuesday. Rev. Robert Moses will officiate. She will be buried in Shady Creek Cemetery, Central Saanich.

SHADY RETREAT is welcomed at any time during these hot days but when the shade happens to be a huge tire well, it can be a lot of fun too. Times photographer Irving Strickland came across brothers Leslie, 10, and David Galley, 8, of 2808 Rock Bay Avenue, as they sought some cool comfort at service station "eye catcher" walking along Douglas Street.

SAANICH SEWER VOTE

'Major Disaster If Bylaw Fails'

Substantial Rebates If Passed

Saanich municipal comptroller John Tribe says a "yes" vote on the September sewer consolidation bylaw would result in substantial rebates for many Saanich homeowners.

Following Thursday's press conference to outline details of the consolidation program Mr. Tribe was asked how the costs would be apportioned.

"Considering that the area to be created will contain 16,000 parcels (of land) the cost per parcel to meet present debt requirements would be $22.14," he answered. "Spreading the cost throughout the municipality would mean an actual rebate of $8.70 for existing sewer areas thus reducing their annual charge to $13.44."

●

Mr. Tribe said that originally it had been intended to allow for the established abatement to be made for the same number of years that the sewer tax had been paid.

"But in the case of sewer area number one this would result in a refund of more than has been paid on the principal. It would seem therefore that the most practical method would be to allow the abatement to continue for enough years to take care of the various amounts paid on principal."

Sewer area number one, under the formula adopted by Saanich council, would receive sewer tax rebates for 16 years. It has been paying for sewers for 17 years.

●

Area two, paying for sewers for six years, would receive a rebate for eight years.

Willow, McBriar and Extensions would receive rebates for seven, five and three years, the number of years they have been paying for sewers.

Chesterlea, Northridge and Montclair would receive rebates for seven years, one year less than they have been paying for sewer services.

Planner Fears Lack of Growth

Municipal planner Tom Loney says Saanich will be faced "with a major disaster" if the attempt to introduce a uniform sewer system fails this fall.

Mr. Loney made the statement following a press conference Thursday at which Mayor Hugh Curtis outlined the Saanich plan for a fall vote and ran into a head-on clash with Dr. M. D. Faber of the Pollution Solution Society.

Mayor Curtis told the conference endorsation of the September bylaw which would see six existing sewer areas amalgamated into one with a common across-the-board charge to all home owners.

The mayor stressed that the fall vote had nothing at all to do with the present controversy on deepsea outfalls versus treatment plants.

"We are talking here of a collection system," he said. "A collection system we must have whatever the ultimate decision may be on the methods of final disposal."

Dr. Faber took over the floor to tell the mayor that he understood what Saanich was trying to do.

But, he added, unless the mayor declared himself in favor of treatment over sea-disposal "we will do everything in our power to defeat the referendum."

Mayor Curtis' reply was terse.

"I don't believe in talking with a gun to my head, in government or any other circumstances," he answered.

Planner Loney said this morning that he was disturbed at the attempts to cloud the "relatively simple decision facing Saanich voters."

"I think we had all half-hoped that those objecting to sewer outfalls would understand that we are trying to deal with a very serious situation within our municipal boundaries," he said. "We just must have an extended collection system, paid for on a basis that is fair to all taxpayers, if we are to progress.

'Almost Out of Sewered Land'

"We are almost out of sewered land in Saanich. If we do run out, and we shall if the bylaw is defeated, this municipality will be faced with a major disaster."

Mr. Loney said that land areas already earmarked as desirable for commercial or industrial development were rapidly being gobbled up by home builders.

"A year or two ago a home builder wouldn't have looked at these sites," he said. "They are just undesirable for residentaial use. But they have sewers and because they have sewers they have become desirable.

"If this trend isn't changed we shall have planning in Saanich but it will be planning by percolation."

Mr. Loney was referring to the limited amount of land left in the municipality where the soil is permeable enough to permit the use of septic tanks.

At the Thursday press conference Mayor Curtis said several large commercial projects for Saanich were waiting in the wings, unable to progress beyond the design stage because of lack of available sewered land.

"I cannot give you details at this time, but I can assure you that several large commercial projects are not going ahead at this time simply because Saanich cannot offer sewered land for those projects."

The mayor added that it was impossible for him to exaggerate the seriousness of the situation.

"In the simplest of terms, what we are endeavoring to do is clean up an internal mess in Saanich. A mess created years ago, a mess compounding itself each year as the municipality grows."

The mayor stated that in the six sewer areas now serving Saanich there were 45 different rate structures.

"We are now faced with a situation where our sewer system must expand to serve areas already plagued with septic tank problems, and to at least commence a program to eliminate the ghastly open ditches which spread like a spider's web through the municipality."

'Create 46th Rate Structure?'

Mayor Curtis said the decision facing council over the past year was "how should we expand our sewer system?

"Create yet another sewer area at exceptionally high cost to the users? Create yet another set of books, another accounting system, a 46th rate structure?

"Saanich council does not think so."

The mayor said his council was unanimous on the decision to go ahead with the bylaw vote although the Municipal Act made it possible to go ahead with the amalgamation proposal if the provincial cabinet approved the plan.

"But a long time ago this council decided that the ultimate decision really belonged to the taxpayers, and so we have chosen this democratic, if somewhat chancy way, of going about the task before us.

"Already we are beginning to regret calling this vote at all."

This morning Mayor Curtis said he was not surprised to be running into opposition but that he was surprised at the direction from which it was coming and the ferocity of the attack based on an issue far removed from the authority of Saanich council.

After threatening even fiercer opposition unless Saanich council declared its position on treatment versus outfalls, Dr. Faber agreed to meet with Mayor Curtis on Sunday in an attempt to arrive at a mutual understanding of the issues involved.

At the close of the sometimes stormy conference Mayor Curtis reiterated the essential points of the Saanich council stand:

● The September vote is not essentially a money bylaw. "Saanich will have to pay its share of regional sewer development costs no matter how it votes this fall. If the bylaw is defeated that regional cost share will have to be apportioned to sewer area number one instead, as we desire, of being shared by all property owners."

● The vote has nothing at all to do with the raw sewage versus treated sewage issue.

● It is simply a vote to consolidate and unite six divided sewer areas and arrive at a common cost sharing formula.

Mayor Curtis said he was not afraid to take a stand on the outfalls versus treatment issue "But I think I should wait until after the one day study of all aspects planned for the near future," he said.

Odd Juice Mixtures Make Summer Coolers

By Penny Saver

As the hot summer days drag on I am finding myself hard put to concoct refreshing drinks. I have had milkshakes until they are coming out of my ears; besides, they are so thick and food-like that they won't do every time I am thirsty. I have made some interesting thirst quenchers by mixing fruit juices. One of my favorites is orange-lime. I just splashed some concentrated, unsweetened lime-juice (99 cents a bottle at most stores) into a glass of cold orange juice. Quick—and it really hit the spot. Normally I am quite slow about trying such experiments, but my thirst has been so great this summer that I have thrown culinary caution to the winds.

With thirst-quenchers in mind, I decided to join the cranberry revolution. I have always enjoyed tangy cranberry jelly on my roast chicken and turkey, though I could never warm to cranberry sauce or jam. Perhaps I just don't like coping with the lumps.

The other day I decided to try cranberry cocktail. This sells for 79 cents a bottle and has vitamin C added to ensure that none of the goodness will be lost because of the processing. It has been sweetened as well. I was pleased to find that the label gave a couple of recipe suggestions. One was for a yummy punch—just the thing for a summer party. Using this as my base, and making small variations to suit the tastes of my particular family, I prepared a batch to take to the cabin. It was so popular that I found myself driving to the nearest grocery and buying ingredients for a second batch! Cranberry also mixes well with orange juice, combining two tangy tastes to make a summer taste sensation.

Crystals Quick and Easy to Mix

An unusually hot day can put quite a drain on your supplies of liquid refreshment, if your family is anything like mine. When all the kids want is something — anything — to wet their whistles, I turn to the quick and easy juice crystals. Some of the new ones are quite interesting. I have fallen for the new canned crystals that make up into orange, grapefruit or orange-pineapple drinks. A small can makes up into 24 fluid ounces. Two of these cans cost 49 cents. These fruit drinks are supplemented with vitamin C. The orange juice must be as popular with other people as it is in our house for it comes in a larger size for 47 cents. This can makes 48 ounces of orange drink, coming to less than a penny an ounce.

I went to tea the other day and was fascinated to find milk-chocolate digestive biscuits among the other dainties. After a bit of persuasion the hostess told me where these may be found. An eight ounce box of either milk chocolate or dark chocolate digestives is 43 cents. The regular digestive, a sweet biscuit loved by children, comes in a 16-ounce sack for 59 cents. I was also interested to learn that the iced cookies decorated with contrasting icing designs of cats, dogs and so forth are still around. A seven-and-a-half-ounce box is 43 cents. My youngsters still mention these cookies as though they were a highlight of their childhood and they were tickled pink when I served them with dessert.

WHY GROW OLD?

Exercising Can Correct Your Measurement Ratio

Lowman

Q. I am 15 years old and weigh 125 pounds. I am five feet eight. My measurements are bust 32 inches, waist 28 inches and hips 38 inches. Please tell me what is wrong with my weight and measurements and what to do about it.

A. You are about 10 pounds under weight and there is too much difference between your waist and hip measurements and that of your bust. A gain of 10 pounds will help increase the size of your bust. Also, do exercises to increase your bust measurement and decrease your waist and hip measurements by a couple of inches. This will bring your measurements in ratio for a lovely figure. If you would like to have these free exercises send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for "Hip Exrcises," and "Don't Have Round Shoulders and Flat Bust — Reverse!" to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Q. The skin of my upper eyelids droops terribly. Is there anything that can be done for it?

A. Yes. This condition can be very successfully corrected by plastic surgery.

Q. Are there some really good cover-ups for freckles and broken capillaries?

A. Yes. I will be glad to give you the names of some if you send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to me in care of this newspaper.

Q. I have just plain fat cheeks. This makes me feel foolish. Isn't there any way I can reduce them? I am not fat all over and so do not want to lose weight generally. Could I pinch it off?

A. Don't try to pinch the fat off. You would probably just get bruises. The only way I know to reduce your cheeks is to lose weight. However do not let this worry you.

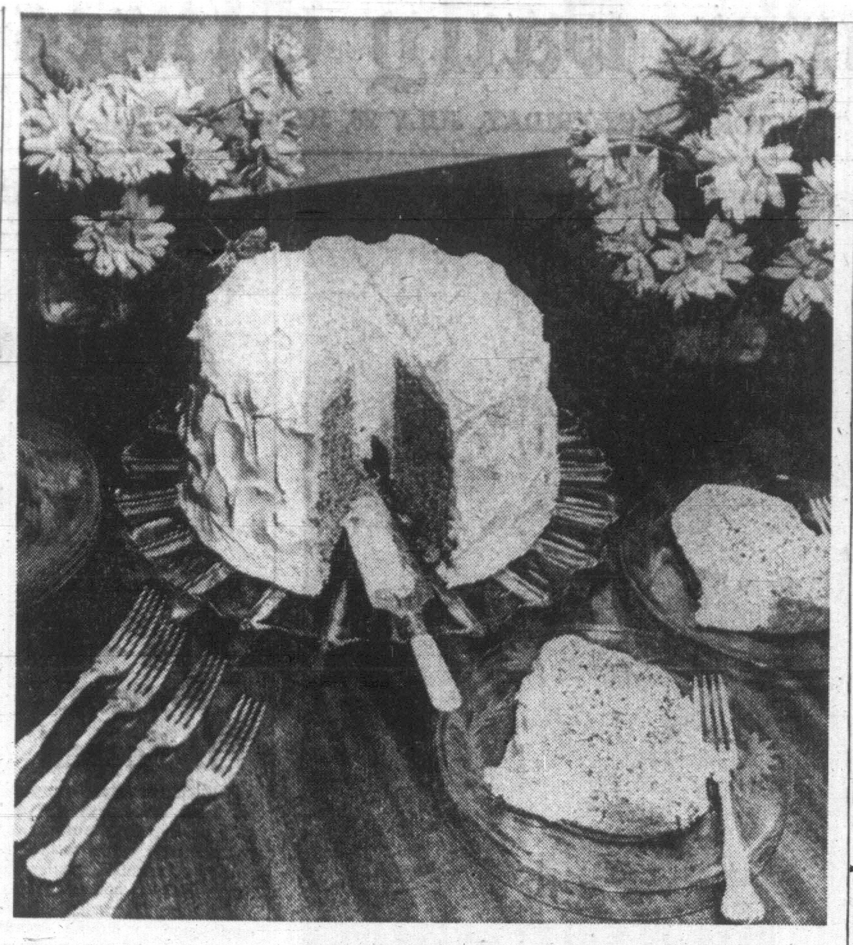
Your cheeks are probably not as unattractive as you think they are. When you are older you will be glad you have them. They will keep you looking young longer. You can make your face appear slimmer by placing rouge close to the nose, away from the outer edges of your face. Also wear your hair close at the sides.

Q. Is tomato juice just as good a source of vitamin C as orange juice?

A. No. It is a good source but the citrus fruits are much richer sources.

Q. Is bicycle riding beautifying to the legs?

A. It is a good general leg exercise.



Banana Spice Cake is a tempter. Go ahead—make it. Once your family and friends have had one taste they will want more. Today Mary Moore tells you how to make this flavorful cake.

COOKING CAN BE FUN

By MARY MOORE

Banana With Spice Is Very Nice

DOUBLE PURPOSE BANANA SPICE CAKE

Moore

On a cool or rainy day at the cottage warm the hearts of your family with the sweet pungent aroma of a spice cake.

You can do three things with this cake: bake it in a square and serve it fresh from the oven with a lemon sauce over it for dessert (see below); or let it cool on a cake rack and serve it sliced with fresh fruit for dessert; or bake it in an angel food pan and frost it with a lemony butter icing (see below).

BANANA SPICE CAKE

2-3 cup shortening, 1 1-3 cups sugar, 2 eggs, 2 teaspoons vanilla, 1 2-3 cups mashed bananas (about 4), 1 cup raisins, plumped (see below), 2¾ cups sifted all-purpose flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon baking soda, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon cloves, 1½ teaspoons cinnamon, ¾ teaspoon nutmeg.

Plump the raisins by pouring boiling water over them. Let stand 5 minutes. Drain and dry. Set aside. Mash and measure bananas.

In large mixing bowl cream shortening and sugar until light, then beat in eggs and vanilla thoroughly. Sift together the sifted flour, baking powder, baking soda, salt and spices. Add to creamed mixture alternately with mashed bananas until batter is smooth. Stir in raisins. (NOTE: This batter is thick but turns out fine.)

Line bottom of a 9" square pan with buttered wax paper or use an unlined buttered teflon pan or a well buttered angel food pan with removable centre. Pour in batter and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. Square pan and tube pan both require 70 minutes. Turn out on cake rack to cool. If desired serve warm with—

CLEAR LEMON SAUCE

Mix together in a saucepan 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 1-3 cup white sugar and ⅛ teaspoon salt. Stir in ¾ cup boiling water and cook stirring until thickened and boiling. Remove from heat and add ¼ cup lemon juice and 1 tablespoon butter. Serve hot.

If you have chosen to frost your cake use—

LEMON BUTTER FROSTING

Cream 2 or 3 tablespoons butter with ½ pound (about 2 cups) sifted icing sugar, adding enough lemon juice to make of thin spreading consistency.

Secretarial Success Story

HAMILTON (CP) — From secretary to the sales manager to secretary of the company is not a route many women have taken. Dorothy M. Cauley has, to become secretary of one of Canada's biggest companies, Dominion Foundries and Steel Ltd.

Her appointment by 12 male directors gave Dofasco its first woman as secretary of the company.

"Yes, I was surprised. I thought some of them might have some uneasiness about a woman. But I guess they know me pretty well."

Miss Cauley started at Dofasco 30 years ago, as secretary to the sales manager, fresh out of Grade 13 and a business course. She says she was one of eight girls in office jobs. Now there are 350 out of 7,000 employees.

During the Second World War Miss Cauley took over from her boss who became one of Ottawa's dollar-a-year men. Miss Cauley handled plate development, scheduling in the mill and some initial resistance to dealing with a woman.

"At first when I was running the order department, old time steel people would hesitate to deal with a girl. But when they found I knew what they were talking about and sometimes after a few strong words on my part, for instance, saying no in a nice way, we were fine."

Sharon Henderson Honored By Relatives and Friends

A number of parties have been held to honor bride-elect, Miss Sharon Henderson.

Twenty guests gathered in the Frechette Avenue home of Mrs. William Brown to honor Miss Henderson with a surprise shower. A decorated wishing well concealed the gifts. A silver rose-bowl filled with Queen Elizabeth roses, flanked by pink candles, centred the tea table.

Rose corsages were presented to the honor guest, her mother, Mrs. J. V. Henderson, and the mother of the groom-elect, Mrs. Hilton Vasey, when Mrs. N. A. McDiarmid and Mrs. D. P. Collis entertained in the home of the latter. Twenty-four guests were present to see the bride-elect open the gifts arranged in a pink basket decorated with pink and white streamers. Miss Gail Collis assisted the co-hostesses at the tea. An arrangement of pink and blue hydrangeas centred the tea table.

Mrs. Norman Pimlott, 1356 St. Patrick Street hosted a surprise shower in honor of her niece. Thirty guests were present. Red rosebuds en corsage were presented to the bride-elect while corsages of pink carnations were given to the mothers of the principals. A decorated treasure chest concealed the gifts. Presiding at the tea table which was centred with red roses flanked by white candles, was Mrs. Aubrey Squires. A special guest at the shower was Miss Ada Herkes of Yarmouth, N.S., an aunt of the groom-elect.

Mrs. James V. Henderson, mother of the bride-elect, held a tea in honor of her daughter Sunday in their home at 3131 Woodburn Avenue.

Yesterday evening Mr. and Mrs. Hilton F. Vasey, parents of the groom-elect, entertained the bridal party and parents of the bride-elect at a rehearsal dinner.

DEAR ABBY . . .

To Tell or Not to Tell: That's the Question

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: If you knew positively that your sister's husband had been keeping another woman for 7 or 8 years, would you take on the sad task of telling your sister?

Many other people know it, and she is bound to find out someday, and then she will know that we knew it, too.

HER SISTERS.

DEAR SISTERS: There are two schools of thought. To tell and not to tell.

I belong to the "not to tell" school. There are exceptions, of course. In most cases the wife usually knows, but she is putting on a brave face for reasons known only to her.

Allow her her pride and keep quiet. And should she in time admit that she knows, be "big" and don't chime in with those who would say, "I knew it all along."

DEAR ABBY: I am a 15-year-old girl and I am waiting for a guy who is overseas in the service. (Let's call him Morey.) I don't have an engagement ring or anothing like that, but I promised Morey I would wait for him, so that's what I am doing.

Well, there is a guy Morey used to run around with (let's call him Herman), and Herman comes over and takes me out just to keep me from going nuts. Anyway, it started out that way. Now, Herman tells me he thinks he is in love with me, although I told Herman from the start that I was waiting for Morey and I think of him only as a friend.

Don't get me wrong, Herman hasn't tried anything, but he is starting to like me too much for his own good. I don't want to quit seeing Herman because he's really a nice guy and a girl could go nuts sitting home all the time writing letters.

My mother says I shouldn't be going out at all, but I can't see any harm in it as long as I don't lead anybody on. What do you think? I don't want to hurt Herman.

WAITING FOR MOREY

DEAR WAITING: Maybe you think of Herman as "only a friend," but he obviously has other ideas about you. I don't know how you figure you are "waiting" for Morey, when you are going with Herman. If a girl "waits" for a fellow, she waits alone without "going nuts." Don't worry about hurting Herman. I have an idea he can take care of himself.

DEAR ABBY: You said, "There is one type of man I have never known to be strong, reliable and trustworthy, and he is the man who would ask for a loan of money from the woman he loves."

Are there NO exceptions?

BEEN THERE

DEAR BEEN: Yes. A husband and wife many years married, and united by common interests, may become so one in purpose and thought that a common purse would be as natural to them as a common bed or dinner table. But before marriage, or immediately after, the man who begins to ask a woman for the use of her purse shows himself to be lacking more than money.

DEAR ABBY: I have recently moved from a farm to a small town and I have a serious problem.

My 5-year-old child goes into the neighbors' homes, and I cannot find her. I have pleaded with my neighbors not to let her in the house, but they do anyway. I have punished the child but it hasn't done any good.

As I write this, it is 9:20 p.m. and I have screamed until I am hoarse. I have telephoned every one of the neighbors I can think of to find out if my child is there, and I am sick of it. This isn't the first time this has happened. What shall I do?

BRANDENBURG, KY.

DEAR BRANDENBURG: Granted, your neighbors should not allow your child into their homes knowing you disapprove, but the biggest problem is not your neighbors, it's your child, and the manner in which she defies you. Unless you take some positive steps to let her know who's boss, you'd better prepare yourself for some king-sized headaches.

DEAR ABBY: I taught school and didn't marry until I was 33. Andrew was 37 and had never been married before, either. He lived with his mother, but said we would have a place of our own when we married. We did, but in less than a year his mother got "lonesome" and moved in with us.

Our house is small, but it did have two bedrooms, so I fixed one up for Mother B. with a new TV, which she rarely turns on. She comes to our bedroom and sits on our bed (even when we are IN it) and watches whatever we're watching. After we turn out our light she sits on a chair in our bedroom and reads with a flashlight. And she doesn't leave until she thinks we are both asleep.

There is no lock on our bedroom door. Mother B. has four other children. They never ask her to their homes, but they run in to say "hi" to her on their way somewhere. Her health is good and she could afford to live alone.

I am at the breaking point, Abby. I have considered asking Andrew to make a choice between his mother and me, but I'm afraid he'd choose her. I can't take this much longer. What should I do?DESPERATE

DEAR DESPERATE: Have a long talk with Andrew. Explain your need for privacy, and ask him to convey it to his mother. Insist on a lock for your bedroom door. If Andrew refuses, then face it, he has already made his choice.

CONFIDENTIAL TO ARNIE: There are two times in a man's life when he shouldn't gamble. (1) When he can't afford it. (2) When he can.

JARGON GENERATOR

Rare Discovery On Tidied Table

By MAUREEN DUFFUS

Warning to readers who automatically tune out at the mention of anything mechanical: A jargon generator isn't mechanical at all.

It is simple in concept and a great brain-saver.

It could even be the secret of sustained one-upmanship.

I discovered the existence of jargon generators when I cleared off the coffee table the other day.

That isn't as ridiculous as it sounds because our coffee table is not like coffee tables in the furniture sale ads, with a bowl of flowers on one end and a prestige magazine on the other.

Ours is buried under a two-foot mess of books, magazines, a walkie-talkie, notes of great value and junk mail. There is no attempt to disguise this eyesore with arty magazines on top, either.

Sorting this mound of debris is fatiguing because of the constant decision-making: Which is junk mail, which is vital to the march of science?

An engineering news bulletin nearly hit the junk pile. It was announcing the availability of uninspiring machines such as a floating differential DC amplifier for oscillographs; a versatile digital strain indicator; a solid state measuring system and a digital multimeter.

Don't give up yet — I mention these only to point out why I nearly threw it out. Anyway it's good to stretch the mind a bit, and it leads directly to the jargon generator on the back page.

The jargon generator is, in essence, a handy invention for producing instant gobbledegook.

It is easy to program, simple to operate.

Here is a partial sample of how the thing works:

0. Integrated	0. Management	0. Options
1. Systematized	1. Organizational	1. Flexibility
2. Functional	2. Reciprocal	2. Mobility
3. Synchronized	3. Digital	3. Hardware
4. Compatible	5. Transitional	4. Time-phase
5. Balanced	5. Incremental	5. Concept

Gobbledegook for All Occasions

Just pick any combination of numbers at random from columns 1, 2 and 3 and you've got, as the bulletin says instant gobbledegook "with which to impress your friends, obfuscate your enemies, confuse your controller and stupefy your superior. Keep handy at all times for top level conferences."

Example: 132 equals systematized digital mobility.

Very stupefying — but interesting.

Programmed with words like that the use of the non-electronic computer is of limited use only. One rarely finds oneself at top level engineering conferences, and the possibility of using it in conversation with an engineer at a cocktail party is remote.

However, the alert mind will quickly perceive ways in which the idea can be easily adapted.

Under what circumstances are you most at a loss for conversational gambits?

Serious research is needed here, and each to his own.

My particular hang-up comes with the art crowd who always say such astonishingly significant things about paintings.

A suitable vocabulary carefully programmed for the art gallery should help in those awkward moments when someone asks what you think of a series of red and purple blobs. Obviously you can't say it's a nice sunset.

The art-gallery jargon generator will need words like spatial textural organization; elitist compositional imagery; interesting graphic formalism; ebullient dadaist geometry, or exqusite tonal quality.

For ballet, try fluid, classic, lyric, acrobatic, the latter being terribly insulting. "Sloppy uncontrolled fouettes" is fine, unless the fouettes happen to have been impeccably controlled. Substitute "faultless technical precision," which can be said either with gushing admiration or insulting superiority.

Horsey people can be intimidating too. At the Gymkhana you will need less abstract but equally flexible words. Foundered is good, and shallow in the withers will often get by, but programming a jargon generator on this subject is tricky. Just tossing out anatomical terms like fetlock and pastern is dangerous because horsey people often actually know which is which.

The real challenge would be to program a jargon generator with lists of words that could pass muster in any situation, from an engineering conference to intermission at the ballet.

You could call the project an individualized non-level learning program utilizing basic resource material.

A few reference books from the library, a few days intense concentration, and anyone could devise a do-it-yourself mix-and-match gobledegook computer.

SOMETHING FOR MOTHER AND DAUGHTER

The Captain Shows Mini-Skirts

PARIS (UPI) — When Molyneux shows mini-skirts, it's certain they're here to stay.

Capt. Edward Molyneux didn't slash the hemlines himself. He turned the scissors over to four young successors, including a brilliant Dane.

The change made Molyneux virtually the only house in Paris where an ultra-conservative mother might take her with-it daughter and both come out happy.

The elegant Molyneux look is carried on by the captain's cousin, Englishman John Tullis and even his hemlines stop at the top of the knee.

Lars Hillingso of Denmark was undoubtedly the most original of the four designers and one of the most original in Paris this season. He rightly deserved the first really enthusiastic applause heard so far.

His line, both fitted and tent-shaped, was typified by a suit-over-dress combination with a short unfitted jacket that ended slightly before the hipbone where it met a gathered skirt, widened further by patch pockets on the side.

When the jacket and skirt came off, there was a neat sweater dress underneath. When the suit was in double-face wool, the outfit would withstand icy winter weather without a separate coat.

Hillingso did coats in the same line that were the only relief from narrow fitted coats seen so far this season. With their rounded shoulders and patch pockets at the sides they looked new enough and neat enough to succeed.

His evening dresses were both elegant and practical. One model walked out in a short-skirted peach colored cocktail dress that looked as if its bodice and shoulder straps were "embroidery," slipped the bodice off without any trouble to reveal an excellent plain dress.

Also interesting were the collections of Mario Bianchetti, a young Italian, and Michel-Philippe Laroche, a Frenchman who continues to serve as deacon in a French orthodox church.

Biaci's evening gowns were particularly mini by Molyneux standards. One stunning model left an asymetrical cape swinging over one shoulder and the other bare.

Laroche was in the modern mood of Courreges and Ungaro, but more feminine. He liked curves, wool breastplates and patch pockets of contrasting colors on his coats. He often repeated the breastplate shape in beading on matching dresses.

GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hewitt, of 1870 Montieth Street, will be at home to friends and relatives Wednesday from 2 to 4 in the afternoon and from 7 to 9 in the evening. The reception has been arranged by their daughters, Mrs. R. J. (Amy) Champion and Mrs. J. D. (Georgina) Drummond, to mark the couple's fiftieth wedding anniversary. They were married in Northern Ireland on July 31, 1918, while Mr. Hewitt was on leave from the 8th Kings Royal Irish Hussars serving in France. They came to Canada in 1921 and resided in Kenora, Ont., for 35 years before making their home in Victoria. They have four grandchildren, John and Judith Champion and Donald and Carol Drummond, all residing in Victoria.

CAC Sends Resolutions To Minister

OTTAWA — Consumers' Association of Canada has announced details of resolutions which have been passed to Ronald Basford, newly-appointed minister of Consumer and Corporate Affairs.

Heading the list is a request that high priority be given in any federal-provincial consumer affairs talks to increased protection in meat and poultry inspections across Canada. "Co-levels of government" would do much to improve a serious situation CAC says.

Immediate development of a flammability standard for fabrics is demanded in a resolution which points out that no regulations now exist to force clothing manufacturers to label easily-ignited clothing as such.

The association further asks that the Consumer and Corporate Affairs Department undertake an "intensive educational program" regarding the damaging effects of solvent sniffing.

CAC asks that the Department of Consumer and Corporate Affairs take up cudgels for the consumer when it comes to tariffs. Said the resolution: "Whereas tariff negotiations are intricate and complex and require specialized professional and technical competence it is resolved that the Department of Consumer and Corporate Affairs be prepared to represent the interests of Canadian consumers at government policy discussion on tariffs."

Other resolutions presented include requests for better warranty and guarantee protection and for a wider consumer education program at the federal level.

TIPS FOR HOME GARDENER

Art of Cutting Flowers

By HILDA BEASTALL

Hilda

There is an art to cutting flowers for home decoration (or for flower shows) which may not be apparent at first glance, though it may be readily acquired with practice and observation.

The first point is to prevent wilting caused by loss of moisture, or lack of moisture supply.

The cells in the severed plant begin to shrink, with the resulting collapse, which we call wilt.

This is most easily prevented by taking a jar, or pail, having some cold water in it, into the garden and placing each freshly cut stem into it immediately. The moisture supply will thus be continuous.

The stem end will have no chance to dry, the flowers will remain fresh. When transferring the flowers to water again later, make a fresh cut under water, removing the bottom half inch of stem.

Have the knife or scissors sharp, for dull tools tear the stem cells, causing decay.

Flowers will keep fresh longer if they spend the first eight hours in deep water, up to their necks, in a cool airy place.

Deep water cools the stems, making them in good condition for the transportation of moisture to flower heads. It also creates the humid atmosphere which does more than anything to preserve freshness of plant material.

I have frequently discarded flowers from a wilted arrangement into the compost pail, containing liquids from tea and coffee pot rinsings. The next time the lid is lifted, the flowers are found to be in a much refreshed condition.

Discarding the idea that the tea and coffee might be the stimulants, I feel that humidity has been responsible.

There are preferred times for cutting flowers. Those prized for perfume, sweet peas, violets and stocks, are best cut in evenings.

By that time, the sun's rays have produced the chemical components we know as perfume.

Most of the other flowers will keep longer if cut in the early morning before the heat of the sun has reached the plants.

Observation will also prove to the gardener that flowers cut from plants which have received adequate moisture at their roots throughout the blooming period, will last longer in good condition than those from poorly cultivated plants.

If you intend to exhibit blooms in any of the flower shows coming up this summer and fall, these notes may help you to realize your ambition in winning prizes.

YOUR HEALTH

Low Blood Sugar Not The Answer

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Alvarez

Every so often I feel the need for answering the scores of letters I get from people with perhaps sick headaches or some nervousness or some indigestion who say they were told after a few minutes with a terribly busy doctor that their troubles were all due to low blood sugar. Then he said, "Eat meat and touch no sugar," and let them go.

This diagnosis has been a fad for a good many years. I have seen a few hundred people with this diagnosis, and so far, the able men and women working in the fine laboratories to which I send my patients, have never been able to find the person had low blood sugar, or blood sugar low enough to produce any symptoms. In the cases of all the patients I saw, from the answers to just two questions, I knew the patient could not have low blood sugar: (1) because he or she had no trouble in the morning before breakfast, when after the longest fast of the 24 hours, the blood sugar would have been at its lowest ebb, and (2) because the person never felt the least relief from symptoms when he or she ate some candies or took some sweetened orange juice.

★ ★ ★

I thought of this today as a middle-aged woman came in who had had a very severe diabetes since she was a girl of five. Naturally, through the years, having to take each day a big dose of insulin, she has had many insulin reactions due to too big a drop in her blood sugar; but note what she said to me: "Oh, what a joy when, each time I took a little sugar and in a few minutes felt fine, and was rid of that awful woozy feeling."

★ ★ ★

I have here on my desk a release from the University of Wisconsin, telling about a patient seen 10 years ago by Professor Kennet E. Lemmer. He was a 62-year-old man with a definite and easily recognized hyperinsulinism — due to a tumor of those cells in the pancreas (the big gland back of the stomach) that make insulin. He had a year long history of "black-out" which always came at the same time before his breakfast. The doctor explored the abdomen and found the expected tumor of the pancreas. He removed it and after that the man was well. There is a definite disease due to low blood sugar, but it is due most commonly to a tumor arising in the insulin-making cells in the pancrease.

Recently, in "Geriatrics," a journal devoted to the diseases of the elderly, Drs. M. M. Gertler, H. A. Rusk, H. H. Whiter, H. E. Leetma, and M. Ehrenkranz of the great Institute of Rehabilitation Medicine in New York City, studied 185 patients, 109 men and 76 women, who had had strokes.

The average age for both men and women was 61 years. A number had a family history of strokes and arterial disease, diabetes and high blood pressure. The blood pressure readings tended to be higher in the men and women with a stroke due to a plugged up artery in the brain. Of the men patients with either a plugging of an artery or a hemorrage in the brain, about one in five had a definite diabetes, while one in seven of the women were diabetic.

ASK ANDY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a World Book Atlas.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Pam Esterly, age 10, of Allentown, Pennsylvania, for her question:

When did the public learn not to fear eclipses?

A sudden surprise gives us a jolt and often gets more attention than it deserves. On the other hand, it may force us to take a closer look at things we have taken for granted. One of the most dramatic events is a solar eclipse. If we had never heard of it, the stunning surprise would strike us with terror and fearsome panic.

Most of our cavemen ancestors never beheld the overwhelming grandeur of a total solar eclipse. It returns to the same region of the earth perhaps twice in a century. The life span of early man was short and he was not likely to be there in the right place at the right time to witness the stunning event. When it occurred, naturally he was struck with fear and the dread of unknown disaster. Nowadays we are told when to expect the dramatic event and we understand what it really is. Though it is a spooky thing to watch, we can forget fear and enjoy the breathtaking splendor of the heavenly spectacle.

As a rule, the dreadful fangs of fear are removed with knowledge. When we know what to expect, we tend to find courage to face even the worst disasters. When civilized people are stunned by unexpected events, they ask themselves why they were caught unaware. They take a deeper look into themselves. They check into causes that they overlooked. Most of all, they strive for more sensible information to help them cope with such situations in the future. This is the reaction of the modern public. And history suggests that basic human nature has changed very little since the days of our cavemen ancestors.

Warned People

Mankind has been a natural-born star-gazer from the very beginning, and every generation has had its quota of gifted scholars. Early man was aware of the dependable daily sun, the cycles of the moon and the seasonal parade of starry constellations. And even before the dawn of history there were scholars who thoughtfully studied the heavenly parade. Man's first science was astronomy. The Chaldean Magi of Mesopotamia began charting the skies and keeping accurate records of heavenly events many, many thousands of years ago. So did early astronomers in China and India, Persia and Egypt and other ancient communities.

Seasonal changes in the sky occur in orderly cycles. Eclipses are rare events but they too occur in cycles. In 18 years and 11 days, the earth lives through an orderly average cycle of 28 lunar and 43 solar eclipses. Then the cycle shifts westward and the pattern repeats with minor changes. It was the star-charting Magi of Babylon who first figured out this eclipse cycle. They called it the "saros," meaning "the repetition." The challenging job began before history, and who knows how many generations it took to solve the complications. But we have clay tablets to prove that they had mastered the saros cycle at least 3,000 years ago. Those Babylonian astronomers predicted eclipses and robbed the rare events of their shocking surprise. Their knowledge spread to astronomers of Persia and Egypt, Greece and other neighboring communities. They warned the people of what to expect. And the sensible majority refused to panic when dramatic eclipses appeared in their skies.

This was 800 years or more before the start of our Christian Era. But human nature, remember, changes slowly. Every generation has a quota of people who refuse to believe warnings and a quota of those who secretly enjoy devastating disasters. A total solar eclipse still strikes fearful panic in such people. What's more, there are remote communities that have never heard of the saros eclipse cycle. These unfortunates are caught by surprise and struck with the terror that inspired the ancient Magi to get busy and solve the complicated schedule, once and for all.

Navy Arranges Lecture Tour

A lecture on Esquimalt naval history for 86 summer school children Wednesday was followed by a tour of the harbor in two naval auxiliary vessels.

Also attending the short program were 32 teachers from points throughout B.C.

SMOOTH PRODUCTION

Luv Javelin-Witted Satire

By AUDREY JOHNSON

It is just about time that someone came up with the idea of throwing a mocking light on today's cliche-riddled concept of romantic love.

Playwright Murray Schisgal does it with flair in Luv, a comedy that could cause any laugh-meter to have a nervous breakdown.

Luv, produced by Robert Price Associates opened a 10-day run at Mcherson Playhouse, Thursday night.

From a point of view of construction, the comparatively short two-acter is more of a theme-with-variations than a play. But that only makes its impact the greater.

Luv is like tossing down a glass of excellent light beer and finding a nugget of gold in the bottom of the glass. Its taste is lively, tangy and has a seasoned bite.

Already known as a gifted actor and singer, Harry Hill, in directing Luv, adds another pleasing dimension to his accomplishment.

The play has been handled with a clear sense of style and comic business, but with the sensitivity and discipline that prevents any element losing its relationship within the whole concept.

His cast of three — plus a slightly bashful terrier named Lee — are professional Vancouver actors so competent that one looks forward to their early return in future RPA productions.

RESTRAINT

Linda Sorensen's many virtues as an actress include the ability to project fully yet to show restraint; to highlight her comedy yet never to burlesque it; to maintain a tremendous impression of pace and yet to be still often.

Economy and grace in movement and an unusually pleasing and flexible voice are her other major assets.

Owen Foran and Gregory Reid as the base elements (no pun actually intended) in this ludicrous triangle, complete a first-rate team.

Foran's measure has already been taken locally in Roar of the Greasepaint.

A convincing actor with a delightful instinct for comedy-timing and a very definite personality, he provides a performance full of subtleties and suppleness of mood.

A veteran of CBC television, Vancouver's Playhouse Theatre, the Frederick Wood and Holiday Theatre, Gregory Reid's slim sinuous body and finely-modulated voice are expressive instruments that he uses to maximum effect.

TURN OF HEAD

He is an actor who can convey a world of meaning with a single movement of the foot or a turn of the head. A most intriguing performer to watch.

The set did not give me too much satisfaction. The entire action takes place on a bridge in New York, but if one has to keep reminding oneself of the fact, the set has failed in its function.

There were some missed comedy effects in the production — chief among them a delayed splash each time someone fell or was pushed into the water.

A quibble perhaps, but in a production as smooth as this, it is reasonable to seek even fuller realization.

Luv is at McPherson Playhouse nightly through Aug. 3.

Liz Taylor Recovers

LONDON (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor's doctors told her Friday she can leave the Fitzroy Nuffield Nursing Home next week. The actress has improved steadily since he had a partial hysterectomy last Sunday.

TV BIG BROTHER?

TORONTO (CP)—Police effectiveness has been held back because of the prevalent idea that closed circuit television surveillance is "big brotherism", an electronics firm representative said here.

Army Holds AWOL Singer For Encore

VUNG TAU, Vietnam (UPI) — A young singer with a USO troupe made such an impression here his GI audience has been holding him prisoner ever since.

The undoing of singer X — the army declined today to reveal his name until charges are preferred — came after he arrived at this rest centre resort to sing for the men of the U.S. Army 560th military police compound.

The youngster has not left the compound since because he sang so well it led to the disclosure that he is a U.S. soldier absent without leave since March.

Among those particularly impressed with the youth's singing and guitar playing was Provost Marshal Lt. Ronald P. Face, 29, of Augusta, Ga. He approached the youth, dressed in civilian clothes, during the USO show intermission. He complimented him and casually asked where he was from.

The youth replied he was in the army, attached to the 39th Engineers. Face had never heard of the unit. He asked the youth what company he was in. The solider, caught off guard, said he was attached to the "fourth" company.

All U.S. Army Engineer units list their companies alphabetically, not numerically.

Seized Film Draws Crowd

MONTREAL (CP) — I, a Woman, a Danish film seized by police last week at two city theatres, opened Thursday to more than 3,000 persons at a theatre in suburban Pointe Claire.

The movie was shown in its original version with English subtitles.

The film had previously run for 22 weeks in Montreal. Police seized the film the night a showing with French subtitles opened.

BOGART PAST REVIVED

African Queen Burnished for Tour

By DAVID LAWDAY

SAN RAFAEL, Calif, (Reuters) — The African Queen now sparkles and shines from even more loving care than the late Humphrey Bogart lavished on the temperamental old steam launch which starred in the movie of the same name.

Its rusty wood-burning boiler and smokestack which frustrated a cursing Bogart have been polished to a level which eluded the Hollywood tough-guy in the 1952 award-winning movie classic.

Plucked out of the steam waterways around Lake Victoria and the Nile River, the 56-year-old vessel is being shown in U.S. ports this summer to raise funds for research into cancer — the disease which killed Bogart.

REVIVE MEMORIES

Two cases of gin, the indomitable helmsman's faforite drink in the movie, are being stowed aboard the 30-foot launch to revive memories of the heated clashes between the alcohol-swilling captain and his prim missionary passenger played by Katharine Hepburn.

The boat arrived in San Francisco strapped to the deck of a freighter from Mombasa, Kenya.

The rickety launch, which carried freight and passengers for 40 years before it became a movie star, was brought here by restaurant owner Fred Reeve, a Bogart fan and cancer charity worker who visualized it as a dramatic part of his fund-raising campaign.

San Rafael firemen volunteered to repaint the craft and restore the boiler to its prime so that it could chug into Fisherman's Wharf in San Francisco for a week-long stay before a grand tour of southern and eastern United States ports.

Reeve said half the funds raised will go to anti-cancer groups in San Rafael. The remainder will be split equally between other American cancer organizations and cancer research work in Uganda.

Scenes from the movie, with a narration by director John Huston, will be shown at the appearances of the launch.

Goldstream Picnic

The younger section of the junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet at 10:30 a.m. Saturday at Douglas and Hillside for an expedition to Goldstream picnic site. All those going are asked to bring a lunch.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A lot of players would manage to go down at today's spade slam. It isn't too difficult. South knows all about those thousands of Englishmen walking the streets of London with no soles to their shoes because they failed to pull trumps, so South draws trumps annd possibly runs off an extra couple for good measure.

Opening lead—♦ Q

If East and West discard sensibly to these five trump leads, South will go down. He will go after clubs and ruff the third lead. Should those three leads clear the suit, South would make all 13 tricks. But they won't and South will be held to a very unsatisfactory 11.

The correct line of play will bring home the bacon. South should study the hand carefully before leading to the second trick. He will see that he needs three club tricks for his contract. Therefore he won't make it if clubs break worse than 4-2.

Can he make it if they break 4-2? Yes, provided he can get to dummy to collect a trick with the fifth club.

Then, operating on the principle that you play for your contract, South will promptly cash dummy's ace and king of clubs. When both opponents follow, it will be all over but the mopping up. He will ruff a club, enter dummy with the queen of trumps, ruff another club, draw the rest of the trumps and eventually get to dummy with the ace of hearts in order to cash the last club.

The whole point of this line of play is that dummy had two entries outside of the club suit and South had to plan his play to conserve both of them. One was needed to get to dummy for a fourth club lead; the other to get to dummy to cash the fifth club.

Simple Eskimo Speech Marks Trudeau Visit

By GERRY McNEIL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

"My name is Philip Ousie, and I am the oldest man in Grise Fiord," the Eskimo, his knees knocking and his big hands shaking, said. "This boy beside me is Paul Asee."

"We are very glad to see you with our own eyes. We are very thankful that for the first time a prime minister has come to Grise Fiord."

Pierre Elliott Trudeau, the first prime minister to venture into the high Arctic, sat before the old man and the boy in a tiny hall at Grise, where the whole Eskimo community of 94 had gathered.

Grise Fiord is the most northerly Canadian Eskimo habitation in the world. It sits on a tiny lip of rock beneath the ponderous cliffs and glaciers at the foot of Ellesmere Island, about 1,200 miles from the North Pole.

The twin-Otter that brought Mr. Trudeau to the settlement curved through cold, thin mist over frozen Jones Sound, and landed on a short, mushy sand strip.

The prime minister, who also flies, looked at bush pilot Weldom Phipps with admiration after the landing.

Once off the plane, Mr. Trudeau shook hands with the women in their beautiful embroidered parkas, their fresh-faced children and the tough, gentle men, who live by hunting whales and seals.

DANCE HONORS VISITOR

Then they all traipsed a gravelly mile to the village—there are no passenger vehicles in Grise Fiord—where the Eskimos held a square-dance to honor the visitor.

Josephie, son of Nanouk of the North, the Eskimo on which the famous film of the 1920's was based, was there.

So was Philip Ousie, who was a bit player in the film.

"We are giving these muskox horns as a souvenir," Philip Ousie, a hunter who has faced polar bears with more equanimity, said.

"We hope nothing will happen to you on your trip."

Then, sober young Paulasee presented the mounted black-tipped horns found by an Eskimo hunting party June 30 near a glacier behind the village.

"I will always remember the Eskimo people because they are the oldest Canadians," Mr. Trudeau said in reply. "Their country is so beautiful and they have given me this gift."

"All Canadians are brothers and it is important we visit one another."

The travelled prime minister, making his first trip ever into the Arctic, has compared the vivid scenery to that of the Swiss Alps. He has said several times since arriving in the North last Sunday that more Canadians should visit it.

For the Eskimos in Grise Fiord, as in other places where the prime minister has stopped this week, the reality of a Canadian rather than a British leader has become apparent in Mr. Trudeau.

DISARMED BY RESIDENTS

Wearing a tan parka, a sweater, ascot tie, slacks and loafers, he is charming the North and being disarmed by its people—not only the Eskimos but the whites who love him, too.

He is also getting a first-hand look at the extensive mining and oil exploration under way from the Yukon to Baffin Island.

"This is Canada's plum," said pilot Phipps, who operates a fleet of five planes from Resolute, N.W.T. On his vacation next months, Mr. Phipps will take three of his sons to Grise Fiord to prospect for molybdenum.

"This is great country," Mr. Trudeau was told by Montrealers installing a radio-telephone system at Pond Inlet, 60 miles from a rich iron ore deposit on northern Baffin Island.

"You really get to know up here how great this country is," a Winnipegger at Longstaff Bluff, a DEW line base on Foxe Basin, said.

The Trudeau tour has been as casual in style as the prime minister himself.

At Longstaff Bluff he climbed into the back of a pickup truck for the five-mile drive from the airfield to the base.

PLANE BUZZES TRUCK

Partway there, a twin-engine plane came roaring in from icy Foxe Basin and playfully buzzed the truck, passing only yards over it.

"Did you get his number?" the prime minister asked Marc Lalonde, his special adviser.

The pilot, told later who he had teased, nearly fainted. But by then, Mr. Trudeau was wheeling a Japanese motorbike about the airfield with boyish glee.

"Hey, this is fun," he said. "Where's the brake?"

Earlier this week, he took the controls of an Air Force Hercules, one of the biggest aircraft in Canada, for 30 minutes en route to Alert.

Alert, a weather station only 500 miles from the North Pole, was fogged in, but the plane made two passes—coming within 250 feet of the invisible ground—before turning back.

It was a typical moment in the Trudeau tour that began at Whitehorse last Sunday and ends at Labrador this Sunday.

Tonight, Mr. Trudeau sleeps in a tent at Clearwater Fiord on Baffin Island.

Fees Go Up; Rates Same

B.C. doctors will receive a 6.75 per cent increase in their medicare fee schedule Jan. 1 but there will be no boost in subscribers' premiums, Provincial Secretary Wesley Black announced Thursday.

The increase was negotiated between the B.C. Medical Association and government officials after the doctors' organization asked for a 9.9 per cent increase on the basis of a previously-agreed formula reflecting changes in the cost-of-living index and average provincial wage index.

Negotiations began in March and ended amicably at the lower figure, a spokesman for the medical association said, because doctors were willing to exercise restraint in an inflationary period.

The new fee schedule will be in effect for two years.

CARELESS DRIVERS

Fined Thursday for careless driving were:

Paul Brown, 1416 Allison, car went off Braefoot Road into ditch June 22, $35; Judith Carrow, 703 Brentwood, accident on Douglas Street, June 26, $35.

You Can Make Your Husband Happier – More Successful

Do you know the one essential but often missing ingredient in a good marriage? In a special reprint article in August Reader's Digest you'll learn how a wife can make her husband happier and more successful by satisfying his basic need for more warm love. The author explains the importance of love and tells how a husband's desire is often self-suppressed simply because many men are too proud to admit, even to themselves, how hungry for love they really are. Yet there is a pitfall! Too much love tends to make a man feel fenced in. In the same article read how some men become hostile when their wives physical needs exceed their own and what a woman can and must do in such a situation. Don't miss August Reader's Digest—put it on your shopping list now.

"What two ideas are more inseparable than Beer and Britannia?"

So said the noted writer, Sydney Smith in the early 19th century. Today, many still believe that good beer is a British art. It's certainly a British tradition. After all, Charrington Toby was first brewed over two hundred years ago, in 1757. Only recently have the Charringtons allowed Toby's recipe to leave the country. Now you may enjoy Toby in British Columbia . . . for it was to Carling that Charringtons entrusted the Toby recipe. Have a Toby!

Red Army Boosts Border Pressure

(Times News Services)

MOSCOW—The Soviets charged today that Western-encouraged Czech forces are on the verge of a "call for a coup d'etat" to overthrow 20 years of Communism and stepped up the giant Russian military manoeuvres on Czechoslovakia's frontier.

Both sides seemed to be entrenching themselves deeper and closing escape exits as they moved toward a showdown.

In Prague, Czech communist party leader Alexander Dubcek pledged he will win more freedom of action for Czechoslovakia from Kremlin leaders in their impending confrontation.

As he spoke the official Czech army magazine Obrana Lidu said demands by the Soviet Union, Poland, East Germany, Hungary and Bulgaria that Czechoslovakia reverse its liberalization course "amount to a call for moral suicide" and "Czechoslovakia is not going to commit suicide."

MORE IMPUDENT

The official Kremlin communist organ Pravda charged that the new Czech reformers, "encouraged from the west, are getting more impudent step by step . . . first criticism of the socialist structure, next the call for democratic socialism and fially a factual call for a coup d'etat, the purpose of which is revenge for the revolution of 1948 and restoratin of the bourgeois structure."

The hardening of positions came against an ominous backdrop of an increase in Soviet "special manoeuvers" along Russia's 1,000-mile western frontier that includes Czechoslovakia.

The Red Army newspaper Red Star announced the huge forces in the exercise were escalating their activity and had been joined by anti-aircraft units equipped with anti-missile missiles and air force units.

"The scope and intensity of combat action is growing hour by hour and day by day," the paper said.

'CAN'T GO ON'

Diplomatic sources, concerned over the march of events and with no sign of the announced Soviet-Czech summit meeting, said, "It can't go on like this much longer."

At least three members of the 11-man Soviet politburo were known to be still in Moscow five days after both sides announced the politburo would meet the Czechoslovak party presidium in Czechoslovakia.

But the biggest Soviet party guns — General Secretary Leonid Brezhnev, chief ideologist Mikhail Suslov and Andrei Kirilenko, in charge of Russian federation party organizations — disappeared from public view along with five other politburo members.

They could well be en route to the secret conference site, most porbably the Slovak city of Kosice, or already there.

Dubcek said he did not intend to push his differences with Russia to an open break, but added, "We know what we want."

As he spoke the official Czech army newspaper in a fiery editorial accused Russia of trying to make Czechoslovakia end its reform program and stated "The Czech people are not going to commit suicide."

Dubcek addressed a delegation representing workers in a number of Prague factories. He made no reference to the menacing Soviet war manoeuvres on the Czech borders but he said, "We must not get nervous, because nervousness leads to insecurity."

"Be assured that we shall succeed," Dubcek said of his coming confrontation with the Soviet Union's communist leadership. "We shall succeed, not only in defending our ideas, but also in getting more freedom of action."

'UNANIMOUS'

He said the 11-member presidium is unanimous in its attitude towards the talks with the Russians.

The Czech press also launched a full-scale campaign to rally support of the people for the reform leadershvp as it prepared for a showdown meeting with the Kremlin's leaders. Thousands of citizens signed a petition urging Dubcek to stand firm.

Radio newscasts were taken up almost entirely with the reading of telegrams and resolutions pledging support to the Dubcek leadership.

The petition, published in a special extra edition of the newspaper Literarni Listy, was addressed to the 11-man Czech presidium "on the eve of your meeting with the politburo of the Soviet party."

TED KENNEDY NOT RUNNING

BOSTON (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said today that for personal reasons it would be "impossible" for him to run for vice-president this fall.

"Under normal circumstances such a possibility would be a high honor and a challenge to further public service. But for me, this year, it is impossible," Kennedy said. (See earlier story Page 12.)

KENNEDY
. . . surviving son

"My reasons are purely personal. They arise from the change in my personal situation and responsibilities as a result of the events of last month," he said in obvious reference to the slaying of his brother, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York.

"I know that the members of the Democratic party will understand these reasons without further elaboration," he said in a statement released by his Boston office.

The only surviving son of the Kennedy family said he had informed the Democratic presidential candidates and the Democratic convention chairman of his decision which, he said, was "final, firm, and not subject to further consideration."

The 36-year-old senator added, "I believe, however, that there are certain vital foreign and domestic policies our party must pursue if it is to be successful in the coming election and is to solve our nation's problems. I will be speaking out on these issues in my capacity as United States senator in the future."

Kennedy's brother, Robert, was slain last month in Los Angeles following his victory in California's presidential primary.

President John F. Kennedy was killed by an assassin's bullet in Dallas in November 1963 and the fourth Kennedy brother, Joseph Jr., was killed in Europe during the Second World War.

New Attack Launched By Nigeria on Biafra

LAGOS (AP) — Fighting has broken out between Nigerian federal forces and those of the secessionist Biafra regime on the road between Onitsha and Enugu, Radio Biafra claimed today.

The radio report said federal troops launched an attack from Onitsha, a major port city on the Niger River about 300 miles east of Lagos, the federal capital. The broadcast indicated the federals were trying to clear a supply route to Enugu about 65 miles to the east. Enugu is the former secessionist capital captured by the federals.

Biafrans claimed the federals were repelled near Abagana, 12 miles east of Onitsha, where last March the Biafrans cut the route to Enugu that the federals had held since October.

LAGOS (Reuters) — Federal Nigeria and Biafra agree on a "relief corridor" into the breakaway state, but still disagree on its supervision, Radio Biafra said in a broadcast monitored here today.

BEGUILING pleas failed to convince 14-month-old Dee Steffensen that the water wasn't wet at Vancouver's Third Beach. Gingerly lifting her toes from sea wet sand, Dee makes tracks for mother while Elaine Koochin and June Osland coax in vain to get Dee in for another salt water romp. (CP Wirephoto.)

Government 'Falls Apart' In Bolivia

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — The government of President Rene Barrientos fell apart Thursday night after the revelation that his interior minister was an ally of Fidel Castro and had smuggled a copy of Ernesto (Che) Guevara's captured diary to Cuba.

The Social Democratic party quit the four-party government coalition earlier in the day, withdrawing its four members of the cabinet. The other 12 cabinet members submitted their resignations.

Military leaders met in an atmosphere of crisis as unrest mounted around Barrientos, the former commander of the air force. A senator was arrested.

The president told reporters rumors of a coup were "unfounded."

The president's troubles started when the Castro government published the diary which Guevara kept during his abortive guerrilla campaign in Bolivia last year.

The Bolivian government seized the diary after its troops killed the Cuban guerrilla leader and planned to sell it to foreign publishers, but Castro gave it to selected foreign publishers free, killing the sale for the Bolivians.

An army investigation revealed that Interior Minister Antonio Arguedas had slipped the diary out to Castro, and Arguedas and his brother fled to Chile. Granted asylum there Wednesday night, the former minister told a news conference he was a Marxist humanist and an admirer of Castro.

DETAILS SECRET

Job Conditions Stall Mail Talks

OTTAWA (CP)—A secrecy lid was clamped on the postal strike mediation talks early today by apparent agreement among the three main participants. But it was obvious to observers that complete agreement was not yet in sight.

Judge Rene Lippe, the federal mediator, spent more than 12 hours Thursday in closed-door talks with the chief negotiators for both sides. Informants said the sole topic was non-monetary items revolving around working conditions.

Douglas Love, negotiator for the government's treasury board, skipped out of the talks at 12:15 a.m. EDT today, avoiding waiting reporters.

Romeo Mathieu, Quebec organizer for the United Packinghouse Workers Union who has been called in to argue the postal unions' case, declined to answer specific questions.

"We had a free exchange," he said. "There was nothing negative exchanged."

REACH CRUCIAL POINT

Judge Lippe said the talks "are now at a crucial point on non-pay items."

"We had a good day," he added, but refused to elaborate. Mr. Love and Mr. Mathieu were scheduled to go into separate sessions today with their respective negotiating teams. Another mediation meeting with the judge was tentatively set for 8 o'clock tonight but could start earlier if both sides agree.

Earlier, officials of the Council of Postal Unions said they expected "good news" from Thursday's talks. But this optimism apparently fell foul of a long government reply to the unions' proposals on working conditions, laid down Tuesday.

Both government and union sources said the issue of working conditions is very complex. So far the mediation talks had dealt with generalities and not one specific item had been settled.

On Tuesday the union council presented a massive set of proposals based on a conciliation board report into post office work rules.

The work rules issue is a major point in the dispute. Postmen are complaining about a long list of working standards ranging from ventilation of post office quarters to the condition of mailbags.

The union council is demanding a 75-cent hourly increase on a 14-month contract with an added 20 cents for lower-paid categories. The contract, under legislation governing the first collective bargaining for federal public servants, would be retroactive to Sept. 1 of last year.

Two days before the national strike began July 18 the government offered a 15-cent hourly increase in two stages. It was angrily rejected by the unions.

This is the first postal walkout since 1965 when 12,000 workers struck for a week in Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia. This time about 24,000 postal clerks and letter carriers in all provinces are off the job. Another strike was narrowly avoided by mediation in 1966.

Top pre-strike rate for postal clerks was $2.75 an hour and for letter carriers $2.63.

STANFIELD

By JOYCE FAIRBAIRN
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield said today Parliament would have to be called if progress is not made soon in negotiations to settle the postal strike.

The Tory leader said he was reluctant to make any comments which might prejudice the discussions.

But he accused the government of taking a "pretty casual attitude" for some time in the collective bargaining process with the council of postal unions.

He noted that no wage offer had been made by the government until the strike was inevitable.

"This raises the question of whether the government has been bargaining in good faith and effectively," Mr. Stanfield said.

"If progress is not made quickly there doesn't seem to be any alternative but for the government to take its responsibility and call parliament," he said.

He would not indicate what he felt to be a crucial time limit to the nine-day strike which, he pointed out, has a legal stoppage.

But he noted that the hardships involved in a nation-wide strike would increase substantially, particularly for Canadians who could least afford them.

Bomb Wrecks Saigon Press

SAIGON (UPI) — A commando team of three men and two young women destroyed the offices of a Saigon newspaper today with a powerful bomb placed under presses used to print psychological warfare leaflets for the U.S. government.

The bomb had a one-minute triggering mechanism, giving the commandos and the 20 people in the Asia Daily News building just enough time to escape before the blast leveled the three-storey building in the Chinese district of Cholon.

VIET PEACE LEADER GETS 5-YEAR TERM

From Reuters—AP

SAIGON (CP) — South Vietnamese peace campaigner Truong Dinh Dzu was sentenced today to five years hard labor without appeal in a 90-minute military court hearing for advocating peace talks with the Viet Cong.

Dzu, runner up in the presidential elections last year, was arrested in May while in hospital. He was found guilty under a 1965 la wmaking it an offence to commit actions or utter words tending to undermine the anti-Communist spirit of the South Vietnamese people or armed forces.

The charge against Dzu was that he advocated talks with the national Liberation Front, political wing of the Viet Cong, in interviews with an American news agency and a British newspaper.

Communism and neutralism are outlawed by South Vietnam's constitution, and the government refused to consider talks with the Viet Cong.

The verdict and the sentence were not unexpected since the same court Thursday gave a five-year sentence to the 23-year-old publisher of South Vietnam's leading student newspaper for publishing articles the government said were pro-Communist.

Last week the same court gave death sentences in absentia to 10 leaders of the new Alliance of National, Democratic and Peace Forces, which Hanoi is boosting to attract non-Communist support in South Vietnam.

Troops, White Police Back in Negro Slums

CLEVELAND (AP) — National Guard troops and white police returned to Cleveland's Negro slums to enforce a dusk-to-dawn curfew today, imposed by Mayor Carl Stokes.

There were 30 arrests Thursday night. Two persons were seized looting, one was arrested on a charge of arson and 27 were curfew violators.

Several small fires broke out on the East Side where 10 persons—including three policemen were curfew violators. See also page 13.)

Disturbances were reported about five miles southeast of the cordoned-off area. A group of 200 Negroes gathered and a cleaning store was firebombed. A clothing store was looted but police quickly dispersed the crowd.

The loss from fires and looting in the east side Glenville ghetto has been estimated at $1,500,000 by Joseph Boggins, executive vice-president of the Insurance Board of Cleveland.

Stokes said police records showed 39 instances of looting Wednesday night.

Merchants and police differed on the protection supplied to shops in the troubled area.

Benjamin Weiss, owner of a furniture store, said looters broke into his store while two Negro policemen watched.

"I asked the Negro policemen why they didn't stop the looters and they said there were too many in the mob," Weiss said.

Some Negro policemen said that merchants allowed gangs to loot their stores so they could collect insurance.

They said the shopowners would ask for protection while they removed valuable items from the stores.

"Then after they got everything of value on the truck," a policeman said, "they'd tell the gang outside—'go ahead, it's all yours.'"

Wednesday, Stokes chose to let black community leaders try to control the tense situation. He reversed that stand Thursday. He apparently had no choice.

SAW LOOTING

Several members of the mayor's committee told reporters they would not act as peacemakers Thursday night because they had seen evidence of professional looters coming in from out of town and they feared they could not control these elements.

They said if widespread looting began, the young people of the community might join in and, if a situation got out of control, the black leaders would shoulder the blame.

Fifty of the leaders voted to "return the city to the mayor," and Stokes, speaking with emotion, rea . the curfew edict.

He said that the curfew and return of the guardsmen did not mean the use of the black leaders was a failure, but the move may have cost him the confidence of the Negro community. "It was a hell of a gamble," one city official said, "a tremendous political coup if it worked.

"Now it is going to be read as a bum decision."

GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP) —Oilseeds and rye developed strength on fairly healthy export buying through to the close of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today.

All flax futures moved easily to higher levels after liberal hedging sales at the opening were well absorbed and offers thinned. There was a similar pattern in rapeseed and rye.

Feed grains were on a fractionally easier price pattern.

The wheat board announced that all oats spreads were lowered half a cent on the cash gran market.

Lakehead prices for class two, IWA and domestic wheat all were unchanged.

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat futures prices scored their third successive advance on the Board of Trade today and corn made a mild mid-session recovery effort after sinking lower each day this week.

Strength in Kansas City wheat and mill buying aided wheat prices. Corn dipped to new seasonal lows for the fifth trading session this week before buying by elevator firms temporarily reversed the trend. Corn prices later resumed their decline.

Oils Provide Leadership At New York

Oils gave strong leadership to a mixed stock market at New York today. Trading slackened from Thursday's terrific pace.

Gains and losses were about equal.

The Toronto market posted a wide range of losses in light trading. Out of the 16 industrial groups, only steels, beverages and construction stocks were steady.

AT NEW YORK Phillips Petroleum, up four, paced the list of activity. The stock responded to news that Phillips would begin drilling two wells this winter in the same area in Alaska where a rich find recently spurred the stock of Atlantic Richfield.

Standard Oil (New Jersey) was active and up two in response to its increased dividends. Mobil Oil gained three, Standard of Indiana more than a point, Texaco nearly a point.

Other blue chips were spurred by the investment interest in oils.

AT TORONTO, in industrials, CPR fell 1⅜ to 50, Fruehauf Trailer 1 to 15, International Utilities 1 to 50½, Levy Industries 1 to 28¾ and Revenue Properties ¾ to 35½.

Neon Products and Dylex Diversified were up 2 each to 40½ and 32½, Seaway Hotels 1⅜ to 18 and Ontario Store Fixture 1⅛ to 35⅝.

Scurry-Rainbow rose 2¾ to 37, Canadian Gridoil ⅞ to 13 and French Pete 35 cents to $7.10.

Patino dropped 1¾ to 28¾, Kerr Addison ⅝ to 17⅛ and Gunnar 30 cents to $3. New Quebec Raglan jumped 60 cents to $7.10 and Wright-Hargreaves 35 cents to $2.95.

AT MONTREAL papers and utilities led the downward trend in light trading today.

Uncertainty over mixed prices on the New York market led investors to remain cautious.

Great Lakes Paper slid 1 to 17¾, while CIP, MacMillan and Price each retreated ½.

International Utilities was off 2¼, CPR 1⅜, Bell Telephone ⅜ and Maritime Telephone ¼.

AT LONDON equities continued their downward trend on the stock market today. Selling, mainly from small investors, was greater than at anytime during the week, and losses ranged to 3 shillings.

Gilt-edged, however, found new strength, and advanced in active trading.

Dollar stocks reflected the Wall Street fall and some U.S. issues fell 9 points. Canadians and Continentals were also weaker, with Hudson Bay dropping sharply.

Golds were mixed and there was a further slide in Australians. Oils were also down.

AT VANCOUVER — Prices were generally weaker in all sectors during quiet morning trading.

In the mining section Churchill Copper continued to trade actively, but dipped .05 to .95. Magnum, also an active trader, slipped .05 to $2.75.

Buchanan declined .07 to .23 and National Nickel was off .11 to $2.55.

Gainers included Atlas, up .10 to $3.20, Hearne Copper, up .15 to $3, and PCE Explorations, up .27 to $2.45.

In the industrial section, Inland Natural Gas dipped .75 to $9.75 and MacMillan Bloedel was off .62 to $22.

Oil trading was quiet with Sunlite up .4 to $6 and Trans Canada off .10 to $2.50.

U.S. GNP Hot and Cool

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States economy churned ahead at a near-record inflationary pace during the second quarter of this year but has begun showing signs of an orderly cooling off, the commerce department reported.

The department said the gross national product jumped by $19,600,000,000 during the quarter to an annual rate of $850,800,000,000.

This was only slightly below the record $20,200,000,000 increase during the first three months of this year.

More than half the second-quarter advance represented a growth in real output but inflation continued to eat away at the economy.

William H. Chartener, assistant secretary of commerce for economic affairs, said inflation amounted to four per cent during the last year.

He said that in view of the recent U.S. tax increase, he looks for slower growth in the third and fourth quarters and a resumption of more normal economic growth next year.

PUBLIC FUNDS BUY GUNS

Critics Assail Mayor In Negro Riots

CLEVELAND (CP) — Mayor Carl Stokes, first Negro to take over the administration of a major United States city, faced mounting criticism today for his handling of racial disorders that left 10 dead and 23 wounded after three consecutive nights of looting and burning.

Stokes spent much of the night touring the predominantly-Negro area where militant black guerrillas battled police with automatic weapons, killing three white policemen Tuesday night.

Stokes appealed to the 75,000 Negroes in the turbulent Glenville area to restore order.

The 40-year-old mayor's struggle to regain control of the ghetto merged into a fight to restore his slipping political image.

Elected eight months ago as the man who could save and rebuild a city beset by racial unrest, Stokes' political power soared in April when Cleveland escaped riots that struck other American cities after Dr. Martin Luther King's assassination.

Political leaders—both Democratic and Republican—attacked him on two main fronts.

CAUSED MORE TROUBLE

They said that Strokes' decision Wednesday to withdraw the National Guard and white police from the troubled ghetto the night after the gun battle was a mistaken concession to black militants which produced further disorders, widespread looting and arson.

They also charged Stokes refused to face the fact that black militants are determined to create maximum disorder in cities this summer and they do not care if the mayor is a black man.

But the most damaging charge—described by city politicians as potentially a slow fuse that could destroy the mayor's political future—was the disclosure by city officials that $10,000 of federal funds earmarked for the city's major redevelopment program was given to Fred Ahmed Evans, alleged leader of the guerrilla gang, as part of a summer youth program.

Police said Evans admitted using the money to buy the guns and ammunition in Tuesday night's battle by the gang who called themselves "the astrologist nationalists."

Evans, 36, is well known among the city's Negro community as an amateur astrologist.

A city hall official said; "The disclosure that the gang got hold of some of those funds and used them for murder and rebellion will cause an explosion in congress and certainly won't help Cleveland's attempt to rebuild itself."

HIS GAMBLE FAILED

Another official declared Stokes' decision to withdraw guardsmen and white police was a gamble that failed.

"He's mayor of the city to keep the peace," the official said. "The looting went on because there was no law and order there."

The decision didn't sit too well with a number of white policemen.

As they sat in their cars outside the ghetto they heard police radio reports of crowds gathering, and of looting. And they knew that only certain police cars were permitted to respond.

Patrolman Richard Galaska sent a letter of resignation to the department Thursday.

"After a few of my brother officers were killed," Galaska, 30, said, "and others were wounded we were pulled out of the area, and told not to use force."

"I am so angry," he said, "and confused I don't feel I can any longer perform an effective job."

Chicago Outburst Injures 12

CHICAGO (AP) — More than a dozen persons were injured Thursday night when Negro youths looted a food store on Chicago's North Side.

In suburban Maywood another crowd smashed store windows after police used tear gas to disperse demonstrators at the village hall.

Twenty-five persons were arrested in Maywood. Three were held on disorderly conduct charges after the Chicago disturbance.

In Maywood, trouble started after a meeting of a local branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. Discussions at the meeting centred on the lack of a swimming pool.

First Step To Revolt

NEW YORK (Reuters) — The chairman of the Student Non-Violent Co-ordinating Committee said Thursday the racial disturbances in Cleveland were the "first stage of the revolutionary armed struggle."

Phil Hutchins, 26, the organization's new leader, said the black community had no choice but to arm itself against the police.

He said police in Cleveland have a record of antagonism toward blacks.

Merchants of Death

First Inside Story of the Cunning Heroin Supply Line

Every minute of every day, someone injects heroin into his bloodstream—and completes the vicious circle of the narcotics racket. August Reader's Digest features the first of a behind the scenes two-part report, which describes the merchants of misery and death who control the world traffic in heroin. It's a frightening story! Who are these men? How do they direct an organization that spreads from the poppy fields of the Middle East to the pushers and users of North America? This article, the result of a four year investigation, reveals for the first time the secret workings of the terrible dope trade. Learn how the powerful, Mafia-like "Union Corse" in Marseille uses gambling and sex to blackmail respectable businessmen into dope smuggling and why heroin shipments are often channelled through Montreal rather than New York. Don't miss August Reader's Digest now on sale.

Psychosomatic Care Could End Rioting

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Psychosomatic therapy may be the solution to racial rioting in the United States.

Psychosomatic — mind-body — diseases are those caused or aggravated by emotional stress.

Physicians and psychiatrists working in clinics set up in Los Angeles' Watts district after bloody rioting in 1965 say physical disease and emotional stress appear to be much higher there than in other parts of the city.

Chief among the stresses motivating rioters, the researchers found, were hopelessness and self-hatred.

The cure, they say, is to give the underprivileged Negro reason for hope and to teach them not to hate themselves. This would relieve tension and reduce the physical diseases that cause more stress.

Dr. Daniels D. Hansen, assistant professor in medicine and psychiatry, says "the higher incidence of disease in Watts is unquestionably due to the greater stresses under which the Watts Negroes live, depths of hopelessness and self-hatred which the average white man can't imagine."

To illustrate the power of hopelessness, he told of an experiment with rats placed in a tank of water from which they could not escape.

"Within 10 minutes," he said, "all the rats gave up and were about to drown. One was lifted out and allowed to catch his breath, then placed back in the water. He swam for 18 more hours, buoyed by hope, long after the others had died.

"Hopelessness played a strong role in the Watts rioting. If everybody who took part in the rioting could have been given a two week vacation at Lake Arrowhead in July—and if they had some hope of looking forward to the same thing next year, there would have been no rioting in August of 1965."

Victoria Daily Times

VICTORIA, B.C., FRIDAY, JULY 26, 1968—PAGE 21

Arthur Mayse

A few weeks ago, I came on a rock beside our beach trail that interested me. It carried a set of red-painted initials and letters that identified it as a survey marker.

Saanich engineering department confirmed that it was a location-guide to a proposed new sewer trunkline. This, if put through, will hook into the Saanich outfall that dumps into Haro Strait not far from Queen Alexandra Solarium.

Soon after, one of the surveyors stopped by. He was a man with a job to do, and part of his job was to slash out a line which the trunk might follow at some unspecified date. This he explained carefully and courteously. Then he and his helper slashed out a five-foot-wide lane through our lower jungle of Pacific willow, young everygreen and ocean spray ... and now we are wondering what, if anything, will follow.

I am not in the least concerned over the loss of some of the wild vegetation with which we are plentifully supplied, nor am I against sewers as opposed to septic tanks. Far from it! This sector is long overdue for an up-to-date sewage collection and disposal system.

But the key words are 'up to date': and there's the rub. The dumping of raw sewage into the nearest body of water doesn't fall into that category. It is backward, it is primitive, and the fact that local government seems still stubbornly bent on that disposal method gives raise to grave doubts.

Just how thoroughly have its advocates studied alternate methods?

★

I have asked that question here before. Now, with Uvic biologist Dr. Marcus Bell coming on strong for dispoal of treated sewage by composting, the doubts grow more pressing.

Add to this an apparent sketchiness of oceanographic savvy by those who back the straits dumping plan, and it becomes plain that we should back off for a critical looksee. Otherwise, we might find ourselves committed to heavy investment based on a mistaken premise.

Whether the upcoming symposium to be attended by engineers, scientists and doctors will result in a second look, remains to be learned.

I suggest, however, that the invitation list should include a wider range of viewpoint. Surely, the International Salmon Commission and commercial and sport fishermen's organizations should be represented as well.

Also, I hope that at least one professional tide-and-current man will be present.

There are factors involved in sewage disposal that go beyond the over-simple philosophy of getting the sewage out of our parish. They too need close study.

★

While urging a review which will be more than a mere pacifier laid on to reassure a dubious public, I am also very well aware that Mayors Stephen of Victoria and Curtis of Saanich have inherited the toughest sort of problem. They are between the devil of land disposal costs and the deep blue sea that offers superficially easier disposal.

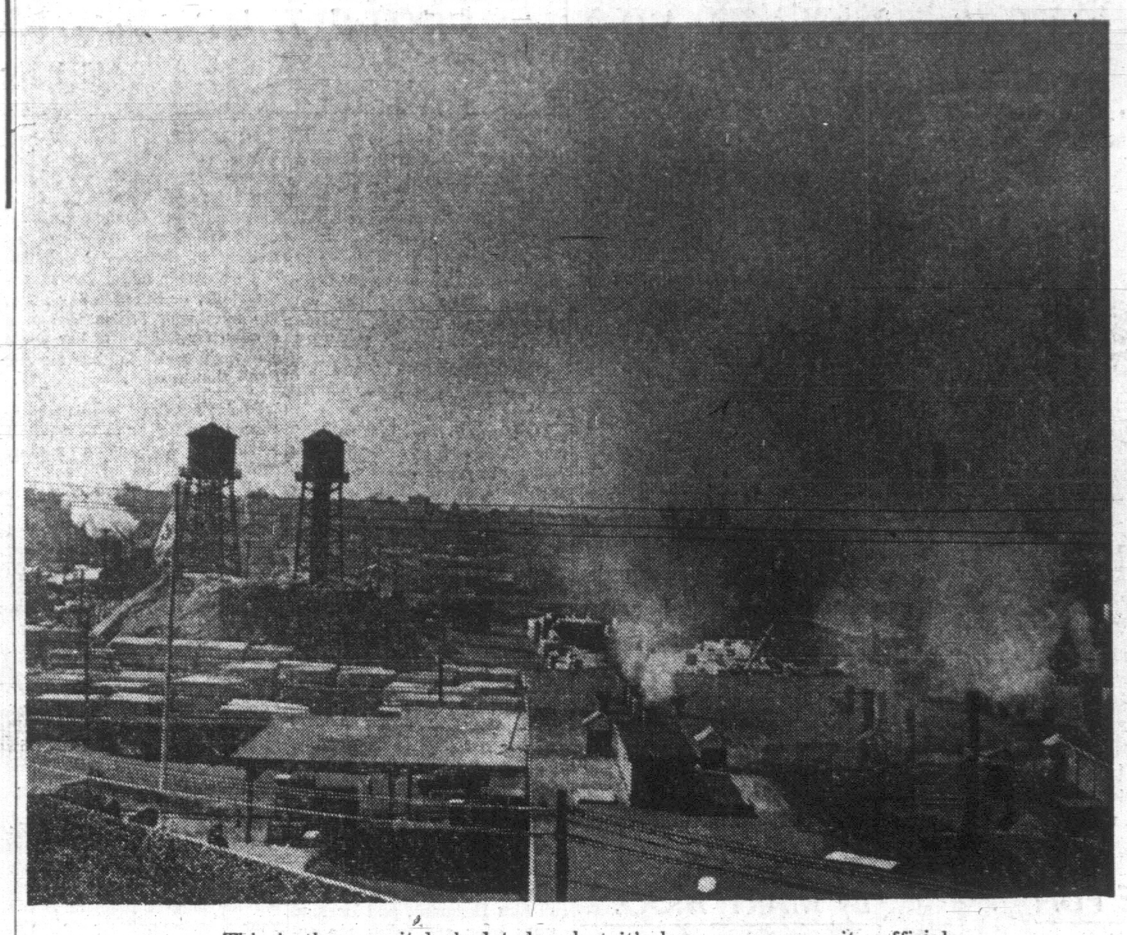
But — and I appeal here to your logic — is there any earthly reason why the municipalities should be required to carry this load alone?

Health Minister Ralph Loffmark has come out staunchly against casual dumping, but any promise, of aid from a provincial government that claimed another handsome surplus this spring has been conspicuously lacking.

WE HAVE A RIGHT TO EXPECT HELP FROM THE SENIOR GOVERNMENTS, PROVINCIAL AND FEDERAL, IN PAYING THE COST OF AN ADEQUATE SEWER PROGRAM!!

Year after year, Social Credit MLAs have represented Victoria and Saanich in the B.C. Legislature.

I think it is time these gentlemen pressed hard for the help their constituencies need from the government they represent.



This is the way it looked today, but it's been worse say city officials.

Garnishee Order Placed Against Firm

A garnishee order has been placed against Saanich municipality to recover $2,076 in back wages owed to seven men who were dismissed by its contract garbage collector, L. S. MacNutt.

It was served Thursday afternoon by lawyer John Goult on behalf of the seven men who were ordered reinstated in employment with back wages by the B.C. Labour Relations Board at the end of last month.

The board said that Mr. MacNutt had contravened the B.C. Labour Relations Act in dismissing the seven persons because they were, or proposed to become, members of a trade union.

The board also directed Mr. MacNutt to "cease using coercion or intimidation of any kind that could reasonably have the effect of compelling or inducing any person to refrain from becoming or to cease to be member of a trade union."

Individual back wages due to the employees for June ranged from $228 to $328.

Mr. Goult, who is acting for the seven men, said the garnishee directs Saanich to pay into court the $2,076 that is owed them. The garnishee is against Saanich because it pays Mr. MacNutt to pick up municipal garbage.

On the question of reinstatement, he said some of the men were re-employed, with possibly two exceptions, but they were laid off soon after that.

Youth Admits Guilt in Fatal Ganges Fire

A 15-year-old Ganges boy admitted delinquency and pleaded guilty in connection with charges of arson and criminal negligence causing death, in Ganges Family and Children's Court Thursday.

The youth was committed to Brannen Lake industrial school and to the care and custody of the superintendent of Child Welfare.

Charges arose from a Salt Spring Island fire April 17 in which Miss Sylvia Birch, a 51-year-old cripple who lived alone, died when her small frame home burned down.

An island resident for 15 years, Miss Birch lived on Rourke Road.

The youth previously pleaded guilty to an arson charge after a fire destroyed an old Salt Spring Island building April 15.

Smoke Nuisance? Not So They Say

Flyash fallout is at its peak for the year just now but it's nothing like the bad old days, City Hall and tourists seem agreed.

Freshman MP David Anderson of Esquimalt-Saanich today said he was appalled by the columns of smoke he has seen roll along the rooftops of the region and promised to try to help clear it up.

He said it was ridiculous to allow a tourist-conscious area to be shrouded in clouds of smoke from the Millstream and Hartland Road garbage dumps or the mills along the Gorge.

Mr. Anderson said he had made an appointment to see a B.C. Forest Products official Tuesday to find out what has been done to alleviate the problem in the industrial area and what more could be done.

Tax Write-Offs

He added there may be a good case for extending the 50 per cent tax write-off allowed on water pollution control equipment to include anti-air pollution devices.

However, City Engineer William Jorgenson said that graphs of air samples taken continuously since 1963 show a considerable decline in air pollution has taken place, particulary since the installation of new precipitators in BCFP's smokestacks and the conversion of two mills to electrical power supply.

Mr. Jorgenson said that "we are now in the peak period for the year as far as dust or flyash fallout is converned but it is considerably reduced from past years."

Thirty flyash sampling station scattered throughout the city have traced the decline in summer-month pollution.

High of 40 Tons

Mr. Jorgenson said the industrial zone of the city was recording "peaks" as high as 40 tons per square mile monthly and "valleys" down to 12 tons in winter months when the graph plotting began in 1963.

"In 1967 the industrial zone barely reached 20 tons at its highest and the low went down to seven tons last winter," he said.

"It has come up again because we are now at the summer peak and the graph shows we are at about 15 tons per square mile at the moment — so we've achieved a considerable improvement for the worst month."

He said fallout in residential districts has remained at a consistent average of five tons per square mile monthly ever since 1963 but an improvement is evident in the commercial districts where "peaks" of 17 tons and "valleys" of five tons dropped to a "'valley" last winter of four tons and the current "peak" of seven tons.

Mr. Jorgenson said two "soiling index" sample stations — one located at the worst area on Burnside and the other at the best area on Gonzales Hill to serve as a control comparison — also reveal improvements.

These samples measure the concentration of air contamination which causes soiling — as opposed to dust fallout — and it has been found that this condition reaches its worst peaks in the winter months when coal and oil-fired furnaces are in operation.

"The soiling index is measured in Coh units and our control station at Gonzales has pretty well remained at a consistent reading of about one-tenth of .1 Coh unit," said Mr. Jorgenson.

Levelled Out

"On the other hand the Burnside station began with valleys of .5 Coh units up to peaks of almost a full Coh unit in 1963 but have dropped down so that this past winter the peak was .3 and the latest reading show the valley has levelled out at .2 Coh units."

Mr. Jorgenson said the smoke inspector makes daily checks but has found sufficient co-operation from industrial operators that only about one warning has to be issued and no prosecutions have actually had to be launched under the smoke control bylaw.

"We have had quick response to every one of our warning's that situation was building up and as a result we have not had to prosecute," he said.

As a result of the improvement in the industrial zone, Mr. Jorgenson said the city now is about to begin "refining" its smoke control measures by a more intensive look at the secondary problems pose by commercial and private incinerators.

No Complaints

Victoria Visitors Bureau Commissioner Michael E. Heppel told the Times that he has received no complaints about air pollution, this year, in contrast to a few years ago when there was considerable criticism.

"As far as tourist are concerned we have had no complaints and I haven't noticed any complaints recently from motel operators or others in the tourist business," he said.

"At one time we used to receive many complaints but it has been my impression that the problem has been pretty well remedied."

More Activity At Shipyards Forecast

Increased activity on the local shipbuilding scene was forecast today by John Wallace, manager of Yarrows Ltd.

He said Yarrows is currently pursuing a "'greatly increased" range of activities to cover the entire North American market in an effort to get work.

In the field of oil discovery and exploration, Mr. Wallace said Yarrows will provide heavy lift equipment, and drill platforms — both floating and submersible. Equipment of this nature will cover markets in New York, New Orleans, Houston, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

He said efforts are being made to interest prospective customers in those areas in placing orders in Canada.

Currently under construction in the Burrard Drydock in Vancouver is a 350-foot crane derrick barge for Raymond International of New York. The barge — built to accommodate a 50-man crew — is a $5 million contract.

'EXTREMELY BLEAK'

On the federal government contract scene, Mr. Wallace said prospects are still "extremely bleak".

"It was announced prior to the last federal election that tenders for the replacement of the Estevan (a Department of Transport lighthouse tender) would be called shortly. As yet we have had no indication from the DoT when tenders will be called.

Again on the commercial cent discoveries of oil in Alasks aspects, Mr. Wallace said regive "every indication" there will be increased freight into the Mackenzie basin via Edmonton.

Mr. Wallace feels there will be a need for additional tugs and barges in the area.

"With any luck, these will be prefabricated on the west coast, then shipped by rail for assembly north of Edmonton."

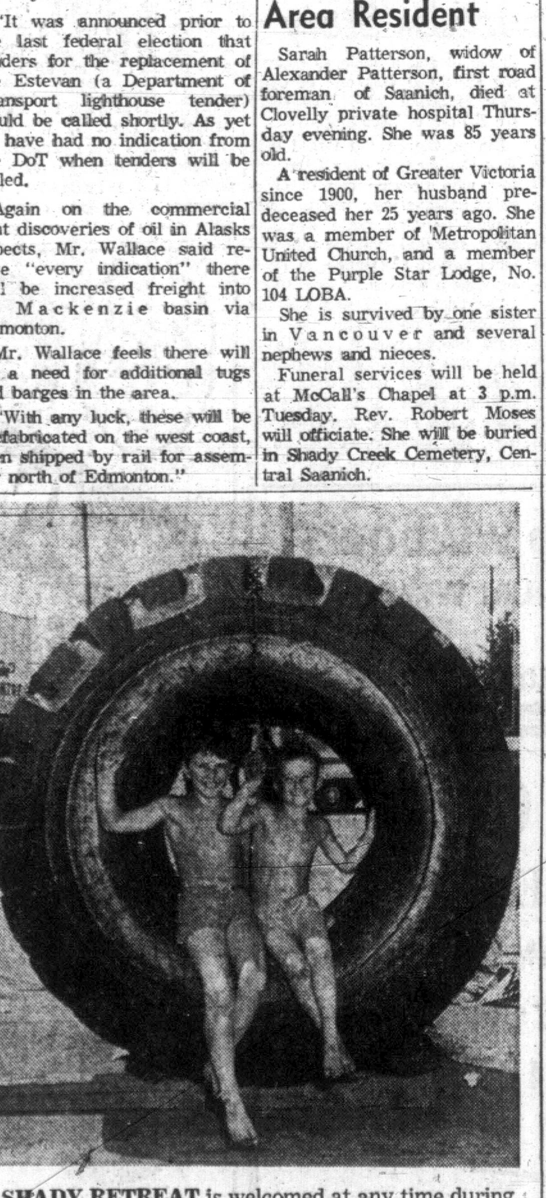
Rites Tuesday For Long-Time Area Resident

Sarah Patterson, widow of Alexander Patterson, first road foreman of Saanich, died at Clovelly private hospital Thursday evening. She was 85 years old.

A resident of Greater Victoria since 1900, her husband predeceased her 25 years ago. She was a member of Metropolitan United Church, and a member of the Purple Star Lodge, No. 104 LOBA.

She is survived by one sister in Vancouver and several nephews and nieces.

Funeral services will be held at McCall's Chapel at 3 p.m. Tuesday. Rev. Robert Moses will officiate. She will be buried in Shady Creek Cemetery, Central Saanich.



SHADY RETREAT is welcomed at any time during these hot days but when the shade happens to be a huge tire well, it can be a lot of fun too. Times photographer Irving Strickland came across brothers Leslie, 10, and David Galley, 8, of 2808 Rock Bay Avenue, as they sought some cool comfort at service station "eye catcher" walking along Douglas Street.

SAANICH SEWER VOTE

'Major Disaster If Bylaw Fails'

Substantial Rebates If Passed

Saanich municipal comptroller John Tribe says a "yes" vote on the September sewer consolidation bylaw would result in substantial rebates for many Saanich homeowners.

Following Thursday's press conference to outline details of the consolidation program Mr. Tribe was asked how the costs would be apportioned.

"Considering that the area to be created will contain 16,000 parcels (of land) the cost per parcel to meet present debt requirements would be $22.14," he answered. "Spreading the cost throughout the municipality would mean an actual rebate of $8.70 for existing sewer areas thus reducing their annual charge to $13.44."

●

Mr. Tribe said that originally it had been intended to allow for the established abatement to be made for the same number of years that the sewer tax had been paid.

"But in the case of sewer area number one this would result in a refund of more than has been paid on the principal. It would seem therefore that the most practicable method would be to allow the abatement to continue for enough years to take care of the various amounts paid on principal."

Sewer area number one, under the formula adopted by Saanich council, would receive sewer tax rebates for 16 years. It has been paying for sewers for 17 years.

●

Area two, paying for sewers for six years, would receive a rebate for eight years.

Willow, McBriar and Extensions would receive rebates for seven, five and three years, the number of years they have been paying for sewers.

Chesterlea, Northridge and Montclair would receive rebates for seven years, one year less than they have been paying for sewer services.

Planner Fears Lack of Growth

Municipal planner Tom Loney says Saanich will be faced "with a major disaster" if the attempt to introduce a uniform sewer system fails this fall.

Mr. Loney made the statement following a press conference Thursday at which Mayor Hugh Curtis outlined the Saanich plan for a fall vote and ran into a head-on clash with Dr. M. D. Faber of the Pollution Solution Society.

Mayor Curtis told the conference endorsation of the September bylaw which would see six existing sewer areas amalgamated into one with a common across-the-board charge to all home owners.

The mayor stressed that the fall vote had nothing at all to do with the present controversy on deepsea outfalls versus treatment plants.

"We are talking here of a collection system," he said. "A collection system we must have whatever the ultimate decision may be on the methods of final disposal."

Dr. Faber took over the floor to tell the mayor that he understood what Saanich was trying to do.

But, he added, unless the mayor declared himself in favor of treatment over sea-disposal "we will do everything in our power to defeat the referendum."

Mayor Curtis' reply was terse.

"I don't believe in talking with a gun to my head, in government or any other circumstances," he answered.

Planner Loney said this morning that he was disturbed at the attempts to cloud the "relatively simple decision facing Saanich voters."

"I think we had all half-hoped that those objecting to sewer outfalls would understand that we are trying to deal with a very serious situation within our municipal boundaries," he said. "We just must have an extended collection system, paid for on a basis that is fair to all taxpayers, if we are to progress.

'Almost Out of Sewered Land'

"We are almost out of sewered land in Saanich. If we do run out, and we shall if the bylaw is defeated, this municipality will be faced with a major disaster."

Mr. Loney said that land areas already earmarked as desirable for commercial or industrial development were rapidly being gobbled up by home builders.

"A year or two ago a home builder wouldn't have looked at these sites," he said. "They are just undesirable for residentaial use. But they have sewers and because they have sewers they have become desirable.

"If this trend isn't changed we shall have planning in Saanich but it will be planning by percolation."

Mr. Loney was referring to the limited amount of land left in the municipality where the soil is permeable enough to permit the use of septic tanks.

At the Thursday press conference Mayor Curtis said several large commercial projects for Saanich were waiting in the wings, unable to progress beyond the design stage because of lack of available sewered land.

"I cannot give you details at this time, but I can assure you that several large commercial projects are not going ahead at this time simply becuse Saanich cannot offer sewered land for those projects."

The mayor added that it was impossible for him to exaggerate the seriousness of the situation.

"In the simplest of terms, what we are endeavoring to do is clean up an internal mess in Saanich. A mess created years ago, a mess compounding itself each year as the municipality grows."

The mayor stated that in the six sewer areas now serving Saanich there were 45 different rate structures.

"We are now faced with a situation where our sewer system must expand to serve areas already plagued with septic tank problems, and to at least commence a program to eliminate the ghastly open ditches which spread like a spider's web through the municipality."

'Create 46th Rate Structure?'

Mayor Curtis said the decision facing council over the past year was "how should we expand our sewer system?

"Create yet another sewer area at exceptionally high cost to the users? Create yet another set of books, another accounting system, a 46th rate structure?

"Saanich council does not think so."

The mayor said his council was unanimous on the decision to go ahead with the bylaw vote although the Municipal Act made it possible to go ahead with the amalgamation proposal if the provincial cabinet approved the plan.

"But a long time ago this council decided that the ultimate decision really belonged to the taxpayers, and so we have chosen this democratic, if somewhat chancy way, of going about the task before us.

"Already we are beginning to regret calling this vote at all."

This morning Mayor Curtis said he was not surprised to be running into opposition but that he was surprised at the direction from which it was coming and the ferocity of the attack based on an issue far removed from the authority of Saanich council.

After threatening even fiercer opposition unless Saanich council declared its position on treatment versus outfalls, Dr. Faber agreed to meet with Mayor Curtis on Sunday in an attempt to arrive at a mutual understanding of the issues involved.

At the close of the sometimes stormy conference Mayor Curtis reiterated the essential points of the Saanich council stand:

- The September vote is not essentially a money bylaw. "Saanich will have to pay its share of regional sewer development costs no matter how it votes this fall. If the bylaw is defeated that regional cost share will have to be apportioned to sewer area number one instead, as we desire, of being shared by all property owners."
- The vote has nothing at all to do with the raw sewage versus treated sewage issue.
- It is simply a vote to consolidate and unite six divided sewer areas and arrive at a common cost sharing formula.

Mayor Curtis said he was not afraid to take a stand on the outfalls versus treatment issue. "But I think I should wait until after the one day study of all aspects planned for the near future," he said.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP) —Oilseeds and rye developed strength on fairly healthy export buying through to the close of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today.

All flax futures moved easily to higher levels after liberal hedging sales at the opening were well absorbed and offers thinned. There was a similar pattern in rapeseed and rye.

Feed grains were on a fractionally easier price pattern.

The wheat board announced that all oats spreads were lowered half a cent on the cash gran market.

Gains and losses were about equal.

The Toronto market posted a wide range of losses in light trading. Out of the 16 industrial groups, only steels, beverages and construction stocks were steady.

AT NEW YORK Phillips Petroleum, up four, paced the list of activity. The stock responded to news that Phillips would begin drilling two wells this winter in the same area in Alaska where a rich find recently spurred the stock of Atlantic Richfield.

Standard Oil (New Jersey) was active and up two in response to its increased dividends. Mobil Oil gained three, Standard of Indiana more than a point, Texaco nearly a point.

Other blue chips were spurred by the investment interest in oils.

AT TORONTO, in industrials, CPR fell 1⅜ to 58⅝, Fruehauf Trailer 1 to 15, International Utilities 1 to 50½, Levy Industries 1 to 28¾ and Revenue Properties ¾ to 35½.

Neon Products and Dylex Diversified were up 2 each to 40½ and 32½, Seaway Hotels 1⅜ to 18 and Ontario Store Fixture 1⅛ to 35⅝.

Scurry-Rainbow rose 2¾ to 37, Canadian Gridoil ⅞ to 13 and French Pete 35 cents to $7.10.

Patino dropped 1¾ to 28¾, Kerr Addison ⅝ to 17⅛ and Gunnar 30 cents to $3. New Quebec Raglan jumped 60 cents to $7.10 and Wright-Hargreaves 35 cents to $2.95.

AT MONTREAL papers and utilities led the downward trend in light trading today.

Uncertainty over mixed prices on the New York market led investors to remain cautious.

Great Lakes Paper slid 1 to 17¾, while CIP, MacMillan and Price each retreated ½.

International Utilities was off 2¼, CPR 1⅜, Bell Telephone ⅜ and Maritime Telephone ¼.

AT VANCOUVER — Prices were generally weaker in all sectors during quiet morning trading.

In the mining section Churchill Copper continued to trade actively, but dipped .05 to .95. Magnum, also an active trader, slipped .05 to $2.75.

Buchanan declined .07 to .23 and National Nickel was off .11 to $2.55.

Gainers included Atlas, up .10 to $3.20, Hearne Copper, up .15 to $3, and PCE Explorations, up .27 to $2.45.

In the industrial section, Inland Natural Gas dipped .75 to $9.75 and MacMillan Bloedel was off .62 to $22.

Oil trading was quiet with Sunlite up .4 to $6 and Trans Canada off .10 to $2.50.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP) —Oilseeds and rye developed strength on fairly healthy export buying through to the close of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today.

All flax futures moved easily to higher levels after liberal hedging sales at the opening were well absorbed and offers thinned. There was a similar pattern in rapeseed and rye.

Feed grains were on a fractionally easier price pattern.

The wheat board announced that all oats spreads were lowered half a cent on the cash gran market.

U.S. GNP Hot and Cool

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States economy churned ahead at a near-record inflationary pace during the second quarter of this year but has begun showing signs of an orderly cooling off, the commerce department reported.

The department said the gross national product jumped by $19,600,000,000 during the quarter to an annual rate of $850,800,000,000.

This was only slightly below the record $20,200,000,000 increase during the first three months of this year.

More than half the second-quarter advance represented a growth in real output but inflation continued to eat away at the economy.

William H. Chartener, assistant secretary of commerce for economic affairs, said inflation amounted to four per cent during the last year.

He said that in view of the recent U.S. tax increase, he looks for slower growth in the third and fourth quarters and a resumption of more normal economic growth next year.

Solids Pipeline Proposal by Shell

TORONTO (CP) — Shell Canada Ltd. has set up a new organization to seek federal approval to build a solids pipeline in western Canada.

The proposed pipeline would carry sulphur from southern Alberta to Vancouver, the company said. No cost estimates were given.

The company has been studying the possibility of shipping solids through a pipeline for some time.

Lockheed Aircraft

A drop of 15 cents per share in second quarter earnings, and 27 cents on the first half of this year is reported in Burbank, Calif., by Lockheed Aircraft.

Gains and losses were about equal.

The Toronto market posted a wide range of losses in light trading. Out of the 16 industrial groups, only steels, beverages and construction stocks were steady.

AT NEW YORK Phillips Petroleum, up four, paced the list of activity. The stock responded to news that Phillips would begin drilling two wells this winter in the same area in Alaska where a rich find recently spurred the stock of Atlantic Richfield.

Standard Oil (New Jersey) was active and up two in response to its increased dividends. Mobil Oil gained three, Standard of Indiana more than a point, Texaco nearly a point.

Other blue chips were spurred by the investment interest in oils.

AT TORONTO, in industrials, CPR fell 1⅜ to 58⅝, Fruehauf Trailer 1 to 15, International Utilities 1 to 50½, Levy Industries 1 to 28¾ and Revenue Properties ¾ to 35½.

Neon Products and Dylex Diversified were up 2 each to 40½ and 32½, Seaway Hotels 1⅜ to 18 and Ontario Store Fixture 1⅛ to 35⅝.

Scurry-Rainbow rose 2¾ to 37, Canadian Gridoil ⅞ to 13 and French Pete 35 cents to $7.10.

Patino dropped 1¾ to 28¾, Kerr Addision ⅝ to 17⅛ and Gunnar 30 cents to $3. New Quebec Raglan jumped 60 cents to $7.10 and Wright-Hargreaves 35 cents to $2.95.

AT MONTREAL papers and utilities led the downward trend in light trading today.

Uncertainty over mixed prices on the New York market led investors to remain cautious.

Great Lakes Paper slid 1 to 17¾, while CIP, MacMillan and Price each retreated ½.

International Utilities was off 2¼, CPR 1⅜, Bell Telephone ⅜ and Maritime Telephone ¼.

AT VANCOUVER — Prices were generally weaker in all sectors during quiet morning trading.
